Louisiana, Neighboring States Hit

COMBINED AP, UPI

Fresh tornadoes darted across the nation's midsection Friday night and cut into southwestern Mississippi as flash floods struck storm-weary Oklahoma.

Disaster workers counted 30 dead and 250 injured in Oklahoma and Arkansas as a result of storms that hit Thursday.

HAULED DOWN

The warnings were hauled down at 9 o'clock last night, with no immediate report of damages from that area. The Lafayette area was cited as ripe for the storms.

Lightning killed 15 animals on a plantation 12 miles east of Shreveport during thunderstorms which struck northwest Louisiana.

The lightning bolts killed nine cows, a calf, three saddle horses and a mule at the Sligo Plantation in Bossier Parish.

Slight damage, mostly broken tree limbs, was reported in other areas. The line of thunderstorms moved in from the west. High winds uprooted two trees in Shreveport where the weather bureau recorded peak winds in gusts of 45 miles per hour.

Heavy winds and hail in the Beuche community, in West Baton Rouge Parish damaged roofs of several houses and barns.

Some cotton and corn was damaged.

Many pecans, now about the size of small peas, were knocked off the trees in some groves in the Beuche area.

No injuries were reported.

In Baton Rouge itself, there was rainfall, but no storm damage.

The floods and cold—temperatures as low as 35 degrees were predicted Friday in Oklahoma — deepend the misery of persons whose homes were destroyed or badly damaged and made rescue work more difficult.

Bomb Threat Stops Trial In Florida

50 Demonstrators For Integration Put Under Arrest

By United Press International

Nearly 50 sitdown demonstrators were arrested at a Durham, N.C., dime store lunch counter Friday and a bomb threat interrupted the trials of other anti-segregation demonstrators at Tallahassee, Fla.

Warrants charging trespassing were sworn against seven white students and about 40 Negroes by the manager of a Durham S. H. Kress Co. store. The students took seats at the store's lunch counter during the noon rush hour and refused to leave. Police took them to jail.

The students, unable to post $25 bonds, were held in jail — in segregated cell blocks. They sang hymns while awaiting bondsmen.

The store affected was the scene of sitdown demonstrations last February and had kept its lunch counter closed until Thursday.

CLEARED

In Tallahassee, an anonymous note warning that a bomb was set to explode in the city courtroom was passed to Judge John Rudd during trial of 12 lunch counter demonstrators. Rudd ordered the courtroom cleared of a capacity crowd of about 150 spectators and a search by police proved the threat was a hoax.

Manager S. T. Davidson of a Tallahassee Woolworth's store, scene of the demonstration at which the defendants were arrested, testified that his store has a firm policy against serving Negroes at the lunch counter and that the policy was adopted in deference to local customs.

In other developments:

Rock Hill, S.C. — New anti-segregation demonstrations occurred in Rock Hill, with sitdown protests at lunch counters of two chain stores, following the conviction of 10 Negro students for demonstrations in March and April.

Washington, N. C. — A suit was filed in federal court asking a school desegregation order in Greene County, N.C. Orders permitting parents to appear in the action were signed Thursday by Federal Judge Algernon Butler.

Trouble Area Aid Bill Sent To Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate sent President Eisenhower a 251-million-dollar depressed areas aid bill Friday but the 45-32 vote fell far short of two-thirds needed to override an expected veto.

The Democratic-backed measure would authorize federal loans and grants to try to create new jobs in areas long suffering from unemployment.

Only last Tuesday the President urged Congress not to pass such a broad measure, but instead to send him the administration's 53-million-dollar bill.

Democrats are confident, however, that they have created a potent political issue for the fall campaign, even if the legislation falls before a veto.

POCKET VETO

Eisenhower killed a similar program with a pocket veto in 1958. Democrats have credited this with helping greatly their sweep in the congressional elections this fall.

The Senate accepted House changes cutting down the original Senate bill which totaled 389½ million dollars. The margin was seven less than needed to override a veto.

The 201-184 House vote by which the House cleared the bill Wednesday was even further from a two-thirds majority.

Democratic senators contended the Eisenhower administration was willing to spend more than four billion dollars on foreign aid, but was refusing to accept a program of a quarter of a billion dollars for distressed Americans at home.

Frazar Reported Seriously Sick

Frazar was transferred here today from Our Lady of the Lake Hospital in Baton Rouge. He suffered a series of strokes in recent months.

Both hospital and family spokesmen said his condition is so serious he cannot possibly have visitors.

UNION HALTS PICKETS

U. S Will Try To Stop Arabs' Ship Blacklist

NEW YORK (AP) — The Seafarers International Union stopped picketing the Arab ship Cleopatra Friday. It said it did so on the State Department's assurance that it will try to halt blacklisting of American shipping by Arab countries.

The 350 tons of cargo held on the ship is scheduled to remain there until Monday.

TIED UP

The picketing, which had tied up the freighter in New York harbor since April 13, led to a counterboycott of American shipping in Arab ports and stirred bitter protests from some Moslem countries. The State Department described the picketing as "embarrassing to the conduct of our government's foreign relations."

The SIU pickets were protesting the United Arab Republic's blacklisting of American ships that had served Israel ports. The AFL-CIO union also complained of alleged Arab mistreatment of American seamen.

The International Longshoremen's Assn. refused to cross the picket lines and the ship was never unloaded.

Paul Hall, president of the union, said however that the dropping of picketing might not be permanent. He said that if the State Department fails to act on the Arab shipping problem "We will have no other recourse but to resort to picketing" again.

The SIU action came after George Meany, AFL-CIO president, urged Hall to end the picketing. Meany said Acting Secretary of State C. Douglas Dillon had assured him the department would investigate grievances of American seamen and renew diplomatic efforts to protect American shipping against Arab port refusals to serve U.S. ships.

Mexico Turns Bolshevik's Killer Loose

Man Who Killed Stalin's Rival Heads For Cuba

MEXICO CITY, Mexico (UPI) — Jacques Monard, who murdered Leon Trotsky in 1940, was released from Prison Friday and left immediately by plane for Cuba, well informed sources said.

The sources said he was accompanied by two Czechoslovakians and carrying diplomatic passports.

Monard, who is believed to be a Spaniard by the name of Ramon Mercader, carried a Czechoslovakian passport giving his name as Jacques M. Barderdreschel. The Czechs were reported to be Ulrich Novicky and Edouard Fuchs.

USED AXE

The slaying of Trotsky climaxed a drama of international intrigue that began in 1928 when Stalin forced Trotsky and his wife, Natalia, into exile.

In the dozen years following that date and until the fatal axe blow delivered by Monard, many persons once closely associated with Trotsky, founder of the Red Army, were killed on Stalin's orders.

Trotsky was hiding here when he was found by Red agents in 1940. Monard was imported into Mexico for the slaying. He was captured shortly after Trotsky was killed.

The Interior Ministry deported him Friday, sources said, because he was in the country illegally when the murder occurred. He had served 20 years for the murder.

Other victims of Stalin's wrath included Trotsky's two sons, Leon

Newlyweds On Open Sea To Caribbean

The beautiful Princess and the commoner of her choice, married shortly before noon in Westminster Abbey, received the full panoply of an audience of a million en route to and from their marriage ceremony.

FAREWELL

Then the newlyweds bade farewell to the royal family and embarked on the yacht Britannia for the American tropics.

The Britannia was provided by her sister, Queen Elizabeth II, for the $100,000 honeymoon and in shiny new paint and with full crew steamed out of London through the Thames Estuary during the evening.

Along the route, crowds jammed sea walls and choruses of "good luck, God bless you" rang across the water.

Speculation that the Princess and her husband might go into the Gulf of Mexico and perhaps into a gulf port such as New Orleans, Galveston or the Florida coast, was just that—speculation without confirmation.

Princess Margaret has never been to the United States. Arm-

Opponent Of Menderes Hits Aid Use

Says Government In Turkey Using Money For Power

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) —Ismet Inonu, leader of the political opposition to Premier Adnan Menderes charged Friday the government is using American aid funds to stay in power.

Accusing Menderes of running an 'oppresive regime," the 75-year-old former president in effect appealed to the U.S. government to withhold aid funds until the Premier ends the tight restrictions on the press and political opposition.

UNLIKELY

Such action from Washington is considered unlikely. The United States has refrained from commenting on recent student demonstrations against Menderes and especially avoided comment on Menderes' tough political tactics. U.S. aid to Turkey since World War II totals more than two billion dollars.

Inonu, who as Kemal Ataturk's lieutenant in founding the modern Turkish republic 40 years ago, spoke with government permission at a news conference in the headquarters of his Republican party.

Inonu said Turkey needs and deserves American economic help but it should support the nation and not any political party.

"We must defend our own rights and freedom as a nation and I think we also can do so," he said. "We would be content if there was simply no encouragement to the present regime.

"I cannot say flatly that the United States is giving such encouragement. However, such an oppressive regime tends to exploit all relations for its own purposes."

Inonu, first frowning with his grey eyebrows and wizened face, then smiling beneath his trim grey mustache, said all Turkey is grateful for American aid.

Inonu, a former general, hinted he and his followers might turn to revolution if legal avenues of political protest remain blocked. The government now has a three-month ban on all political activity.

He hinted he might even count on at least passive support from the army, traditionally neutral in Turkish politics.

Three Youths Die Screaming As Fire Hits

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — (UPI) — Three young brothers died screaming in the flames which swept their frame apartment Friday despite efforts by their mother, firemen and a passerby to save them.

The boys, sons of Mrs. Robbie Arnold, were Michael, 6, Randall, 5, and Tommy, 4. They burned to death before dawn as the blaze from the burning building lighted the residential area just outside the city limits.

BURNED

Mrs. Arnold, 28, was burned on the back, chest, arms, and face. She was hospitalized in critical condition and was not told that her children had died.

W. C. Sweetman, 72, the building's owner who lived in a room at the rear of the home, was not injured.

Deputy Fire Marshal A. M. Willis said the fire apparently started at least 45 minutes before the alarm was sounded.

Weatherman Rides Again

Our weatherman just returned from his vacation, and apparently found a lot of unfinished business waiting.

So he wasn't in the best of humor when we arrived.

"How do I know what the weather's going to be like today?" he snapped. "I'm still trying to figure out what it's going to be like last Tuesday."

But, as always, he finally came through with a forecast of partly cloudy skies, slightly cooler temperatures and scattered showers.

Yesterday's high at Selman Field was 82, the low was 61.

Across the state, the forecast is the same. Skies will be partly cloudy to cloudy, temperatures will be noticeably lower and clouds will burst here and there from time to time.

OF REP. NAPPER

Dedicated Revenue Abolition Is Aim

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 12th in a series of articles on Fifth District legislators and their bills to be introduced in the Legislature. Rep. L. D. Napper of Ruston was interviewed for today's story.)

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

Rep. L. D. Napper of Ruston has plans for several items of legislation, but perhaps his most important is a resolution calling for a study of Louisiana's state spending.

The Lincoln Parish lawmaker disclosed his plans in an interview yesterday, at the same time expressing his belief that Rep. Tom Jewell of New Roads would be speaker of the house.

Napper said he had pledged his support to Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' choice for the speakership.

A Ruston attorney, Napper said he would sponsor a resolution calling for a "complete study" of Louisiana state spending "in hopes that legislation in the future can remove present dedication of revenues to allow proper and more economical and efficient distribution of state revenues."

He added, "This in itself should delete waste and with practice with other economies should ensure proper operation by state government through anticipated recurring revenues without the necessity of increased taxation."

Locally, Napper said he would work toward getting the "neces-

Indonesians Invade Dutch Envoy Home

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian University and high school students invaded the Dutch diplomatic compound and rampaged through the home of the Dutch envoy Friday to protest re-inforcement of Dutch military forces in Western New Guinea.

They pulled down the Dutch flag and smashed furniture and windows.

The outburst gave a sharp turn to the already tense, snarled relations between Indonesia and the Netherlands. Indonesia claims Western New Guinea - West Irian —and public opinion was inflamed last week by the announcement that the Dutch were sending military reinforcements to the big island.

PLANNED

Observers said the demonstrations were planned well in advance. Two hours before they broke out about 800 students gathered at Gedung Pemuda, the youth club premises, only about four blocks away from President Sukarno's palace.

Then the students broke up into two groups, one heading toward the tree - fringed Dutch diplomatic compound and the other to the official residence of the Dutch charge d'affaires, W. A. Frowein.

As they marched, more Indonesians, including adult men and women, joined the crowd. The demonstrators represented all shades of political opinion.

In the mission compound, one group forced open offices and damaged typewriters and furniture, smashed windows and pulled down a Dutch coat of arms and trampled on it. They hauled down the Dutch flag and hoisted the red and white Indonesian flag.

The demonstrators shouted "long live free Indonesia," and "chase the Dutch from West Irian." Walls were painted with slogans reading "Dutch go home" and "Chase off Dutch."

Inside Frowein's home another group of demonstrators toppled a statue, destroyed a piano, pulled mattresses from beds and damaged paintings.

Bids Accepted For Northeast

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Louisiana's State Board of Education accepted bids and approved requests on action affecting Northeast College here Friday.

Northeast received approval for campus lighting and the location of a biology- geology building. The board also accepted low bids for kitchen equipment and expansion of the Northeast gymnasium.

Yesterday's special meeting was called to consider capital outlay requests.

UNDERGROUND TEST

Minuteman Rips Through Flames

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The Minuteman ICBM—the U.S. more bang for the buck missile — climbed out of an underground silo Friday through a geyser of fire to complete the experiments that show the weapon can be fired from underground six months ahead of schedule.

Friday's was the eighth and final underground firing test of the 1,500-mile-an-hour missile.

Originally the Air force thought it would take at least 18 such tests to prove the Minuteman capable of being fired underground.

SAVED

Some 10 million dollars were saved in the highly successful silo phase, the Air Force said.

In addition to being deployed over the country, the Minuteman is scheduled to be placed aboard missile trains which would move about the United States to provide a target almost impossible to destroy.

In the test Friday, the three-stage solid fueled Minuteman was primed with just enough propellant for about 2½ minutes burning time.

Law Authority Asks Economic Cut To Cubans

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Dr. Edward D. Re, an authority on international law, Friday advocated strong economic measures against Cuba if protests against the seizure of American property go unheeded.

Dr. Re, professor of law at St. John's University in Brooklyn, addressed the section on international, comparative and military law of the annual meeting of the Louisiana Bar Assn.

He said the United States should make it clear to Cuba and any other nation which has invited American investments that this nation "will not tolerate the arbitrary seizure of American property abroad without just and reasonable compensation."

BLOCK ASSETS

"If protests in this connection are not heeded," Dr. Re said, "the United States should not hesitate to undertake economic and fiscal sanctions, even to the extent of blocking foreign assets located in this country."

International law, he said, provides that "just, reasonable and prompt" payment be made when private property is seized.

Dr. Re said that if the United States does not take a stern stand when American interests abroad are seized, there may be a loss of respect which could be more serious than any criticism based on "the unfounded charge of intervention."

Dr. Re cited figures showing

MISSISSIPPI MURDER

Bits Of Clothing Evidence In Trial

An FBI laboratory technician testified that seven blue cotton fibers found on the victim's blouse and pedal pushers, matched fibers in a blue and dark blue flannel shirt the state claims the Mississippi State University student wore the day of the pretty socialite's death.

C. G. McWright said he also examined a bathrobe of blue cotton flannel material found in the Tate house, and said there was a slight difference in color of fibers found on Mrs. Tate's clothes and those in the robe.

Under cross-examination, McWright said he reported to Columbus police that the examination of fibers of the robe tended to weaken the evidence in connection with the shirt.

"I could not eliminate the possibility that the fibers came from the robe," he said, "however, there was a slight dissimilarity of color.

Under questioning by the state, McWright testified the fibers could have been transferred easily by one person bumping into another, or by other such bodily contact. Defense attorney Jesse P. Stennis

Youngster, 4, Drowns In Pond In West Monroe

Sheriff's deputies said the boy drowned in a private pond behind Roach's Nursery on Highway 80.

According to deputies, the youth had accompanied his mother, Mrs. Ruby Lee Aswell, to the nursery. While she was transacting some business inside, he wandered down to the pond and fell in.

A few minutes later a nursery employee, Kermit Kennedy, saw the boy in the water, jumped in and pulled him out. An ambulance was summoned and the child was rushed to St. Francis hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 4 p.m.

The boy lived with his mother at 1412 Bennie Breese St. in West Monroe. His father, Tommy Alton Aswell, lives on Route one, Ruston.

"I cannot say flatly that the United States is giving such encouragement. However, such an oppressive regime tends to exploit all relations for its own purposes."

Inonu, first frowning with his grey eyebrows and wizened face, then smiling beneath his trim grey mustache, said all Turkey is grateful for American aid.

Inonu, a former general, hinted he and his followers might turn to revolution if legal avenues of political protest remain blocked. The government now has a three-month ban on all political activity.

He hinted he might even count on at least passive support from the army, traditionally neutral in Turkish politics.

Newlyweds On Open Sea To Caribbean

The beautiful Princess and the commoner of her choice, married shortly before noon in Westminster Abbey, received the full panoply of an audience of a million en route to and from their marriage ceremony.

FAREWELL

Then the newlyweds bade farewell to the royal family and embarked on the yacht Britannia for the American tropics.

The Britannia was provided by her sister, Queen Elizabeth II, for the $100,000 honeymoon and in shiny new paint and with full crew steamed out of London through the Thames Estuary during the evening.

Along the route, crowds jammed sea walls and choruses of "good luck. God bless you" rang across the water.

Speculation that the Princess and her husband might go into the Gulf of Mexico and perhaps into a gulf port such as New Orleans, Galveston or the Florida coast, was just that—speculation without confirmation.

Princess Margaret has never been to the United States. Arm-

Three Youths Die Screaming As Fire Hits

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — (UPI) — Three young brothers died screaming in the flames which swept their frame apartment Friday despite efforts by their mother, firemen and a passerby to save them.

The boys, sons of Mrs. Robbie Arnold, were Michael, 6, Randall, 5, and Tommy, 4. They burned to death before dawn as the blaze from the burning building lighted the residential area just outside the city limits.

BURNED

Mrs. Arnold, 28, was burned on the back, chest, arms, and face. She was hospitalized in critical condition and was not told that her children had died.

W. C. Sweetman, 72, the building's owner who lived in a room at the rear of the home, was not injured.

Deputy Fire Marshal A. M. Willis said the fire apparently started at least 45 minutes before the alarm was sounded.

Weatherman Rides Again

Our weatherman just returned from his vacation, and apparently found a lot of unfinished business waiting.

So he wasn't in the best of humor when we arrived.

"How do I know what the weather's going to be like today?" he snapped. "I'm still trying to figure out what it's going to be like last Tuesday."

But, as always, he finally came through with a forecast of partly cloudy skies, slightly cooler temperatures and scattered showers.

Yesterday's high at Selman Field was 82, the low was 61.

Across the state, the forecast is the same. Skies will be partly cloudy to cloudy, temperatures will be noticeably lower and clouds will burst here and there from time to time.

OF REP. NAPPER

Dedicated Revenue Abolition Is Aim

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 12th in a series of articles on Fifth District legislators and their bills to be introduced in the Legislature. Rep. L. D. Napper of Ruston was interviewed for today's story.)

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

Rep. L. D. Napper of Ruston has plans for several items of legislation, but perhaps his most important is a resolution calling for a study of Louisiana's state spending.

The Lincoln Parish lawmaker disclosed his plans in an interview yesterday, at the same time expressing his belief that Rep. Tom Jewell of New Roads would be speaker of the house.

Napper said he had pledged his support to Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' choice for the speakership.

A Ruston attorney, Napper said he would sponsor a resolution calling for a "complete study" of Louisiana state spending "in hopes that legislation in the future can remove present dedication of revenues to allow proper and more economical and efficient distribution of state revenues."

He added, "This in itself should delete waste and with practice with other economies should ensure proper operation by state government through anticipated recurring revenues without the necessity of increased taxation."

Locally, Napper said he would work toward getting the "neces-

Indonesians Invade Dutch Envoy Home

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian University and high school students invaded the Dutch diplomatic compound and rampaged through the home of the Dutch envoy Friday to protest re-inforcement of Dutch military forces in Western New Guinea.

They pulled down the Dutch flag and smashed furniture and windows.

The outburst gave a sharp turn to the already tense, snarled relations between Indonesia and the Netherlands. Indonesia claims Western New Guinea - West Irian —and public opinion was inflamed last week by the announcement that the Dutch were sending military reinforcements to the big island.

PLANNED

Observers said the demonstrations were planned well in advance. Two hours before they broke out about 800 students gathered at Gedung Pemuda, the youth club premises, only about four blocks away from President Sukarno's palace.

Then the students broke up into two groups, one heading toward the tree - fringed Dutch diplomatic compound and the other to the official residence of the Dutch charge d'affaires, W. A. Frowein.

As they marched, more Indonesians, including adult men and women, joined the crowd. The demonstrators represented all shades of political opinion.

In the mission compound, one group forced open offices and damaged typewriters and furniture, smashed windows and pulled down a Dutch coat of arms and trampled on it. They hauled down the Dutch flag and hoisted the red and white Indonesian flag.

The demonstrators shouted "long live free Indonesia," and "chase the Dutch from West Irian." Walls were painted with slogans reading "Dutch go home" and "Chase off Dutch."

Inside Frowein's home another group of demonstrators toppled a statue, destroyed a piano, pulled mattresses from beds and damaged paintings.

Bids Accepted For Northeast

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — Louisiana's State Board of Education accepted bids and approved requests on action affecting Northeast College here Friday.

Northeast received approval for campus lighting and the location of a biology- geology building. The board also accepted low bids for kitchen equipment and expansion of the Northeast gymnasium.

Yesterday's special meeting was called to consider capital outlay requests.

UNDERGROUND TEST

Minuteman Rips Through Flames

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The Minuteman ICBM—the U.S. more bang for the buck missile — climbed out of an underground silo Friday through a geyser of fire to complete the experiments that show the weapon can be fired from underground six months ahead of schedule.

Friday's was the eighth and final underground firing test of the 1,500-mile-an-hour missile.

Originally the Air force thought it would take at least 18 such tests to prove the Minuteman capable of being fired underground.

SAVED

Some 10 million dollars were saved in the highly successful silo phase, the Air Force said.

In addition to being deployed over the country, the Minuteman is scheduled to be placed aboard missile trains which would move about the United States to provide a target almost impossible to destroy.

In the test Friday, the three-stage solid fueled Minuteman was primed with just enough propellant for about 2½ minutes burning time.

Law Authority Asks Economic Cut To Cubans

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Dr. Edward D. Re, an authority on international law, Friday advocated strong economic measures against Cuba if protests against the seizure of American property go unheeded.

Dr. Re, professor of law at St. John's University in Brooklyn, addressed the section on international, comparative and military law of the annual meeting of the Louisiana Bar Assn.

He said the United States should make it clear to Cuba and any other nation which has invited American investments that this nation "will not tolerate the arbitrary seizure of American property abroad without just and reasonable compensation."

BLOCK ASSETS

"If protests in this connection are not heeded," Dr. Re said, "the United States should not hesitate to undertake economic and fiscal sanctions, even to the extent of blocking foreign assets located in this country."

International law, he said, provides that "just, reasonable and prompt" payment be made when private property is seized.

Dr. Re said that if the United States does not take a stern stand when American interests abroad are seized, there may be a loss of respect which could be more serious than any criticism based on "the unfounded charge of intervention."

Dr. Re cited figures showing

Flotilla Set To Depart Here

Approximately 12 boats from the Monroe area leave early today for Baton Rouge, to take part in the huge inaugural flotilla.

They will join about 400 boats, in a parade along the Mississippi River past the state capital at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Don Kurtz, flotilla chairman from Monroe, said the purpose is to honor incoming governor Jimmie H. Davis, who will be sworn in Tuesday. The flotilla from the entire state will point up the large number of navigable rivers in Louisiana.

MISSISSIPPI MURDER

Bits Of Clothing Evidence In Trial

An FBI laboratory technician testified that seven blue cotton fibers found on the victim's blouse and pedal pushers, matched fibers in a blue and dark blue flannel shirt the state claims the Mississippi State University student wore the day of the pretty socialite's death.

C. G. McWright said he also examined a bathrobe of blue cotton flannel material found in the Tate house, and said there was a slight difference in color of fibers found on Mrs. Tate's clothes and those in the robe.

Under cross-examination, McWright said he reported to Columbus police that the examination of fibers of the robe tended to weaken the evidence in connection with the shirt.

"I could not eliminate the possibility that the fibers came from the robe," he said, "however, there was a slight dissimilarity of color.

Under questioning by the state, McWright testified the fibers could have been transferred easily by one person bumping into another, or by other such bodily contact. Defense attorney Jesse P. Stennis

Youngster, 4, Drowns In Pond In West Monroe

Sheriff's deputies said the boy drowned in a private pond behind Roach's Nursery on Highway 80.

According to deputies, the youth had accompanied his mother, Mrs. Ruby Lee Aswell, to the nursery. While she was transacting some business inside, he wandered down to the pond and fell in.

A few minutes later a nursery employee, Kermit Kennedy, saw the boy in the water, jumped in and pulled him out. An ambulance was summoned and the child was rushed to St. Francis hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 4 p.m.

He also has high hopes of getting enough money to complete the D'Arbonne Lake project, which will create the south's largest man-made lake in Lincoln and Union parishes.

Napper said he would join Sen. R. R. Patton and Rep. T. T. Fields, both of Farmerville, in efforts for D'Arbonne appropriations. About $200,000 is needed to complete the job.

As a member of the joint legislative committee, Napper explained that he would assist in handling the committee's proposed legislation.

There are reports that the committee, once headed by Sen. W. M. Rainach, will offer 10 bills directed in channels to preserve segregation.

In line with this, Napper will co-sponsor legislation being prepared by the District Attorneys Association to strengthen Louisiana voter registration laws, plus putting teeth in the trespass and riot statutes.

"I intend to assist in the creation of the sovereignty commission," he said. This commission, a means to fight integration, is a Davis promise to Rainach, unsuccessful candidate for governor.

An attorney's bill to revise the Louisiana code of practice, prepared by the Louisiana Law Institute, also will get Napper's support.

In addition, Napper is interested in legislation to insure proper measurement to the royalty owner in regards to gas produced and sold.

Like so many other legislators, Napper will go to Baton Rouge with intentions of making changes in the welfare department, "particularly those relating to illegitimate children."

He added, "I certainly hope that this administration can be the leader in operating our state government in its proper perspective to render services which are the obligation of the state and at the same time preserve all property rights to the public without becoming a centralized, socialized government."

Newlyweds On Open Sea To Caribbean

strong-Jones was there two years ago for a brief visit.

The honeymoon voyage probably is a six-week cruise. The Princess, even though she now is Mrs. Antony Armstrong-Jones, is due back by June 24 to resume her royal duties.

Beautiful weather accompanied the honeymooners.

It was a warm sunny day as Margaret murmured "I will" in the historic old abbey.

A million or more persons crowded London's streets for the pageantry, the most spectacular in Britain since the coronation.

Tears flowed. Surging crowds stormed through police cordons. Well-wishers showered the bridal pair with rose petals. Applause volleyed through the streets.

Crowning it all was the solemn Anglican service of marriage—and the romance of a princess with a commoner.

Margaret is the first British princess in nearly 500 years to marry a man without a title.

There was only one moment of faltering in the ceremony. It came as she was repeating words intoned by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher.

"I, Margaret Rose, take thee, Antony Charles Robert, to my wedded husband, to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse." Then she paused.

The microphone hanging directly over her head picked up what sounded like a half-choked murmur—evidently she started to recite the next phrase.

"For better for worse," the archbishop said again.

Another hitch developed on the drive to the point of embarkation. The bridal car became snarled in the crush of traffic that has been plaguing London for days.

Spectators broke police lines—as they did earlier in the day at Buckingham Palace—and engulfed the car. The car edged along at a walking pace for a quarter of a mile, as police struggled to clear a path.

that Cuba had one of the highest national incomes in Latin America because of United States private investors.

He said Cuba had seized 272,000 acres of United Fruit Co. land for a payment of six million dollars although the land was worth 32 million.

John D. Randall of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, president of the American Bar Assn. (ABA), said it is the duty of law profession to "spark the drive for law reform and improvement in the administration of justice."

He noted that the ABA had backed the omnibus judgship bill which calls for 43 new federal judgships, four of them in Louisiana.

"I need not stress the importance of this legislation before a group of lawyers for we know well the cost of neglect of our judicial system," Randall said. "We pay the price in increased delay and hardship for the litigants."

Randall said the ABA had backed bills to set up an independent office of Federal Administrative Practice.

"This program," he said, "calls for an increased status and independence of the hearing officials, improved legal services within government, proper qualifications and standards of conduct for anyone who represents others before agencies."

Randall added that the program also would include a comprehensive code of federal administrative procedure and the creation of courts of special jurisdiction.

He observed that the Louisiana Bar Assn. had a notable record of service to its state.

Arrest Three On Soliciting Charges Here

Arrested were Harold W. Struner, 59, Centralia, Ill.; Hazel Perry, 41, Coffeville, Ala.; and James Lee Odds, 17, Baton Rouge Negro.

All three were charged with violating a city ordinance prohibiting door - to -door sales.

The ordinance was the center of a controversy several months back, when police began an enforcement campaign.

Police said the three were selling magazine subscriptions. Assistant police Chief George Wood said they were apply traveling together.

Flash floods cut at least four highways in the Oklahoma disaster area and six others in northwest Arkansas. Fayetteville, Ark. reported 4.75 inches of rain.

The Oklahoma highway patrol reported 82 homes destroyed, 34 others with major damage and 122 with minor damage. Twenty-two places of business were destroyed, 12 suffered major damage and 41 suffered minor damage.

One or more tornadoes raked southwestern Mississippi. One house was demolished, 12 others lifted off their foundations and about 50 more damaged in Lexie.

Mexico Turns Bolshevik's Killer Loose

For nine years after 1928, the Trotsky's moved about Europe. They were granted asylum in Mexico in 1939 and bought a residence in the Mexico City suburb of Coyoacan.

Attempts against Trotsky's life were not long in coming. In May of 1940, a small army of machine gunners sprayed the Trotsky bedroom with bullets. Trotsky flung himself and his wife to the floor and they escaped injury.

After the attack, the three windows along the north side of the home were curtained with concrete over half their lengths and a small door and two windows were closed with bricks and mortar. This left a wide iron door leading from the street to the patio as the only entrance into the 15-room, two-story brick structure.

Guards were doubled and kept constant vigil in a heavily reinforced tower perched on the wall commanding an unobstructed view of all approaches to the house.

Despite these precautions, Monard, known to the Trotskys as "Frank Jackson," dealt the death blow.

Monard gained the confidence of Trotsky by posing as an admirer of the deposed leader. While the two were in Trotsky's upstairs study, Monard swung the weapon he had concealed in the folds of his raincoat as he walked past the unsuspecting guards.

It was a clumsy blow and Trotsky's screams brought Natalia and the guards.

Trotsky, still conscious, pointed to Monard and commanded the guards, "Don't kill him. He must talk."

They were not his last words. Those were whispered to his wife, who cradled his bleeding head in her arms.

"Natacha," he murmured, "I love you."

Then he lapsed into unconsciousness and died the next morning.

Monard was sentenced to Mexico's federal penitentiary for the slaying. He lived in comparative luxury from a mysterious supply of funds.

A circuit court once ruled that he must serve out his prison term, declaring that a parole could not be granted because he was a foreigner who had entered Mexico illegally.

questioned him closely about other ways the fibers could have been transferred.

Ways suggested by Stennis included from one person to a child to another person; from a person to a dog to another person, and from a person to a car seat or furniture to another person.

Stennis also questioned several witnesses on the possibility of fibers getting on Mrs. Tate's clothes between the time her body was discovered and the time the clothes were examined by the FBI.

McWright said there was a possibility of these things, but that he considered the possibilities mentioned, as remote.

Stennis, in his questioning, suggested that it could have occurred at the scene when officers and people gathered, at the funeral home and when the clothes were transferred to police in a used paper bag.

State attorneys called Irwin Tate, the husband of the victim, and Lt. Louis Harper of the city police department back to the stand. They told the jury the clothes were properly handled.

Tate testified the robe had been on a shelf in an upstairs bedroom from Christmas until after his wife's death. Harper said no one had access to the clothes after he got them.

John Thomas, an undertaker who removed the body from the garage, has been summoned to testify again Saturday. Thomas previously told of taking the clothing, placing it in a paper bag and delivering it to police.

John D. Randall of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, president of the American Bar Assn. (ABA), said it is the duty of law profession to "spark the drive for law reform and improvement in the administration of justice."

He noted that the ABA had backed the omnibus judgship bill which calls for 43 new federal judgships, four of them in Louisiana.

"I need not stress the importance of this legislation before a group of lawyers for we know well the cost of neglect of our judicial system," Randall said. "We pay the price in increased delay and hardship for the litigants."

Randall said the ABA had backed bills to set up an independent office of Federal Administrative Practice.

"This program," he said, "calls for an increased status and independence of the hearing officials, improved legal services within government, proper qualifications and standards of conduct for anyone who represents others before agencies."

Randall added that the program also would include a comprehensive code of federal administrative procedure and the creation of courts of special jurisdiction.

He observed that the Louisiana Bar Assn. had a notable record of service to its state.

West Monroe, will take place when bids are opened at Baton Rouge at 1 a.m., on May 12, according to Wayne Huckaby, district highway engineer.

This sale will be the second one held by the state to assure right of way through the immediate area on the west side of the Ouachita River in this parish.

Graduates

The final days of the current month will have the interest of the public and those immediately concerned parents of graduates. The number of graduates of Northeast State College here will total 243. These figures are inclusive of those who completed their credit hours last year near its close.

Baccalaureate exercises are set at the college here on Sunday May 29 at 5 p.m., in Brown hall on the campus. The commencement exercises are set for May 30 at 6:30 p.m. on the lawn of the president, states Jasper Hammons, chairman of Commencement arrangements.

One hundred thirty - nine of the graduates are from Ouachita Parish; Morehouse parish 17, Franklin Parish 14, Richland Parish 13 and Union Parish nine.

The education division leads the 100 receiving degrees. The school of pharmacy, 38; business administration, 34; agriculture and home economics 24, geology 14, liberal arts 13; physics six; chemistry five; biology, three fine arts three and the department of mathematics, three .

Lion Officers

J. Allan Norris, Mayor of West Monroe, was installed as president of the West Monroe Lions Club Wednesday night. Bobby C. Wilson, the club's secretary was honored as the leading member of the club the past year.

Others elected and installed were: Warren McGee, first vice president; H. H. Guin, second vice president; K. D. Norris, third vice president; Bobby Wilson, secretary; Loy Heard, tail twister, Ira Hill, Lion Tamer; R. S. Kinnison and Johnny Carter, directors.

Arrest Three On Soliciting Charges Here

Arrested were Harold W. Struner, 59, Centralia, Ill.; Hazel Perry, 44, Coffeville, Ala.; and James Lee Odds, 17, Baton Rouge Negro.

All three were charged with violating a city ordinance prohibiting door - to -door sales.

The ordinance was the center of a controversy several months back, when police began an enforcement campaign.

Police said the three were selling magazine subscriptions. Assistant police Chief George Wood said they were aply traveling together.

Co-Editors Of Annual Named At Neville High

southeastern Oklahoma, was the hardest hit. It was almost wiped out. A twister swooped out of a low, black cloud, killed 13 persons at Wilburton and injured about 100 others before they could find shelter.

Flash floods cut at least four highways in the Oklahoma disaster area and six others in northwest Arkansas. Fayetteville, Ark. reported 4.75 inches of rain.

The Oklahoma highway patrol reported 82 homes destroyed, 34 others with major damage and 122 with minor damage. Twenty-two places of business were destroyed, 12 suffered major damage and 41 suffered minor damage.

One or more tornadoes raked southwestern Mississippi. One house was demolished, 12 others lifted off their foundations and about 50 more damaged in Lexie.

Mexico Turns Bolshevik's Killer Loose

For nine years after 1928, the Trotsky's moved about Europe. They were granted asylum in Mexico in 1939 and bought a residence in the Mexico City suburb of Coyoacan.

Attempts against Trotsky's life were not long in coming. In May of 1940, a small army of machine gunners sprayed the Trotsky bedroom with bullets. Trotsky flung himself and his wife to the floor and they escaped injury.

After the attack, the three windows along the north side of the home were curtained with concrete over half their lengths and a small door and two windows were closed with bricks and mortar. This left a wide iron door leading from the street to the patio as the only entrance into the 15-room, two-story brick structure.

Guards were doubled and kept constant vigil in a heavily reinforced tower perched on the wall commanding an unobstructed view of all approaches to the house.

Despite these precautions, Monard, known to the Trotskys as "Frank Jackson," dealt the death blow.

Monard gained the confidence of Trotsky by posing as an admirer of the deposed leader. While the two were in Trotsky's upstairs study, Monard swung the weapon he had concealed in the folds of his raincoat as he walked past the unsuspecting guards.

It was a clumsy blow and Trotsky's screams brought Natalia and the guards.

Trotsky, still conscious, pointed to Monard and commanded the guards, "Don't kill him. He must talk."

They were not his last words. Those were whispered to his wife, who cradled his bleeding head in her arms.

"Natacha," he murmured, "I love you."

Then he lapsed into unconsciousness and died the next morning.

Monard was sentenced to Mexico's federal penitentiary for the slaying. He lived in comparative luxury from a mysterious supply of funds.

A circuit court once ruled that he must serve out his prison term, declaring that a parole could not be granted because he was a foreigner who had entered Mexico illegally.

Bits Of Clothing Evidence In Trial

questioned him closely about other ways the fibers could have been transferred.

Ways suggested by Stennis included from one person to a child to another person; from a person to a dog to another person, and from a person to a car seat or furniture to another person.

Stennis also questioned several witnesses on the possibility of fibers getting on Mrs. Tate's clothes between the time her body was discovered and the time the clothes were examined by the FBI.

McWright said there was a possibility of these things, but that he considered the possibilities mentioned, as remote.

Stennis, in his questioning, suggested that it could have occurred at the scene when officers and people gathered, at the funeral home and when the clothes were transferred to police in a used paper bag.

State attorneys called Irwin Tate, the husband of the victim, and Lt. Louis Harper of the city police department back to the stand. They told the jury the clothes were properly handled.

Tate testified the robe had been on a shelf in an upstairs bedroom from Christmas until after his wife's death. Harper said no one had access to the clothes after he got them.

John Thomas, an undertaker who removed the body from the garage, has been summoned to testify again Saturday. Thomas previously told of taking the clothing, placing it in a paper bag and delivering it to police.

IN WEST VIRGINIA

Almost Everyone Runs For Office

SLAB FORK, W. Va. (AP) — Anyone who doesn't live in or around West Virginia may think the presidential primaries next Tuesday are providing the only political entertainment around here.

No impression could be more erroneous.

On a drive to this coal mining town, some 70 miles southeast of Charleston, one could see countless bumper stickers, billboards, cars so plastered with posters the drivers could scarcely see out. All advertised the political wares of men who yearn to be everything from constable to governor.

With the exception of a lonely Humphrey sound truck, there wasn't a clue that Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) are grabbing for a stranglehold that could smother the other's presidential hopes.

Or worse, as each man must by now gloomily concede to himself, this wearying, costly bitter fight may damage them both.

Anyone who accepts all the free cards, free pamphlets and free literature thrust at him becomes a walking fire hazard.

West Virginians must be the hardiest voters in the world. The ballots are extremely long. In Kanawha County—Charleston is both the state capital and the county seat—the Democratic primary ballot has 180 names.

Ballots are printed alphabetically. A local joke maintains that anyone with a name that begins below F is out of luck. The voter will have made his choice by then.

The joke has some truth since 53 candidates seek the 11 Kanawha County seats in the state House of Delegates. Of these, 29 have names starting with A, B or C.

West Virginia's economic plight is another topic for constant debate. Almost daily Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, a Republican running for the U. S. Senate, blasts off at publicists and Democrats for giving this state a bad name.

He calls it "feasting on famine."

A. J. (Al) Walker, the mine boss here who is running for the Board of Education, says "we employ 411 men and the April payroll was $218,000."

"That's $500 apiece," said the superintendent, E. H. Banker.

But travel only a few miles from here, to Stafford Mine No. 2 which Kennedy visited Thursday, and the story is different.

"We need more work days, senator," Lee Piziak said. The mine is open three or four days a week.

Drift on up to Oak Hill. Once this area had 150 mines; now only four are left.

Or you can dine well in Charleston, and hear a well fed, well paunched mortgage dealer explain how prosperous everything is.

It seems these are good times in West Virginia—if you're working. If you're not working, run for office.

Johnson Says Veto Blocked Medical Plan

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson D-Tex said Friday night that Democratic efforts to help aged, needy, sick and homeless people "have been blocked by obstruction and by veto."

"What we need is an administration that knows how to work in overalls," he said. "An administration that does not believe — like this one — you can blandly ignore the pockets of depression, even of misery."

Johnson, the Senate majority leader and a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, attacked the Republican administration in an address prepared for a party dinner here. He was en route to Clarksburg, W. Va., for a speech Saturday night.

Johnson predicted the election of "a progressive, Democratic presient which will usher in a new age of leadership" and the return of another Democratic Congress to Washington.

"Except for its great efforts to raise interest rates," he said, "we have been witness to a Republican administration bent on making a career of inaction."

On the problems of areas of chronic unemployment, he charged that "even a study of the sore spots was too much for this administration."

Students Get Recognition On Publications

Seven West Monroe High School students have received recognition for their work on class publications.

Mrs. Betty Walker, journalism instructor, said the awards are given to promote continuing excellence in newspaper reporting and annual production, and to recognize students who excell in these phases of journalism.

DAZZLING WEDDING

Margaret's Attire Tops In Fashions

LONDON (AP) — From bridal white to cool Caribbean yellow, Princess Margaret stole the fashion show at her dazzling wedding and going-away excitement Friday.

And that went for her hairdo, too.

Her famous dressmakers and hairdressers must have been happy with the results.

She stunned the crowds with her surprisingly simple, virgin white wedding gown for the Westminster Abbey ceremony.

Then, when she motored as Mrs. Antony Armstrong-Jones with her husband to the royal yacht Britannia for the honeymoon cruise in the Caribbean she did it again.

Comment on her Norman Hartnell costume for the ceremony was ecstatic. The classic white organza gown and full-length veil were a triumph of simplicity. They were also a break with the royal tradition of state dresses elaborately encrusted with jeweled embroidery.

The bride's going-away costume was made for her by Victor Stiebel. Almost sleeveless, with bias bodice, high neckline and cross-draped skirt, it was clearly designed with summery cruise weather in mind.

She wore a matching yellow silk shantung coat over it, and a fashionable boule hat of pale yellow tulle ruching. Packed in her trunks were more honeymoon dresses from Paris designers Yves Saint Laurent of Dior, and Jean Desses.

The fact that secrets of the severely simple wedding gown leaked out more than a week ago did not seem to spoil it for anybody. There had been talk that Hartnell might have to whisk up another model but Margaret liked her dress and kept it. Said a Hartnell representative with obvious relief, "Nothing happened, so the leak didn't matter."

The three queens who took back seats on Princess Margaret's big day were her mother, her sister Queen Elizabeth, and a guest of honor, Queen Ingrid of Denmark. The latter two wore colored dresses and the Queen Mother white and gold, leaving the glory of pure white to the bride alone.

The towering chignon that French hairdresser Rene pinned atop Princess Margaret's head was the biggest surprise she gave the waiting crowds.

Her diamond tiara was so tall it looked like a royal crown. Whether she will keep her new chignon to pin on for other formal occasions remains to be seen, but it suits her so well it's likely she will.

It was Margaret's sweetly sentimental touch to have her first evening gown, a girlish confection sugared with ribbon threaded ruffles, copied for her little bridesmaids. She remembered that it was her father's favorite, and thus remembered him on her great day.

Appreciation Day Is Planned For Teachers

JONESBORO (Special) — The Jackson Parish Police Jury has proclaimed Monday "Teacher Appreciation Day" as a parish-wide project.

W. C. Abbott, president of the Jonesboro - Hodge Kiwanis Club sponsoring the event, said the day was proclaimed in order to "focus public attention on the value of teachers to our communities and express appreciation for their work."

At 7:30 p.m. teachers and school officials will be guests at a dinner at the Jonesboro - Hodge High School with Dr. George T. Walker, president of Northeast State College, Monroe, guest speaker.

Account Damage After Twister In Ruston Area

RUSTON (Special) — No injuries were reported following a tornado which passed through the outskirts of Ruston yesterday.

The twister left a trail of wrecked buildings and splintered timber in the northern edge of the city, according to reports. A Negro residence was carried several feet from its foundations by the wind, which came at the height of a heavy rainstorm.

The path of the tornado followed a northwesterly course across Lincoln Parish. Winds ripped a 20 - by - 30 foot hole in the roof of the Diamond Industries main plant and swept away an adjacent storage shed which was reported still missing.

Other homes and barns along Highway 80 in the Barnett Springs area were damaged by the winds.

Dixie-Picked President?

Almost a landslide victory for States' Rights elector candidates in the recent Alabama Democratic primary gives an idea of what may happen in this year's presidential election if the Democrats try to ignore the south in the convention to be held in Los Angeles in July.

Uncommitted electors or electors pledged to bolt the national party if necessary to protect the "southern way of life" could throw the election of a president and vice-president into the national house of representatives, where the south, in all probability, with one vote for each state, could force a compromise in which neither the Republican nor the Democratic nominee would be chosen.

Undoubtedly, many other southern states will follow the example of Alabama and will name electors who are free from the necessity of supporting the Democratic nominees for president and vice-president.

This threat by the south to exercise the peculiar power it possesses may force the Democratic bosses at the Los Angeles convention to give some consideration to the south. If they do not do so, they probably will lose whatever chance they have of winning the presidency and vice-presidency.

Commenting on this situation, a publication devoted to the cause of democracy says, in part:

"A nearly unbelievable political bonanza lies at the feet of southern leaders. Once its significance is realized, they will have within their grasp the power to realign the political axis of the nation. They will, that is, if they move with detrmination, unity and cohesion. And, if they falter, their traditional pattern of life and American constitutional government may well be lost beyond recall.

"The stage has been set to permit, this year, the election of a southerner as president of the United States.

"Oddly enough, this rather breath - taking development has come about with no concerted effort by the south, with little fanfare and with hardly a soul realizing its cumulative potential. Like a southern development of a century ago, this one 'just growed.' "

Since the last presidential election, six southern states, one by one, have freed their electoral - college delegates from all moral obligation to vote for any predetermined party nominee. This is an accomplished fact. As a consequence, these states, barring a sweep by either a Republican or "liberal" Democrat, may very well hold the balance of power when the electoral college meets on the Wednesday in December, as the constitution specifies.

That being so, the electors from these six states (others are expected to join them), 57 in number, by voting for a third person, could destroy the possibility that either major party nominee could obtain enough votes to win. Thus they would force the election into the house of representatives. And there, again, the south would hold the balance of power.

There are 537 electoral votes, 269 being the majority needed to elect.

Both major parties are trumpeting of a victory in the offing but trumpeting doesn't count in the balloting.

On either side, the south plays a dominant role in the tally sheets of the major parties' bookmakers present. The Democrats claim everything south of the Mason-Dixon line. Republicans base their hopes on Richard M. Nixon's taking five or six southern states: Florida, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. Reportedly, Mr. Nixon's inner circle privately counts only Texas, Tennessee and North Carolina.

Manifestly, somebody is wrong and it is almost as certain that both are. The south believes that it is unfairly treated by the radical-labor wing of its hybrid party and has long since left the national Democratic fold. The south has not been "solid" since the days of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. Nor has the south become Republican, as some of the Republican wishfully claim.

The south has been voting for President Dwight D. Eisenhower to show its repugnance for the nominees the radical - integrationist - socialist - labor wing has foisted upon it.

So, with the whip of so - called "civil rights" beating around their shoulders, six southern states — likely to be joined by others — have fixed it so they won't have to vote Republican and won't have to support the Democratic nominees. These states, with a total of 57 electoral votes are: Louisiana, 10; Alabama, 11; Mississippi 8; Arkansas, 8; Georgia, 12, and South Carolina 8.

Wise southerners remember 1948 and how close they came that year to achieving their century - old dream of naming a southern president.

They remember how, in 1948, with a switch of only 12,487 popular votes, 3,554 of them in Ohio and 8,933 in California, these two states have gone Republican and Harry Truman's 303 electoral votes would have shrunk to 253, less than the 266 needed for a majority that year. They know that Thomas E. Dewey, even if he had carried Ohio and California, would not have had enough votes to win.

That situation could have existed because Strom Thurmond, the States' Rights candidate, polled 39 electoral college votes.

As politically green as the south was on national elections in 1948, it came within a hair's breadth of having the house of representatives name the president.

That was before Earl Warren's supreme court whipped the south into a froth, before the federal bayonet invasion of Little Rock, before race - riot blood was running in the streets of Chattanooga and Montgomery and Biloxi, before the Negro situation in white restaurants.

The south's free electors will wield great power.

Distressed Area Bill

Unwisely, the house of representatives in Washington defied President Eisenhower's warning against big spending and approved a program nearly five times as great as he recommended to help areas without chronic unemployment.

Spending money to ease chronic unemployment is usually like pouring it down a rat-hole. Putting public money into disaster areas to help overcome some temporary emergency is often advisable because it can some bring the area back to normal and back to a position in which it can support itself. Support for areas suffering from chronic unemployment is contrary to the law of supply and demand and unsound economically.

To meet popular demand, President Eisenhower made a recommendation for some spending in chronically depressed areas. He probably thought even that much spending was not justified, as he undoubtedly believed it would not be of much value.

If an area suffers from chronic unemployment, it is probably because of one of two reasons. Either the area does not offer enough advantages to attract an adequate number of industries or the leadership of the area is not sufficiently progressive. In either case, pouring government money in is likely to do little good, as it won't improve the natural advantages nor create a progressive leadership.

Off-Beat Americans Talk

Presented On British Television Show To Attempt To Portray How United States Citizens Live

William Clark monitored a television show for the British people, telling them all about the United States. His program consisted of dissenters, some of the astonishingly off-beat, who told the British people what is wrong with America.

Norman Thomas was brought into this unlikely company. Norman Thomas has all his life been a dissenter and has come out of it one of the most respected men in America. On Clark's program, he said:

". . . Oh, we're still a democracy, an imperfect democracy; but I'm not decrying it altogether, but practically we're governed by four bureaucracies. The Civil Government bureaucracy, the Military bureaucracy, the bureaucracy of big management in big business and big labour . . ."

The great Norman Thomas was followed by someone called Nipsey Russell, who is a Negro. Of him, William Clark said:

"Nipsey Russell appearing as he does each night at a night club in Harlem, New York's Negro quarter. An individual dissenter who uses humor to reflect and colour the bitterness of his race."

However, I find nothing to quote. Russell seems to have been too angry to make much sense. Adam Clayton Powell did better at Bandung. Norman Mailer, who followed Nipsey Russell, said this:

". . . But it does to me seem true that the most adventurous and the most lively of the Negroes in America have developed a tradition of living in the present which has been almost an underground tradition and has by now given the boring, cancerous state of American life this new tradition of the Negro has come to have an enormous appeal to Americans because it's a way of staying alive, it's a way of finding one's growth. Now it's quite nihilistic of course, and it's quite ruthless in a way, everyone is, if you take it to its end, obviously every hipster must be first concerned with his own needs and pay very little attention to the needs of others unless they happen to agree with his own . . ."

William Clark, seeking authentic Americana, hits on Grant Avenue in San Francisco and comes up with one Bob Kaufman who had this amazing comment to make on his own country:

"The Abomunist Manifesto Abomunists join nothing but their hands, legs or other senses. Abomunists do not look at pictures painted by presidents and unemployed prime ministers. In times of national peril abomunists, as real Americans, stand ready to drink themselves to death for their country. Abomunists will not feel pain no matter how much it hurts. Abomunists will not use the word 'square' except when talking to squares. Abomunism was founded by Barabbas, inspired by his dying words 'I wanted to be in the middle, but I went too far out.' Abomunism's main function is to unite the soul with oatmeal cookies. Abomunists love love, hate hate, drink drinks, smoke smokes, live lives, die deaths. Abomunists writers write writing or nothing at all. Abomunists demand the re-establishment of the government in its rightful home at Disneyland."

Kaufman said more which is equally intelligible. There were two more Beatniks, Ginsberg and Orlovsky, who were also brilliant. Ginsberg, for instance, said: "I like poetry that smells, that has a smell to it." To give another side of the United States, a side, I am sure, you never saw in America, William Clark gave his British audience, Philip Lamantia. Ever hear of him? He said to the people of England:

". . . And I go around with whoever, which means all kinds of weird persons, I like. Junkies, tricks, dummy poets, mads, hold-up men, squares, priests, monks, professional bums, beat Jews, Jew-haters, Spade-trumpet players, pot-heads, Zen nuts, Anti-spades, super gigolos, coke-heads, murderers, okie poets, smugglers, put-down artists, hippies, flips and black supremacy, white supremacy, and red Indian supremacy—wild ones. My myth is my people—they make grass grow on sky. Fire and who knows when the ghost of Edgar Allan Poe lumine my nights. I'm high most of the time, the sickest of San Francisco all around me. I'm the sickest of San Fancisco. I want opium. Police confiscate opium. I want police to give me opium . . ."

I have run out of room, but not out of witnesses. There will be others who will do their best to give the United States a very ugly black eye.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Export Program

Our Major Allies And Enemies Out-Hustling Us Overseas

WASHINGTON, D. C. — You can't much blame our half-dozen Presidential aspirants for ducking the dull subject which the Commerce Department lists as its Export Expansion Program—but the winner of this 1960 rat-race will find it resting—in his lap the first time he sits down for dinner at the White House.

Commerce Secretary Frederick Mueller is a spiky-haired, well-fleshed professional administrator with a built-in good humor which appears to be immune to mundane cares. Perhaps this is the kind of man we need as a salesman for the Mid-century American Commonwealth. A Commerce Secretary who brooded over the problems of selling American goods would soon become overwhelmed with frustration.

To expect such frisky fellows as Candidates Kennedy, Humphrey, Stevenson and Johnson to pause for a serious study of how the USA is going to work its way through the next several decades is asking too much of ambitious campaigners. Only Republican Candidates Nixon and Rockefeller, I would guess, have much idea of what the Eisenhower Administration is trying to do since discovering, about two years ago, that we are losing our shirts in the round robin of putting out aid and military commitments which cost more than we can earn by trade. Briefly, keeping statistics to a minimum, the problem is somewhat as follows:

1. Practically all of our major allies and enemies are now out-hustling us overseas. Since 1957, when our export trade hit the record figure of $19.5 billion, we have dropped off by 16 per cent in 1958 and 1959, although an upward turn is now indicated. Secretary Mueller and his staffers, in hunting reasons for the slump, have found some which should shake us to the back teeth.

As unbelievable as it seems, this advertising nation is deficient abroad in such things as "advertising campaigns, emphasizing brand names, quality, novelty and performance." We gadgeteers are behind our foreign competitors in supplying "technicians who can advise buyers on installations function and distribution" of American - made products. We sellers-on-credit do not match our rivals even in this field. U. S. firms are offering consumer goods for cash or payment in 90 days. West European and Japanese exporters are extending credit for at least 180 days. On heavy manufactures, like trucks, Americans ask short-term payments: West German firms commonly grant two years for payment.

2. Foreign competitors are pushing us at home, too. A Commerce Department publication of last April 21st listed these every-day items on the American market: Italian motor scooters, French automobile batteries, Canadian furniture parts, Dutch polyvinyl tubes, British typist and executive chairs, German plastics — and much else.

3. American manufacturers are still setting up overseas plants for re-imports here, undercutting domestic prices. Secretary Mueller says he is urging the opposite course — that is, for our manufacturers to work here and sell overseas. The Secretary says that when he remonstrates with American manufacturers, they answer — not without truth — that if we don't take advantage of cheap foreign labor, somebody else does.

4. More money is going out than is coming in. The deficit in international payments was higher in 1959 than in 1958. To put it succinctly, we must earn about $4 billion a year more in foreign trade if we are going to break even after giving aid and providing military protection. The Administration has launched an intensive "Sell American" campaign with many pump-priming devices.

The Export - Import Bank which, in its history, has financed a total of $7 billion in U. S. goods and services, continues its loans to American enterprisers. The Development Loan Fund advances money to foreigners to "Buy American". Public Law 480 sanctions the sale of surplus farm goods for foreign currencies which, we hope, will assist American firms abroad. Foreign aid, under various titles since 1948, has enabled foreign governments to buy some $13 billion of U. S. exports. Today the trend is toward more loans, easier credit, something called "political" as well as commercial insurance.

Dems. Plan Fun

Who Will Care About Politics In Big Los Angeles Meeting?

Who cares about politics? Everyone's off to Los Angeles to have fun!

The Democratic convention, scheduled in Los Angeles in July, bids to be the wildest whoop-it-up affair in merican political history.

Marilyn Monroe and a galaxy of stars will be there rooting for the Dems. And like Khrushchev, everyone's heading out to see Disneyland.

They'll add to a convention with everything — a big fight for the presidential nomination, a certainty of the White House changing hands, Southern California weather, hospitality and hi jinks — and Hollywood!

It'll be a cross between a carnival and an Oriental bazaar. There's no place like Southern California for fortune tellers, weird societies, sunglasses, yellow sport coats, purple shirts and green slacks — these blossom at a national political convention like flowers in May.

Los Angeles — the city where anything can happen and often does — hasn't seen a thing yet. More than 4,000 delegates and 3,000 American and foreign newsmen are preparing to descend on the city.

Quite a number intend to bring the family. It's the big chance to see California — and who doesn't have an Uncle Ed or an Aunt Mabel out there? You've been writing to them for years and getting back letters about that Southern California sunshine. So try to keep the wife from going along.

Then there's a comfortable time interval between the end of the Democratic convention and the beginning of the Republican convention in Chicago. That's the chance to take that Southern California vacation.

Los Angeles has never been host to a national political meet before, but she'll make up for lost time in July.

Movie studios, the radio-TV industry and the world's biggest concentration of artistic talent will be on the delegates' doorsteps.

A cast that would break the richest movie company is set to stage a spectacular two-hour show before vice - presidential and presidential candidates make acceptance speeches.

Washington's society hostess Perle Mesta is planning a giant party in a swank hotel — hundreds will probably be invited and thousands will probably crash it.

Whatever happens in Los Angeles, it will provide conversation for the next 10 years. "What happened to me at L. A." is likely to become the most groan-provoking phrase in the English language.

One thing's certain — hundreds of newcomers to the sprawling city will get lost driving on its fabulous freeway system. Once it took a lifelong resident eight hours to get back on the right track because he took one wrong turn.

The climate — if there's no smog — will be the nation's best. If there's smog, there may be people suing the National Democratic Committee for years over eye trouble expenses.

There'll be starlets, big-name bands, and one-hour flights to Las Vegas with its dice, roulette and card tables.

There'll be the Pacific Ocean —17 miles from downtown Los Angeles — fancy restaurants, and Grauman's Chinese Theater, where the sidewalk's cement shows imprints of famous movie stars' bare feet.

And oh yes — we forgot. It might be interesting to see who the Democrats select as their presidential and vice - presidential candidates

Shame on anyone who misses it.

DR. STEINCROHN

The Nervous Heart

Nervousness And Anxiety Are Most Common Causes Of Palpitation

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Can you tell me what are some of the common causes of palpitation? My doctor tells me my palpitation is due to a nervous heart. I have heard that there are some other conditions that cause the heart to overbeat. — Sincerely, Mrs. J., Patterson, N.J.

ANSWER: Nervousness and anxiety probably are the most common causes of heart awareness due to rapid heart action and irregularity. But there are other reasons. Before the diagnosis of nervous heart is made, the doctor makes an effort to rule out any other factors that might cause the condition.

For example, I recall many patients whose palpitation and heart irregularity was due to an overactive thyroid gland. When this condition was treated, the heart symptoms disappeared.

Dozens of patients who complained of palpitation lost this discomfort when they gave up (or cut down) their smoking. Likewise with those who decreased their coffee or alcohol intake.

Many patients have palpitation for hours after the dentist injects epinephrine with novocaine before pulling a tooth. I have known many patients who took thyroid on their own to reduce and came in with a runaway heart.

The heart also beats fast in some patients who have fever due to infections like pneumonia, tuberculosis, undulant fever, etc.

Then, of course, there are the conditions in the heart itself: rheumatic fever heart (rheumatic heart disease), high blood pressure heart, coronary heart disease — in which the heart may become irregular, skip and palpitate.

It should be evident that before the doctor makes the diagnosis of nervous heart, he has ruled out any real trouble in the heart or elsewhere that may be the cause. However, this is something I want to stress. If the doctor has told you — after a careful check-up — that your heart is all right, don't keep worrying that the palpitation must be something serious. Otherwise you will go through life worrying about having a sick heart when it is strong.

"My baby's now 7 months old and still has no teeth" writes Mrs. J., Detroit, Michigan. "I have been told that there must be something wrong. My doctor tells me there's nothing to be concerned about, but my neighbor, who has four children, said her's all had their first teeth by five months. Whom shall I believe?"

ANSWER: Back-fence advice—although often given in good faith—is never as good as your doctor's. Therefore, the answer is evident. Believe your doctor.

It is true that in many babies, the lower central incisors (those cute little teeth that all of us parents go into ecstacies about) often erupt in the 4th month. But it is also true that in many healthy infants the first tooth doesn't sprout until the 10th month. In a minority of infants the first tooth doesn't make its appearance until the 12th or 13th month.

Therefore, Mrs. J., better relax. Your youngster still has a few months to go in which to manufacture the tiny dental appendages which will so enhance his cute smile.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How To Be A Happy Hypochondriac," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling charges. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, c-o this newspaper.

Daily Devotional

Shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellow-servant, even as I had pity on thee?— Matt. 18:33.

The Christian will have pity on and show mercy for the unfortunate. In the eighteenth chapter of Matthew is recorded Christ's story of the servant who owed his king ten thousand talents and begged for time in which to pay. In pity, the king forgave the debt; but when a fellowservant begged this forgiven one for mercy, he was unyielding. The king, hearing of this, threw the hard-hearted one into prison. In like manner, says Christ, the Father will not forgive the unforgiving.

God, our Father, help us to be understanding and forgiving in our dealings with those in trouble. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

Troy, which was captured by the Greeks who concealed soldiers in a wooden horse they gave to the Trojans, was a massive walled city in what is now Turkey.

Cotton, tobacco, and fruits and vegetables are, in the order named, the tree largest crops produced in the South.

". . . Oh, we're still a democracy, an imperfect democracy; but I'm not decrying it altogether, but practically we're governed by four bureaucracies. The Civil Government bureaucracy, the Military bureaucracy, the bureaucracy of big management in big business and big labour . . ."

The great Norman Thomas was followed by someone called Nipsey Russell, who is a Negro. Of him, William Clark said:

"Nipsey Russell appearing as he does each night at a night club in Harlem, New York's Negro quarter. An individual dissenter who uses humor to reflect and colour the bitterness of his race."

However, I find nothing to quote. Russell seems to have been too angry to make much sense. Adam Clayton Powell did better at Bandung. Norman Mailer, who followed Nipsey Russell, said this:

". . . But it does to me seem true that the most adventurous and the most lively of the Negroes in America have developed a tradition of living in the present which has been almost an underground tradition and has by now given the boring, cancerous state of American life this new tradition of the Negro has come to have an enormous appeal to Americans because it's a way of staying alive, it's a way of finding one's growth. Now it's quite nihilistic of course, and it's quite ruthless in a way, everyone is, if you take it to its end, obviously every hipster must be first concerned with his own needs and pay very little attention to the needs of others unless they happen to agree with his own . . ."

William Clark, seeking authentic Americana, hits on Grant Avenue in San Francisco and comes up with one Bob Kaufman who had this amazing comment to make on his own country:

"The Abomunist Manifesto Abomunists join nothing but their hands, legs or other senses. Abomunists do not look at pictures painted by presidents and unemployed prime ministers. In times of national peril abomunists, as real Americans, stand ready to drink themselves to death for their country. Abomunists will not feel pain no matter how much it hurts. Abomunists will not use the word 'square' except when talking to squares. Abomunism was founded by Barabbas, inspired by his dying words 'I wanted to be in the middle, but I went too far out.' Abomunism's main function is to unite the soul with oatmeal cookies. Abomunists love love, hate hate, drink drinks, smoke smokes, live lives, die deaths. Abomunists writers write writing or nothing at all. Abomunists demand the re-establishment of the government in its rightful home at Disneyland."

Kaufman said more which is equally intelligible. There were two more Beatniks, Ginsberg and Orlovsky, who were also brilliant. Ginsberg, for instance, said: "I like poetry that smells, that has a smell to it." To give another side of the United States, a side, I am sure, you never saw in America, William Clark gave his British audience, Philip Lamantia. Ever hear of him? He said to the people of England:

". . . And I go around with whoever, which means all kinds of weird persons, I like. Junkies, tricks, dummy poets, mads, hold-up men, squares, priests, monks, professional bums, beat Jews, Jew-haters, Spade-trumpet players, pot-heads, Zen nuts, Anti-spades, super gigolos, coke-heads, murderers, okie poets, smugglers, put-down artists, hippies, flips and black supremacy, white supremacy, and red Indian supremacy—wild ones. My myth is my people—they make grass grow on sky. Fire and who knows when the ghost of Edgar Allan Poe lumine my nights. I'm high most of the time, the sickest of San Francisco all around me. I'm the sickest of San Fancisco. I want opium. Police confiscate opium. I want police to give me opium . . ."

I have run out of room, but not out of witnesses. There will be others who will do their best to give the United States a very ugly black eye.

HOLMES ALEXANDER

Our Major Allies And Enemies Out-Hustling Us Overseas

WASHINGTON, D. C. — You can't much blame our half-dozen Presidential aspirants for ducking the dull subject which the Commerce Department lists as its Export Expansion Program—but the winner of this 1960 rat-race will find it resting—in his lap the first time he sits down for dinner at the White House.

Commerce Secretary Frederick Mueller is a spiky-haired, well-fleshed professional administrator with a built-in good humor which appears to be immune to mundane cares. Perhaps this is the kind of man we need as a salesman for the Mid-century American Commonwealth. A Commerce Secretary who brooded over the problems of selling American goods would soon become overwhelmed with frustration.

To expect such frisky fellows as Candidates Kennedy, Humphrey, Stevenson and Johnson to pause for a serious study of how the USA is going to work its way through the next several decades is asking too much of ambitious campaigners. Only Republican Candidates Nixon and Rockefeller, I would guess, have much idea of what the Eisenhower Administration is trying to do since discovering, about two years ago, that we are losing our shirts in the round robin of putting out aid and military commitments which cost more than we can earn by trade. Briefly, keeping statistics to a minimum, the problem is somewhat as follows:

1. Practically all of our major allies and enemies are now out-hustling us overseas. Since 1957, when our export trade hit the record figure of $19.5 billion, we have dropped off by 16 per cent in 1958 and 1959, although an upward turn is now indicated. Secretary Mueller and his staffers, in hunting reasons for the slump, have found some which should shake us to the back teeth.

As unbelievable as it seems, this advertising nation is deficient abroad in such things as "advertising campaigns, emphasizing brand names, quality, novelty and performance." We gadgeteers are behind our foreign competitors in supplying "technicians who can advise buyers on installations function and distribution" of American - made products. We sellers-on-credit do not match our rivals even in this field. U. S. firms are offering consumer goods for cash or payment in 90 days. West European and Japanese exporters are extending credit for at least 180 days. On heavy manufactures, like trucks, Americans ask short-term payments; West German firms commonly grant two years for payment.

2. Foreign competitors are pushing us at home, too. A Commerce Department publication of last April 21st listed these everyday items on the American market: Italian motor scooters, French automobile batteries, Canadian furniture parts, Dutch polyvinyl tubes, British typist and executive chairs, German plastics — and much else.

3. American manufacturers are still setting up overseas plants for re-imports here, undercutting domestic prices. Secretary Mueller says he is urging the opposite course — that is, for our manufacturers to work here and sell overseas. The Secretary says that when he remonstrates with American manufacturers, they answer — not without truth — that if we don't take advantage of cheap foreign labor, somebody else does.

4. More money is going out than is coming in. The deficit in international payments was higher in 1959 than in 1958. To put it succinctly, we must earn about $4 billion a year more in foreign trade if we are going to break even after giving aid and providing military protection. The Administration has launched an intensive "Sell American" campaign with many pump-priming devices.

The Export - Import Bank which, in its history, has financed a total of $7 billion in U. S. goods and services, continues its loans to American enterprisers. The Development Loan Fund advances money to foreigners to "Buy American". Public Law 480 sanctions the sale of surplus farm goods for foreign currencies which, we hope, will assist American firms abroad. Foreign aid, under various titles since 1948, has enabled foreign governments to buy some $13 billion of U. S. exports. Today the trend is toward more loans, easier credit, something called "political" as well as commercial insurance.

Wish I Were There

THE clouds look just whitecaps and . . . The sky is ocean blue . . . The trees are mountains in my mind . . . As now I dream of you . . . I seem to gaze into your eyes . . . And hold you in my arms . . . While tenderly I kiss your lips . . . And capture all your charms . . . We are together once again . . . In all that fairyland . . . And in the silence of our hearts . . . We love and understand . . . I wish it really were like this . . . And would be evermore . . . But now the whitecaps disappear . . . Beyond the sunny shore . . . And as my mountains lightly sway . . . With every gentle breeze . . . I know that in reality . . . They are no more than trees.

Dems. Plan Fun

Who Will Care About Politics In Big Los Angeles Meeting?

Who cares about politics? Everyone's off to Los Angeles to have fun!

The Democratic convention, scheduled in Los Angeles in July, bids to be the wildest whoop-it-up affair in merican political history.

Marilyn Monroe and a galaxy of stars will be there rooting for the Dems. And like Khrushchev, everyone's heading out to see Disneyland.

They'll add to a convention with everything — a big fight for the presidential nomination, a certainty of the White House changing hands, Southern California weather, hospitality and hi jinks — and Hollywood!

It'll be a cross between a carnival and an Oriental bazaar. There's no place like Southern California for fortune tellers, weird societies, sunglasses, yellow sport coats, purple shirts and green slacks — these blossom at a national political convention like flowers in May.

Los Angeles — the city where anything can happen and often does — hasn't seen a thing yet. More than 4,000 delegates and 3,000 American and foreign newsmen are preparing to descend on the city.

Quite a number intend to bring the family. It's the big chance to see California — and who doesn't have an Uncle Ed or an Aunt Mabel out there? You've been writing to them for years and getting back letters about that Southern California sunshine. So try to keep the wife from going along.

Then there's a comfortable time interval between the end of the Democratic convention and the beginning of the Republican convention in Chicago. That's the chance to take that Southern California vacation.

Los Angeles has never been host to a national political meet before, but she'll make up for lost time in July.

Movie studios, the radio-TV industry and the world's biggest concentration of artistic talent will be on the delegates' doorsteps.

A cast that would break the richest movie company is set to stage a spectacular two-hour show before vice - presidential and presidential candidates make acceptance speeches.

Washington's society hostess Perle Mesta is planning a giant party in a swank hotel — hundreds will probably be invited and thousands will probably crash it.

Whatever happens in Los Angeles, it will provide conversation for the next 10 years. "What happened to me at L. A." is likely to become the most groan-provoking phrase in the English language.

One thing's certain — hundreds of newcomers to the sprawling city will get lost driving on its fabulous freeway system. Once it took a lifelong resident eight hours to get back on the right track because he took one wrong turn.

The climate — if there's no smog — will be the nation's best. If there's smog, there may be people suing the National Democratic Committee for years over eye trouble expenses.

There'll be starlets, big-name bands, and one-hour flights to Las Vegas with its dice, roulette and card tables.

There'll be the Pacific Ocean —17 miles from downtown Los Angeles — fancy restaurants, and Grauman's Chinese Theater, where the sidewalk's cement shows imprints of famous movie stars' bare feet.

And oh yes — we forgot. It might be interesting to see who the Democrats select as their presidential and vice - presidential candidates

Shame on anyone who misses it.

DR. STEINCROHN

The Nervous Heart

Nervousness And Anxiety Are Most Common Causes Of Palpitation

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Can you tell me what are some of the common causes of palpitation? My doctor tells me my palpitation is due to a nervous heart. I have heard that there are some other conditions that cause the heart to overbeat. — Sincerely, Mrs. J., Patterson, N.J.

ANSWER: Nervousness and anxiety probably are the most common causes of heart awareness due to rapid heart action and irregularity. But there are other reasons. Before the diagnosis of nervous heart is made, the doctor makes an effort to rule out any other factors that might cause the condition.

For example, I recall many patients whose palpitation and heart irregularity was due to an overactive thyroid gland. When this condition was treated, the heart symptoms disappeared.

Dozens of patients who complained of palpitation lost this discomfort when they gave up (or cut down) their smoking. Likewise with those who decreased their coffee or alcohol intake.

Many patients have palpitation for hours after the dentist injects epinephrine with novocaine before pulling a tooth. I have known many patients who took thyroid on their own to reduce and came in with a runaway heart.

The heart also beats fast in some patients who have fever due to infections like pneumonia, tuberculosis, undulant fever, etc.

Then, of course, there are the conditions in the heart itself: rheumatic fever heart (rheumatic heart disease), high blood pressure heart, coronary heart disease — in which the heart may become irregular, skip and palpitate.

It should be evident that before the doctor makes the diagnosis of nervous heart, he has ruled out any real trouble in the heart or elsewhere that may be the cause. However, this is something I want to stress. If the doctor has told you — after a careful check-up — that your heart is all right, don't keep worrying that the palpitation must be something serious. Otherwise you will go through life worrying about having a sick heart when it is strong.

"My baby's now 7 months old and still has no teeth" writes Mrs. J., Detroit, Michigan. "I have been told that there must be something wrong. My doctor tells me there's nothing to be concerned about, but my neighbor, who has four children, said her's all had their first teeth by five months. Whom shall I believe?"

ANSWER: Back-fence advice—although often given in good faith—is never as good as your doctor's. Therefore, the answer is evident. Believe your doctor.

It is true that in many babies, the lower central incisors (those cute little teeth that all of us parents go into ecstacies about) often erupt in the 4th month. But it is also true that in many healthy infants the first tooth doesn't sprout until the 10th month. In a minority of infants the first tooth doesn't make its appearance until the 12th or 13th month.

Therefore, Mrs. J., better relax. Your youngster still has a few months to go in which to manufacture the tiny dental appendages which will so enhance his cute smile.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "How To Be A Happy Hypochondriac," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for handling charges. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, c-o this newspaper.

Daily Devotional

Shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellow-servant, even as I had pity on thee?— Matt. 18:33.

The Christian will have pity on and show mercy for the unfortunate. In the eighteenth chapter of Matthew is recorded Christ's story of the servant who owed his king ten thousand talents and begged for time in which to pay. In pity, the king forgave the debt; but when a fellowservant begged this forgiven one for mercy, he was unyielding. The king, hearing of this, threw the hard-hearted one into prison. In like manner, says Christ, the Father will not forgive the unforgiving.

God, our Father, help us to be understanding and forgiving in our dealings with those in trouble. In Christ's name we ask. Amen.

Troy, which was captured by the Greeks who concealed soldiers in a wooden horse they gave to the Trojans, was a massive walled city in what is now Turkey.

Cotton, tobacco, and fruits and vegetables are, in the order named, the tree largest crops produced in the South.

MORE INCOME FOR BELL

Telephone Rates To Go Up Soon

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Southern Bell Friday announced telephone rates will go up in 10 days under a court-ordered increase approved by the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

Both local and long distance schedule is designed to give Southern Bell an additional $5,686,702 annual income.

The telephone company said local exchange increases will go into effect with bills dated May 16 and intrastate long distance increases will be effective at 12:01 May 15.

The commission said it had no alternative but to grant the increase under an order by the state Supreme Court.

The commission hopes, a statement said, "that with the increased rates ordered by the Supreme Court the construction work that the company has repeatedly stated it will unable to do will be commenced immediately."

PSC chairman John McKeithen said at Monroe:

"We feel as strongly as ever that the rate increase is not justified, in view of the tremendous earnings they have enjoyed, particularly in the year 1959."

The majority of the state Supreme Court has spoken on the matter, McKeithen said, but "we are gratified that two members of the court appear to have agreed with the commission."

Since the court-ordered increase must go into effect, he said, "the commission expects the telephone company to commence full force any and all construction projects they have claimed were slowed down by the commission's action's."

The commission, McKeithen said, "will watch the actions of Southern Bell very closely. If and when the picture changes and we feel the rates may be reduced to the former level we will do so."

Southern Bell for more than a year sought an increase of 14 million dollars. The commission rejected the company's moves.

The state Supreme Court granted an increase on appeal. The court ruled the company was not receiving a reasonable rate.

2 Tallulah Men Charged With Altering Checks

Two Tallulah Negros have been arrested by Secret Service agents and charged with altering government checks.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Russell Jordan said Lewis Douglas Kent, 17, 313 E. Craig St., Tallulah, posted $1000 bond yesterday. He is charged with three counts of forging and altering U. S. Treasury checks.

Both men were brought before U. S. Commissioner Louis D. Smith to have bond set.

Evoy Returning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Friday accepted the resignation of John M. Allison as U.S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia. Allison, a career foreign service officer, is returning to this country for "urgent personal reasons" involving illness in his family. He will be reassigned by the state department.

Strike At Plant Flares Into Violence

Strike - bound Monroe Steam Laundry was the setting for charges of violence and an arrest yesterday afternoon. One Negro was charged with aggravated assault and disturbing the peace.

Monroe Police arrested Robert Campbell, 32, Number 4 Solomon's Quarters. His bond was set at $500. It was posted shortly after 8 p.m.

Steam laundry officials said a disturbance occurred between Negro female strikers and a Negro who has continued to work.

I went to stop the girls from fighting. They say I had a knife. I was holding a cigarette lighter," said the neatly dressed Campbell.

Maj. Jack Davis, policeman who was passing by at the time of the disturbance, halted and rushed into the group of milling Negroes.

"SAW THE KNIFE"

Steam Laundry employee Dennis Chappell, 1111 N. Second St., West Monroe, said, "I saw the knife. He (Campbell) just turned and backed up. I couldn't say what kind of knife it was. I could just see the front and the back of it in his hand."

Chappell added that he did not see a knife blade, that it appeared to be a pocket knife.

Davis searched Campbell, but said he could find no knife.

Chappell said that when some Steam Laundry help who worked Friday left the building, several Negro girls went after another Negro girl, pulled at her clothing and at her paycheck.

Police pointed out that the girls were standing on the sidewalk when they arrived.

'JUST STANDING"

"They haven't committed any disturbance in our presence. They're just standing along the sidewalk," police told laundry officials.

They attacked these people of ours who had been working," the officials maintained.

Laundry officials pointed out six Negro girls and said the girls had caused a disturbance. The Negro worker who they said was surrounded had left.

Police took down the names of Lela Johnson, 710 Bryant, Ophlic Gannerson, 221 DeSiard St., Priscilla Washington, 318 Berg Jones Ln., Fannie Ward, Winnsboro Road, Lue Willie Manueal, 1221 DeSiard St. and Elsia Johnson, 106 North 11 St.

The names were turned over to laundry officials. William Whitfield, and Henry Whitfield, top officials at the laundry, would give no statement as to whether they intend to bring charges against the girls.

Edward Curley, national representative of the AFL-CIO, said he was standing a block away when the disturbance occurred. He also said he would post bond for Campbell.

"I could see some kind of ruckus down the street. The laundry men are mad because the place is practically closed down," said Curley.

The union representative blasted E. L. Gorum, mechanic employed by the laundry. "Gorum has made it a point to walk on this side of the street (across from the laundry) and make snide remarks to the strikers every day."

Steam Laundry employees are striking for higher wages. "It's the lowest - paying laundry in this city," said Curley. The strike began one week ago. The laundry has turned away customers this week.

Otis Elliott, Negro, of 1813 DeSiard St., was standing half a block away when the disturbance occurred.

'When I got there," said Elliott, "it was all over. Several of the strikers were around one of the girls who worked today. Campbell was just standing there. He never carries a knife."

Police Blotter

THEFT

Smith, who gave his address as Owl and South College streets, is charged with the theft of $210 from John Moore, 4401 Owl street.

ATTEMPTED THEFT

An attempted car theft was reported to Monroe police yesterday.

Police said someone apparently tried to break open a window on an automobile belonging to Car Imports, Inc. on Washington street.

DWI

Troop 'F" State Police yesterday arrested Mrs. Margalo Sweckcr Becton, 36, on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

No address was listed, but police said she was traveling with her husband, Clyde E. Becton. Becton was booked for public drunkenness.

Both were placed in the parish jail.

Fire Razes Outbuilding

Truck 7, dispatched from fire station No. 3, was unable to stop the blaze, but the adjacent building was not damaged. According to a fire department report, the property is owned by M. L. Johnson. The house is occupied by Billy Burch.

The body will lie in state at the family residence until time for services.

State Courts

Sylvester Lewis Jr., Negro, was fined on two charges in State Court, during a brief session that focused on traffic violations.

Judge W. M. Harper fined him $25 and court costs on a charge of reckless driving, and $5 and costs on a charge of driving without a license.

Fines of $25 and costs were levied on Walter Leroy Mecom, charged with driving without a license; Albert Cooper, Negro, charged with driving with an overheight load, and Harold B. Gentry Jr., charged with driving without a chauffeur's license.

Cooper's fine was suspended on payment of court costs.

Davis Press Conference Set Today

Davis' inauguration is set for noon Tuesday, and he will make his important address to a joint session of the Legislature May 16.

The legislative message will come just one week after the 1960 session opens Monday, a Davis spokesman said. Louisiana governors usually let the Legislature settle down before the message.

Workmen neared completion of stands at the capitol steps to be used in the inauguration ceremonies. A special television camera stand across the street also is being prepared for the big inauguration day.

The Davis news conference will be conducted in a downtown hotel, but will be much the same as those held by the earlier administrations of Gov. Earl K. Long and former Gov. Robert Kennon.

A spokesman said the governor will allow television hand cameras but no sound cameras or tape recordings by radio and television newsmen.

There was no indication how much the governor-elect planned to break the silence he has maintained about appointments and administration legislative measures. Close associates of the governor maintain he has told nobody any of his advance plans.

One thing he may reveal is his choice for speaker of the House of Representatives—and perhaps for Senate president pro-tempore.

A least two names apparently will be put up for speaker, but the House usually elects the governor's choice.

Rep. Tom Jewell of Pointe Coupee Parish, said Friday he definitely is a candidate for the speakership. And another lawmaker said he will nominate incumbent Speaker Robert Angelle.

Jewell is reported to have strong support of Davis, who has said he will have a preference for speaker.

Rep. A. T. Sanders Jr., East Baton Rouge Parish, said he would nominate Angelle for the post of speaker.

Angelle has been silent on the matter after a telephone talk with Davis last week. Angelle earlier sought reelection as speaker. He claimed Davis indicated to him before the Democratic primaries that he would keep hands off the speakership.

Angelle said Friday:

"I am honored that my friend, Rep. Sanders, wants to nominate me for speaker of the House. When it was the general opinion of everyone in the state that Gov. Davis was not going to take part in the election of a speaker, almost 75 per cent of the House membership expressed themselves in my favor.

Telephone Rates To Go Up Soon

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Southern Bell Friday announced telephone rates will go up in 10 days under a court-ordered increase approved by the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

Both local and long distance schedule is designed to give Southern Bell an additional $5,686,702 annual income.

The telephone company said local exchange increases will go into effect with bills dated May 16 and intrastate long distance increases will be effective at 12:01 May 15.

The commission said it had no alternative but to grant the increase under an order by the state Supreme Court.

The commission hopes, a statement said, "that with the increased rates ordered by the Supreme Court the construction work that the company has repeatedly stated it will unable to do will be commenced immediately."

PSC chairman John McKeithen said at Monroe:

"We feel as strongly as ever that the rate increase is not justified, in view of the tremendous earnings they have enjoyed, particularly in the year 1959."

The majority of the state Supreme Court has spoken on the matter, McKeithen said, but "we are gratified that two members of the court appear to have agreed with the commission."

Since the court-ordered increase must go into effect, he said, "the commission expects the telephone company to commence full force any and all construction projects they have claimed were slowed down by the commission's action's."

The commission, McKeithen said, "will watch the actions of Southern Bell very closely. If and when the picture changes and we feel the rates may be reduced to the former level we will do so."

Southern Bell for more than a year sought an increase of 14 million dollars. The commission rejected the company's moves.

2 Tallulah Men Charged With Altering Checks

Two Tallulah Negros have been arrested by Secret Service agents and charged with altering government checks.

U. S. Deputy Marshal Russell Jordan said Lewis Douglas Kent, 17, 313 E. Craig St., Tallulah, posted $1000 bond yesterday. He is charged with three counts of forging and altering U. S. Treasury checks.

Both men were brought before U. S. Commissioner Louis D. Smith to have bond set.

Evoy Returning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Friday accepted the resignation of John M. Allison as U.S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia. Allison, a career foreign service officer, is returning to this country for "urgent personal reasons" involving illness in his family. He will be reassigned by the state department.

Davis Press Conference Set Today

Davis' inauguration is set for noon Tuesday, and he will make his important address to a joint session of the Legislature May 16.

The legislative message will come just one week after the 1960 session opens Monday, a Davis spokesman said. Louisiana governors usually let the Legislature settle down before the message.

Workmen neared completion of stands at the capitol steps to be used in the inauguration ceremonies. A special television camera stand across the street also is being prepared for the big inauguration day.

The Davis news conference will be conducted in a downtown hotel, but will be much the same as those held by the earlier administrations of Gov. Earl K. Long and former Gov. Robert Kennon.

A spokesman said the governor will allow television hand cameras but no sound cameras or tape recordings by radio and television newsmen.

There was no indication how much the governor-elect planned to break the silence he has maintained about appointments and administration legislative measures. Close associates of the governor maintain he has told nobody any of his advance plans.

One thing he may reveal is his choice for speaker of the House of Representatives—and perhaps for Senate president pro-tempore.

A least two names apparently will be put up for speaker, but the House usually elects the governor's choice.

Rep. Tom Jewell of Pointe Coupee Parish, said Friday he definitely is a candidate for the speakership. And another lawmaker said he will nominate incumbent Speaker Robert Angelle.

Jewell is reported to have strong support of Davis, who has said he will have a preference for speaker.

Rep. A. T. Sanders Jr., East Baton Rouge Parish, said he would nominate Angelle for the post of speaker.

Angelle has been silent on the matter after a telephone talk with Davis last week. Angelle earlier sought reelection as speaker. He claimed Davis indicated to him before the Democratic primaries that he would keep hands off the speakership.

Angelle said Friday:

"I am honored that my friend, Rep. Sanders, wants to nominate me for speaker of the House. When it was the general opinion of everyone in the state that Gov. Davis was not going to take part in the election of a speaker, almost 75 per cent of the House membership expressed themselves in my favor.

Strike At Plant Flares Into Violence

Strike - bound Monroe Steam Laundry was the setting for charges of violence and an arrest yesterday afternoon. One Negro was charged with aggravated assault and disturbing the peace.

Monroe Police arrested Robert Campbell, 32, Number 4 Solomon's Quarters. His bond was set at $500. It was posted shortly after 8 p.m.

Steam laundry officials said a disturbance occurred between Negro female strikers and a Negro who has continued to work.

I went to stop the girls from fighting. They say I had a knife. I was holding a cigarette lighter," said the neatly dressed Campbell.

Maj. Jack Davis, policeman who was passing by at the time of the disturbance, halted and rushed into the group of milling Negroes.

"SAW THE KNIFE"

Steam Laundry employee Dennis Chappell, 1111 N. Second St., West Monroe, said, "I saw the knife. He (Campbell) just turned and backed up. I couldn't say what kind of knife it was, I could just see the front and the back of it in his hand."

Chappell added that he did not see a knife blade, that it appeared to be a pocket knife.

Davis searched Campbell, but said he could find no knife.

Chappell said that when some Steam Laundry help who worked Friday left the building, several Negro girls went after another Negro girl, pulled at her clothing and at her paycheck.

Police pointed out that the girls were standing on the sidewalk when they arrived.

'JUST STANDING"

"They haven't committed any disturbance in our presence. They're just standing along the sidewalk," police told laundry officials.

They attacked these people of ours who had been working," the officials maintained.

Laundry officials pointed out six Negro girls and said the girls had caused a disturbance. The Negro worker who they said was surrounded had left.

Police took down the names of Lela Johnson, 710 Bryant, Ophlie Gannerson, 221 DeSiard St., Priscilla Washington, 318 Berg Jones Ln., Fannie Ward, Winnsboro Road, Lue Willie Manueal, 1221 DeSiard St. and Elsia Johnson, 106 North 11 St.

The names were turned over to laundry officials. William Whitfield, and Henry Whitfield, top officials at the laundry, would give no statement as to whether they intend to bring charges against the girls.

Edward Curley, national representative of the AFL-CIO, said he was standing a block away when the disturbance occurred. He also said he would post bond for Campbell.

"I could see some kind of ruckus down the street. The laundry men are mad because the place is practically closed down," said Curley.

The union representative blasted E. L. Gorum, mechanic employed by the laundry. "Gorum has made it a point to walk on this side of the street (across from the laundry) and make snide remarks to the strikers every day."

Steam Laundry employees are striking for higher wages. "It's the lowest - paying laundry in this city," said Curley. The strike began one week ago. The laundry has turned away customers this week.

Otis Elliott, Negro, of 1813 DeSiard St., was standing half a block away when the disturbance occurred.

'When I got there," said Elliott, "it was all over. Several of the strikers were around one of the girls who worked today. Campbell was just standing there. He never carries a knife."

THEFT

Smith, who gave his address as Owl and South College streets, is charged with the theft of $210 from John Moore, 4401 Owl street.

Police arrested Smith on a warrant sworn out by Moore.

ATTEMPTED THEFT

An attempted car theft was reported to Monroe police yesterday.

Police said someone apparently tried to break open a window on an automobile belonging to Car Imports, Inc. on Washington street.

DWI

Troop 'F" State Police yesterday arrested Mrs. Margalo Sweckér Becton, 36, on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

No address was listed, but police said she was traveling with her husband, Clyde E. Becton. Becton was booked for public drunkenness.

Both were placed in the parish jail.

Fire Razes Outbuilding

Truck 7, dispatched from fire station No. 3, was unable to stop the blaze, but the adjacent building was not damaged. According to a fire department report, the property is owned by M. L. Johnson. The house is occupied by Billy Burch.

The body will lie in state at the family residence until time for services.

State Courts

Sylvester Lewis Jr., Negro, was fined on two charges in State Court, during a brief session that focused on traffic violations.

Judge W. M. Harper fined him $25 and court costs on a charge of reckless driving, and $5 and costs on a charge of driving without a license.

Fines of $25 and costs were levied on Walter Leroy Mecom, charged with driving without a license; Albert Cooper, Negro, charged with driving with an overheight load, and Harold B. Gentry Jr., charged with driving without a chauffeur's license.

Cooper's fine was suspended on payment of court costs.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

SUGGESTIONS FROM OUR READERS

A Murray Hill, N. J., reader sent me an unsigned postcard on which she wrote: "Now we chide you — if you can take it. Regarding your reply to L. D. as to the cause of fidgetiness of the legs after going to bed at night, you say the cause is not known and that the sufferer should get up and walk about the room. Shame! It's most likely acidity of the stomach. Take an aspirin or bufferin and away you go to sleep in a minute or two. No charge for this."

Thanks for the free advice but I must point out that a person has to get out of bed and walk to the medicine cabinet to get the remedy. These drugs take longer than a minute or two to act, demonstrating that the activity deserves more credit for relieving leg cramps.

Furthermore, aspirin is more likely to add to the stomach's acidity and there is not enough alkali in bufferin to change a high acidity. Moreover, blaming acidity for aches and pains is as out of date as the horse and buggy. If this reader had any confidence in his diagnosis, he would have signed his name.

Another Jerseyite had a leg ulcer for 15 years and spent considerable time and money trying to get it closed. Four years ago she had it covered with a skin graft.

"From the time skin was placed on the crater, I have had no more pain and no more ulcer. I wish I could pass this on to others." Skin grafting is a good remedy, provided the cause of the ulcer cannot be eliminated or otherwise remedied.

People do strange things. "Your column on dishwashing etiquette reminds me of the woman who sat at my table in a cafeteria one day. She washed all her silverware in a glass of water—and, at the end of her meal, drank the water. 'Nuff sed?"

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

NAIL PEELING

M. S. writes: What causes peeling finger nails?

REPLY

The cause is not known, although the condition occurs occasionally with many generalized disorders such as anemia, thyroid deficiency, and infections. There [illegible] possibility that chemical and physical injuries play a [illegible]. This may explain why nail peeling is worse in bottle washers, housewives, and those who scratch for a living. Manicuring [illegible] use of polishes and irritating chemicals may be to blame. Ringworm and other disorders of the nails lead to shedding but other more obvious changes occur first.

OPEN OVERCOATS

S. D. writes: Won't you warn about the danger of allowing young children and teen-agers to leave their coats unbuttoned in cold weather? It can't be safe.

REPLY

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. If these youngsters thrive despite open coats and jackets, the practice must be safe.

SPINAL FUSION

R. T. writes: What is meant by a spinal fusion after a back operation?

REPLY

In this procedure, two or more vertebraes are fastened (fused) together to stiffen the spine and promote healing. It is done in the treatment of arthritis, certain bone infections, and occasionally for a slipped disk.

CARROTS AND CANKERS

L. R. writes: What is there in carrots that causes canker sores on the tongue?

REPLY

Nothing, to my knowledge, unless yours stem from an allergy to carrots. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on canker sores.

CLOTHES MAKE YOUR MAN

She Wants Women To Look A Woman

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I've read some of your readers' comments resenting men copying women. Isn't it time women quit aping men? To me, women who wear men's attire are disgusting. Walk behind some of them with their mannish haircuts, slacks and shirts. It's impossible to tell which sex you're looking at. This may not interest you, but just wanted to get it off my chest.

Mrs. H. K. D.

Some women in slacks don't look bad for the shape they're in! The principles of good dress apply to both sexes. Whether women adopt a version of a man's item or vice versa isn't important. What one wears should do something for him — or her. If it's in good taste and compliments the figure why fret about who originally wore the item?

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Asking for advice now may be like locking the barn door after the horse is stolen. Probably too late to do any good. At any rate my husband bought a summer suit that's about a third mohair and the rest wool. Since getting it, I've heard that mohair is delicate and we're worried that it won't wear. Did he make a poor selection?

Mrs. M.

Don't believe everything you hear. The amount of mohair in his suit should be ideal. This fiber from the Angora goat adds a crispnses and lustre. Wool gives strength and resilience. I'd call this a pretty good combination for summer wear, wouldn't you? So stop worrying about this selection.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: One of the physical education courses I enjoy at our university is swimming. But it's created a problem. All this water dries my hair and makes it almost impossible to keep it well - groomed. Is there anything you can sugest? I've considered a crew cut but my hair is too fine.

James B.

Here are a few suggestions from an authority familiar with this problem — a swimming coach. (1) Use a good baby oil before and after. (2) Shampoo often to remove the chlorine and then apply oil. (3) Wear a men's swimming cap. I can't think of any other way of solving your problem outside of keeping your head above water.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: You have been writing that double breasted suits are out of style. Yet I recently saw Red Skelton wearing one on T. V. — wide lapels and all. Doesn't seem he'd be wearing one if it's not the "thing." What do you have to say to that?

H.M.

I would say it was a gag. Are you sure he wasn't wearing it while portraying Clem Kaddidlehopper or one of his other famous characters? The only other place I've seen the old style double breasteds is on the late, late show. Incidentally, a new version of the double breasted is beginning to appear. It has trim lapels, narrow shoulders and a small overlap. Very smart.

TIP FOR THE DAY YOUR HUSBAND WILL THANK YOU

Dress shirts and formal accessories aren't ordinarily used every day. They easily become soiled or misplaced. Place the shirt and other items between a folded sheet of wax paper. Seal the three open sides with a warm iron. Then they'll be in perfect shape when needed.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. His new leaflet, "Knotty Problems" will show you how to get an attractive knot in your tie, whether it's a four-in-hand or a bow. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet. Address Harry Juster in care of The World.

Voice Of Broadway

BY DORTHY KILGALLEN

Dear Dorothy: I'm sorry I can't be with you on your trip to attend the wedding of Princess Margaret. I must stay in New York to help organie the "Salute to Cole Porter" on May 15th, at the Metropolitan Opera, for the Children's Asthma Research Institute. We have a fantastic program outlined with Cole's many friends, including Ethel Merman, Mary Martin, Bert Lahr, Anita Loos, Jule Styne and countless others working to make this a really memorable evening. You can be sure that only an affair of this immensity could keep me at home. To me it's doubly important, as I've always admired and respected Cole Porter as one of the greats of our time, and it's heartwarming to see the way his fellow composers — Irving Berlin, Richard Rodgers and Arthur Schwartz, to name only a few, are most eager to participate in honoring this great man.

Nonetheless, I'm filled with nostalgia as I recall the wonderful time we had at the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth, how happy I was to find you at the register of the Savoy Hotel, our going to the theatre together that night to see "Guys and Dolls," our attending the Coronation Ball together.

I can still see myself getting off the boat train at London. I saw a red carpet rolled out before me and thought how wonderful the British are, how nicely they do things, and to what extremes they go. Then I saw the Duke of Edinburgh rushing up with a smile. I was elated and then, much to my chagrin, I discovered his mother was right in back of me. She had been on the same train from Paris.

I remember my first meeting with Princess Margaret. It was that same coronation year, and I had called Oliver Messel (Antony Armstrong - Jones's uncle) to say hello. He was very abrupt on the phone, and simply said I should come to Covent Garden at two o'clock that afternoon. I was puzzled at his abruptness, but intrigued. When I got there I had the pleasure of meeting both the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret. I learned that his abruptness had stemmed from excitement, since the Queen Mother had called him five minutes before I did. She had complimented him on his decor for the ballet the previous evening at Covent Garden, but couldn't enjoy all the details because of the crowds and festivities. So, she wanted to come back to see it again for a quieter appreciation, bringing the princess with her.

And do you remember the wedding of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace? It rained almost for a solid week, and we were all marooned in the Hotel de Paris. On the morning of the wedding we had to appear at 9 a.m. for early morning mass in formal attire. (The sun came out that day for the first time.)

When preparing Celebrity Register for publication this year, I made a point of telling Cleveland Amory, our editor-in-chief, that special emphasis should be placed on your perspicacity, in preparing your profile. I was remembering a luncheon we attended at Somerset Maugham's the week of the Kelly - Rainier wedding. One of my hobbies is well tailored clothes, and I've always considered myself very observant, but I'm no match for you. I was amazed, when I read your report of our lunch with this great man, to see that you described everything he wore down to his cufflinks and handrolled breast pocket handkerchief, yet all the time you conversed with him you seemed completely relaxed and only concerned with the view of the Mediterranean.

There's another side of you, Dorothy, which few people know . . . and should be told . . . and that is your extraordinary energy, and thoroughness for details. Remember when you asked a large group of us to a cocktail party at your home? After our drinks, we were asked to go downstairs for dinner. The front doors were open, and we all found ourselves being ushered into a huge glass-roofed bus, complete with music and flowers. We went on to what was probably the most fascinating and imaginative dinner anyone every enjoyed. We went to a different restaurant for each course, seven courses, seven restaurants, with the bus standing by to take us from place to place. Yet, at each place there were place cards, written in your own hand, for each guest. And we all had different dinner companions on our right and left in each restaurant. Instead of organizing one party you organized and gave seven in one evening. I've gone to many parties, and given a lot myself, but this was the topper.

It was about 20 years ago that I walked into your newspaper office down on South Street to introduce myself and to tell you about a new business I was starting called Celebrity Service. A lot of celebrities have come and gone since that day . . . James Dean, Wendell Willkie, Jacques Fath, Colin Kelly and Mario Lanza, to mention a few.

Princess Margaret was a little girl then. She had just become a world celebrity. Her uncle David had abdicated, and her father succeeded him to the throne. As she grew up, she most assuredly became aware of both the advantages and disadvantages of fame. When she was seen with a suitor more than once, he literally became an overnight celebrity — as in the case of Peter Townsend. When she bestowed her royal friendship upon Tony Armstrong-Jones, and subsequently became engaged to him, his rise to fame was meteoric, and he must be rather bewildered at the thought that henceforth almost everything he does will be front page news. I'm certain now that Princess Margaret can breathe a great sigh of relief, knowing that she will not be the sponsor of any more 'Beau - celebrities.' Now, perhaps the fairest and most famous princess of them all can live happily ever after.

Please wish them long life and all God's blessings.

Love, Earl Blackwell

Set Foreign Aid Measure For Passage

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $4,086,200,000 foreign aid bill—just $88,800,000 shy of what President Eisenhower wanted—was tied together Friday for final passage next week.

Senate and House conferees hammered out a compromise measure after a two-day meeting.

With the authorized ceiling close to his request, Eisenhower already has launched a drive to forestall a threatened billion-dollar cut in a later bill providing the cash. He has said such a cut would produce calamitous results.

The foreign aid measure contains an amendment—agreed to in both houses—striking at the United Arab Republic's ban on Israel shipping in the Suez Canal.

In effect, it invites the President—it is not binding—to withhold aid from the UAR as long as the ban continues. The State Department has expressed fear it would have harmful repercussions in the Middle East and be interpreted as showing partiality toward Israel.

Another provision—tacked on in the House and agreed to by Senate conferees—would cut off aid to Cuba unless the President determines such aid is "in the national and hemispheric interests of the United States."

Only $300,000 in technical aid is involved, but the wording reflects congressional disapproval of anti-U.S. pronouncements by Fidel Castro's government.

The new authorizations, plus those voted last year, make up the $4,086,200,000 total. They include, from last year's authority, two billion dollars for military assistance and 700 million for economic development loans abroad.

Other items include 675 million for economic support for allies, 150 million for the President's Emergency Fund, 256 million in special assistance money, and 172 million for technical assistance.

Type Plane Shot Down Grounded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The remaining U2 weather research planes of the type presumed to be involved in the Soviet claim to have shot down an American draft have been grounded for 15 days, National Aeronautics and Space Administration sources said Friday.

The suspension of research flights, the sources said is to permit a recheck of the planes, and particularly of oxygen equipment.

Moreover, blaming acidity for aches and pains is as out of date as the horse and buggy. If this reader had any confidence in his diagnosis, he would have signed his name.

Another Jerseyite had a leg ulcer for 15 years and spent considerable time and money trying to get it closed. Four years ago she had it covered with a skin graft.

"From the time skin was placed on the crater, I have had no more pain and no more ulcer. I wish I could pass this on to others." Skin grafting is a good remedy, provided the cause of the ulcer cannot be eliminated or otherwise remedied.

People do strange things. "Your column on dishwashing etiquette reminds me of the woman who sat at my table in a cafeteria one day. She washed all her silverware in a glass of water—and, at the end of her meal, drank the water. 'Nuff sed?"

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

NAIL PEELING

M. S. writes: What causes peeling finger nails?

REPLY

The cause is not known, although the condition occurs occasionally with many generalized disorders such as anemia, thyroid deficiency, and infections. There [illegible] possibility that chemical and physical injuries play a [illegible]. This may explain why nail peeling is worse in bottle washers, housewives, and those who scratch for a living. Manicuring [illegible] use of polishes and irritating chemicals may be to blame. Ringworm and other disorders of the nails lead to shedding but other more obvious changes occur first.

OPEN OVERCOATS

S. D. writes: Won't you warn about the danger of allowing young children and teen-agers to leave their coats unbuttoned in cold weather? It can't be safe.

REPLY

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. If these youngsters thrive despite open coats and jackets, the practice must be safe.

SPINAL FUSION

R. T. writes: What is meant by a spinal fusion after a back operation?

REPLY

In this procedure, two or more vertebraes are fastened (fused) together to stiffen the spine and promote healing. It is done in the treatment of arthritis, certain bone infections, and occasionally for a slipped disk.

CARROTS AND CANKERS

L. R. writes: What is there in carrots that causes canker sores on the tongue?

REPLY

Nothing, to my knowledge, unless yours stem from an allergy to carrots. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on canker sores.

CLOTHES MAKE YOUR MAN

She Wants Women To Look A Woman

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I've read some of your readers' comments resenting men copying women. Isn't it time women quit aping men? To me, women who wear men's attire are disgusting. Walk behind some of them with their mannish haircuts, slacks and shirts. It's impossible to tell which sex you're looking at. This may not interest you, but just wanted to get it off my chest.

Mrs. H. K. D.

Some women in slacks don't look bad for the shape they're in! The principles of good dress apply to both sexes. Whether women adopt a version of a man's item or vice versa isn't important. What one wears should do something for him — or her. If it's in good taste and compliments the figure why fret about who originally wore the item?

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Asking for advice now may be like locking the barn door after the horse is stolen. Probably too late to do any good. At any rate my husband bought a summer suit that's about a third mohair and the rest wool. Since getting it, I've heard that mohair is delicate and we're worried that it won't wear. Did he make a poor selection?

Mrs. M.

Don't believe everything you hear. The amount of mohair in his suit should be ideal. This fiber from the Angora goat adds a crispnses and lustre. Wool gives strength and resilience. I'd call this a pretty good combination for summer wear, wouldn't you? So stop worrying about this selection.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: One of the physical education courses I enjoy at our university is swimming. But it's created a problem. All this water dries my hair and makes it almost impossible to keep it well - groomed. Is there anything you can sugest? I've considered a crew cut but my hair is too fine.

James B.

Here are a few suggestions from an authority familiar with this problem — a swimming coach. (1) Use a good baby oil before and after. (2) Shampoo often to remove the chlorine and then apply oil. (3) Wear a men's swimming cap. I can't think of any other way of solving your problem outside of keeping your head above water.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: You have been writing that double breasted suits are out of style. Yet I recently saw Red Skelton wearing one on T. V. — wide lapels and all. Doesn't seem he'd be wearing one if it's not the "thing." What do you have to say to that?

H.M.

I would say it was a gag. Are you sure he wasn't wearing it while portraying Clem Kaddiddlehopper or one of his other famous characters? The only other place I've seen the old style double breasteds is on the late, late show. Incidentally, a new version of the double breasted is beginning to appear. It has trim lapels, narrow shoulders and a small overlap. Very smart.

TIP FOR THE DAY YOUR HUSBAND WILL THANK YOU

Dress shirts and formal accessories aren't ordinarily used every day. They easily become soiled or misplaced. Place the shirt and other items between a folded sheet of wax paper. Seal the three open sides with a warm iron. Then they'll be in perfect shape when needed.

Mr. Juster will be glad to answer your questions. His new leaflet, "Knotty Problems" will show you how to get an attractive knot in your tie, whether it's a four-in-hand or a bow. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet. Address Harry Juster in care of The World.

Voice Of Broadway

BY DORTHY KILGALLEN

Dear Dorothy: I'm sorry I can't be with you on your trip to attend the wedding of Princess Margaret. I must stay in New York to help organie the "Salute to Cole Porter" on May 15th, at the Metropolitan Opera, for the Children's Asthma Research Institute. We have a fantastic program outlined with Cole's many friends, including Ethel Merman, Mary Martin, Bert Lahr, Anita Loos, Jule Styne and countless others working to make this a really memorable evening. You can be sure that only an affair of this immensity could keep me at home. To me it's doubly important, as I've always admired and respected Cole Porter as one of the greats of our time, and it's heartwarming to see the way his fellow composers — Irving Berlin, Richard Rodgers and Arthur Schwartz, to name only a few, are most eager to participate in honoring this great man.

Nonetheless, I'm filled with nostalgia as I recall the wonderful time we had at the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth, how happy I was to find you at the register of the Savoy Hotel, our going to the theatre together that night to see "Guys and Dolls," our attending the Coronation Ball together.

I can still see myself getting off the boat train at London. I saw a red carpet rolled out before me and thought how wonderful the British are, how nicely they do things, and to what extremes they go. Then I saw the Duke of Edinburgh rushing up with a smile. I was elated and then, much to my chagrin, I discovered his mother was right in back of me. She had been on the same train from Paris.

I remember my first meeting with Princess Margaret. It was that same coronation year, and I had called Oliver Messel (Antony Armstrong - Jones's uncle) to say hello. He was very abrupt on the phone, and simply said I should come to Covent Garden at two o'clock that afternoon. I was puzzled at his abruptness, but intrigued. When I got there I had the pleasure of meeting both the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret. I learned that his abruptness had stemmed from excitement, since the Queen Mother had called him five minutes before I did. She had complimented him on his decor for the ballet the previous evening at Covent Garden, but couldn't enjoy all the details because of the crowds and festivities. So, she wanted to come back to see it again for a quieter appreciation, bringing the princess with her.

And do you remember the wedding of Prince Rainier and Princess Grace? It rained almost for a solid week, and we were all marooned in the Hotel de Paris. On the morning of the wedding we had to appear at 9 a.m. for early morning mass in formal attire. (The sun came out that day for the first time.)

When preparing Celebrity Register for publication this year, I made a point of telling Cleveland Amory, our editor-in-chief, that special emphasis should be placed on your perspicacity, in preparing your profile. I was remembering a luncheon we attended at Somerset Maugham's the week of the Kelly - Rainier wedding. One of my hobbies is well tailored clothes, and I've always considered myself very observant, but I'm no match for you. I was amazed, when I read your report of our lunch with this great man, to see that you described everything he wore down to his cufflinks and handrolled breast pocket handkerchief, yet all the time you conversed with him you seemed completely relaxed and only concerned with the view of the Mediterranean.

There's another side of you, Dorothy, which few people know . . . and should be told . . . and that is your extraordinary energy, and thoroughness for details. Remember when you asked a large group of us to a cocktail party at your home? After our drinks, we were asked to go downstairs for dinner. The front doors were open, and we all found ourselves being ushered into a huge glass-roofed bus, complete with music and flowers. We went on to what was probably the most fascinating and imaginative dinner anyone every enjoyed. We went to a different restaurant for each course, seven courses, seven restaurants, with the bus standing by to take us from place to place. Yet, at each place there were place cards, written in your own hand, for each guest. And we all had different dinner companions on our right and left in each restaurant. Instead of organizing one party you organized and gave seven in one evening. I've gone to many parties, and given a lot myself, but this was the topper.

It was about 20 years ago that I walked into your newspaper office down on South Street to introduce myself and to tell you about a new business I was starting called Celebrity Service. A lot of celebrities have come and gone since that day . . . James Dean, Wendell Willkie, Jacques Fath, Colin Kelly and Mario Lanza, to mention a few.

Princess Margaret was a little girl then. She had just become a world celebrity. Her uncle David had abdicated, and her father succeeded him to the throne. As she grew up, she most assuredly became aware of both the advantages and disadvantages of fame. When she was seen with a suitor more than once, he literally became an overnight celebrity — as in the case of Peter Townsend. When she bestowed her royal friendship upon Tony Armstrong-Jones, and subsequently became engaged to him, his rise to fame was meteoric, and he must be rather bewildered at the thought that henceforth almost everything he does will be front page news. I'm certain now that Princess Margaret can breathe a great sigh of relief, knowing that she will not be the sponsor of any more 'Beau - celebrities.' Now, perhaps the fairest and most famous princess of them all can live happily ever after.

Please wish them long life and all God's blessings.

Love, Earl Blackwell

Type Plane Shot Down Grounded

WASHINGTON (AP) — The remaining U2 weather research planes of the type presumed to be involved in the Soviet claim to have shot down an American draft have been grounded for 15 days, National Aeronautics and Space Administration sources said Friday.

The suspension of research flights, the sources said is to permit a recheck of the planes, and particularly of oxygen equipment.

Set Foreign Aid Measure For Passage

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $4,086,200,000 foreign aid bill—just $88,800,000 shy of what President Eisenhower wanted—was tied together Friday for final passage next week.

Senate and House conferees hammered out a compromise measure after a two-day meeting.

With the authorized ceiling close to his request, Eisenhower already has launched a drive to forestall a threatened billion-dollar cut in a later bill providing the cash. He has said such a cut would produce calamitous results.

The foreign aid measure contains an amendment—agreed to in both houses—striking at the United Arab Republic's ban on Israel shipping in the Suez Canal.

In effect, it invites the President—it is not binding—to withhold aid from the UAR as long as the ban continues. The State Department has expressed fear it would have harmful repercussions in the Middle East and be interpreted as showing partiality toward Israel.

Another provision—tacked on in the House and agreed to by Senate conferees—would cut off aid to Cuba unless the President determines such aid is "in the national and hemispheric interests of the United States."

Only $300,000 in technical aid is involved, but the wording reflects congressional disapproval of anti-U.S. pronouncements by Fidel Castro's government.

The new authorizations, plus those voted last year, make up the $4,086,200,000 total. They include, from last year's authority, two billion dollars for military assistance and 700 million for economic development loans abroad.

Other items include 675 million for economic support for allies, 150 million for the President's Emergency Fund, 256 million in special assistance money, and 172 million for technical assistance.

INTERPRETIVE

Some Thoughts On Week's News

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Some thoughts after scanning a week's news:

If and when the United States files a protest over the Soviet plane incident it will be merely for the record. The Soviets won't pay any attention, their attitude ready being clear.

They will insist they were countering an aggressive act, no matter how much they know better.

They could also reply, on good grounds, that if a Soviet plane acted the same way over Maine, it would be shot down. The difference is that the United States would take such action with regret, whereas the Communists take it with pride.

It's always warming when the English people take occasion to display their feeling for the royal family. In a cold and calculating world, they cling to a corner of fairyland.

Every now and then South Africa tries to get the United States to raise her price on gold. Yet production has been increasing from record-breaking veins. One mine, eight years old and still only partly developed, reports a net profit of half a million dollars a month. The value of gold shares on the Johannesburg exchange has jumped 450 million dollars in two years. Many observers think South Africa will withdraw from the Commonwealth after she becomes a republic. At any rate, the Queen's picture is to be dropped from new coins when a new coinage system goes into effect next year. Conservationists, moving a herd of 110 bontboks, members of the antelope family, will give them tranquilizers before loading them into trucks. There have been no reports of such service when human beings are moved into the all-black reservations.

The speed of events, not the mere passage of time, determines the length of a span in history.

Twenty years ago Adolf Hitler sent his panzers and stukas against Belgium, Holland and France. Norway and Denmark already were subjugated. Britain feared destruction.

This week France joined Belgium and Holland in agreeing to give West Germany the rear area airbases. Similar negotiations are being undertaken with Britain, Norway and Denmark.

The first five years of the period were an eternity, the last 15 very short, considering the changes.

Some Thoughts On Week's News

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Some thoughts after scanning a week's news:

If and when the United States files a protest over the Soviet plane incident it will be merely for the record. The Soviets won't pay any attention, their attitude ready being clear.

They will insist they were countering an aggressive act, no matter how much they know better.

They could also reply, on good grounds, that if a Soviet plane acted the same way over Maine, it would be shot down. The difference is that the United States would take such action with regret, whereas the Communists take it with pride.

It's always warming when the English people take occasion to display their feeling for the royal family. In a cold and calculating world, they cling to a corner of fairyland.

Every now and then South Africa tries to get the United States to raise her price on gold. Yet production has been increasing from record-breaking veins. One mine, eight years old and still only partly developed, reports a net profit of half a million dollars a month. The value of gold shares on the Johannesburg exchange has jumped 450 million dollars in two years. Many observers think South Africa will withdraw from the Commonwealth after she becomes a republic. At any rate, the Queen's picture is to be dropped from new coins when a new coinage system goes into effect next year. Conservationists, moving a herd of 110 bontboks, members of the antelope family, will give them tranquilizers before loading them into trucks. There have been no reports of such service when human beings are moved into the all-black reservations.

The speed of events, not the mere passage of time, determines the length of a span in history.

Twenty years ago Adolf Hitler sent his panzers and stukas against Belgium, Holland and France. Norway and Denmark already were subjugated. Britain feared destruction.

This week France joined Belgium and Holland in agreeing to give West Germany the rear area airbases. Similar negotiations are being undertaken with Britain, Norway and Denmark.

The first five years of the period were an eternity, the last 15 very short, considering the changes.

Special Session To Be Studied By Gov. Barnett

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett promised 56 legislators Friday he would study their request for a special session to reshuffle legislative seats.

The governor barred newsmen from the proceedings as Reps. Russell Davis of Hinds County and Sutton Marks of Hinds-Yazoo handed him the petition in his office.

"I told them I'd study it," Barnett told The Associated Press. "I'll study anything."

The presentation came after Davis and Marks waited 90 minutes in the reception room and after administrative assistant John Aldridge screened the document and questioned the lawmakers.

Rep. Jim Neal of Hinds County appeared with his colleagues, but was irritated by the long wait and the screening and stalked off.

The petition reminded Barnett that he had promised in his inaugural address that he would support reapportionment.

The two lawmakers said Barnett gave them the impression he would give the petition mature consideration, and that they would wait and see.

Two Children Burn To Death

Eugene Edney and his wife were unable to save Elizabeth, 11, and Joseph, 6, from the flames.

The family occupied half of a small building and the blaze began on the other side, reports said. Corrie Long and her two children escaped the other side without injury.

Man Admits Theft Series In Louisiana

GRENADA, Miss. (AP)—Grenada police Friday held a 23-year-old man they said admitted a series of thefts from his home town of Marshall, Mo., to Louisiana.

William Bishop was arrested first trying to enter a shoe shop here. He broke away but was taken into custody again at the same shop a short time later.

When caught the second time, officers said, Bishop had about $6 worth of clothing taken from the shop.

They said he admitted stealing two wheels and tires and surveying instruments from government owned trucks here. All items were recovered.

Investigating officers said Bishop admitted stealing a car in Marshall and making his way to the Shreveport, La., area where he stole two shotguns, a .22 caliber rifle, binoculars and a camera.

He was arrested in New Orleans and the camera recovered. He said he stole a car in Shreveport and made his way to Poplarville where he took another car and drove to Grenada.

Officers said Bishop told police he was wanted in New Orleans for armed robbery and stealing an automobile, but that he was innocent of the charges. He escaped from New Orleans First District police station and fled in a sheriff's car, officers said.

He said he also was wanted by the FBI for transporting a stolen car across state lines.

Man Kills Self After Shooting Two-Week Bride

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Charles Edward Dickson, 33, seriously wounded his wife and then committed suicide after she told him to "pack up and get out," police reported today.

Mrs. Hazel Morris Dickson, 37, was reported in critical condition from a chest wound and an abdomen wound.

Police said they had been married less than two weeks.

Detectives Homer Day and Bill Ruby said the shootings last night resulted from an argument over Jerry Jeffries, Mrs. Dickson's son by a previous marriage. The woman said that after she ordered her husband to pack up and leave, he started to load clothes in a car parked outside.

Dickson then returned to the front door, she said, and shot her twice and then turned the gun on himself. Dr. E. Preston Ferguson, deputy coroner, said the man died en route to a hospital.

Strike Called By Baton Rouge Painters Union

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Union officials Friday called a strike of about 300 local union painters after negotiations broke down between painting contractors and the union.

J. Adam Lanehart, president of the Baton Rouge chapter of the Master Painters Assn., said local 728 of the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers Union voted to stay off jobs beginning Monday and there seemed little liklihood of any agreement by that time.

Union painters are asking a 25-cent-an-hour pay increase across the board and a contract clause that they would not be required to spray industrial buildings. They demand a right to paint by brush.

The contractors offered a 10-cent-an-hour boost over two years. This has been rejected by the unions. Negotiations began some five months ago, with little progress since.

Program Change Sought In Bill By Rep. Sanders

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rep. A. T. Sanders said Friday he will offer several bills seeking legislative reapportionment, already approved by incoming Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

The East Baton Rouge Parish lawmaker said he will file seven or eight measures in the legislative session opening Monday.

Some, he said, are designed especially to give East Baton Rouge as many as five house members and others for general reapportionment of the Legislature as provided in the constitution.

Sanders said in November Gov.-elect Davis said in answering a query of the Baton Rouge Junior Chamber of Commerce:

"In all fairness to everyone in Louisiana I would be in favor of reapportionment of the state."

Drunken Brawl Injures Man; Three In Jail

MATHISTON, Miss. (AP) — Sheriff S. R. Washam reported Friday one man was in serious condition and three others were jailed in a shooting following a "drunken brawl."

Washam said the victim was Charles C. Reed, shot in the stomach with a .22 caliber bullet. He said arrested for questioning were Mack Hester of Webster County, and Clint Boswell and W. G. Goden of El Paso, Tex., who were visiting on the farm where the shooting occurred.

Officers said Hester apparently was trying to get some sleep and Reed disturbed him.

Plant Planned

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Nopco Chemical Co. announced plans for a 7 - million - dollar isocyanates plant in New Jersey. The plant would open early in 1962 with a capacity of 10 million pounds a year. Isocyanate is a raw material used in urethane plastic foam and other chemical products.

Verdict Of Innocent Returned Here

Marshall Rose, 27, of Monett, Mo., was indicted by the Ouachita Parish grand jury on a charge of theft of parts valued at $101.53 from Brown's Esso Service.

The trial consumed most of the day in Fourth District Court. Judge David I. Garrett presided.

ARRAIGNED

In other action, Robert Aulds, 17, Route 1, West Monroe, George F. Crain, 18, Route 2, Box 78, Oak Grove and Willie McDaniel, 20, 400 West Madison St., Bastrop were arraigned on two charges of simple burglary.

Aulds and Crain also were charged with theft of $52 from David Martin Shepheard.

All three pled innocent. The burglary charges stem from entries of Sterlington Oil Co. and the Triangle Service Station on U. S. 165 on April 27.

A charge of issuing a worthless $27.50 check against Tommie Ervin, Bon Aire Drive, was dismissed. Officials said he had made the check good, and that the complaint had been dropped.

Three men were fined $300 and court costs or 60 days each in the Ouachita Parish jail on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating alcoholic beverages:

Levon Robinson, 50, 1001 Huey St., Bastrop; Homer Charles McRaney, 51, Odessa, Tex., and Eldon H. Rogers, 29, Route 2, Box 271, Farmerville.

Henry L. Birdsong, 40, General Delivery, Porter, Tex., was fined $25 and costs or 10 days on a charge of driving with switched license plates.

Trial for Ellis McDaniels, West Monroe man charged with contributing to the deliquency of juveniles, was set for June 10.

Brief Rites For Firestone Are Conducted

HAVANA (UPI) — A brief service was held in a funeral home Friday for Harvey S. Firestone III, heir to a rubber fortune, prior to removal of the body to St. Petersburg, Fla.

Police listed the death of Firestone, 32, as apparent suicide. He plunged to his death from the 20th floor of the Havana Hilton Hotel Thursday night. Medical examiners waived an autopsy and authorized return of the body to the Firestone home.

U. S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal attended the funeral service.

Two men were with Firestone, a cripple since birth due to cerebral palsy, at the time of his death. They were David M. Firestone, a cousin, and William J. Didas, a male nurse.

According to police, Firestone apparently pitched from his wheelchair over the balcony of his hotel room and fell 17 floors to the roof of a third-story wing jutting over the street.

Medical examiners decided to forego a formal autopsy after making a visual examination of the body and examining the site from which Firestone fell to his death.

The dead man's parents, Harvey S. Firestone Jr. and his wife, were in Europe on a business trip. They left London for the United States. With them was their daughter, Elizabeth, and her husband, Charles Willis.

Young Firestone's own wife, the former Beverly Lou McFarlan, of Brecksville, Ohio, was believed to be visiting her parents. They were married in 1956 and have a daughter, Diane.

Pedestrian Hit By Car Sustains Minor Injuries

A Monroe man received minor injuries yesterday afternoon when he was hit by a truck at the intersection of Louisville and North 4th Streets.

William Lipton, 59, 406 Bres Street, was taken to St. Francis hospital after the mishap. His doctor said that Lipton apparently suffered only "minor bruises and abrasions."

According to police, Lipton was walking across Louisville when the truck, driven by James H. Bullock, 51, of Delhi struck him. Bullock said that he could not stop in time to avoid the accident.

No charges were filed.

Mississippi's Business Drop Small In March

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —Mississippi's business activity dropped slightly in March after a record February, the Mississippi Business Review said Friday, but will remain high.

The monthly publication of the Mississippi State University business research station said bank debits and ordinary life insurance sales were at an all-time high for March.

False Address Told In Story

The Mrs. O. S. Hill who was involved in an accident Wednesday afternoon involving Christine Deegan, was not the same Mrs. Hill who lives at 1400 Fairview Ave.

Due to a reporting error, the wrong Mrs. Hill became involved in the circumstances following the mishap on Auburn Street.

The correct address of the Mrs. Hill who was actually driver of the vehicle which hit the Deegan girl has not been ascertained.

Special Session To Be Studied By Gov. Barnett

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett promised 56 legislators Friday he would study their request for a special session to reshuffle legislative seats.

The governor barred newsmen from the proceedings as Reps. Russell Davis of Hinds County and Sutton Marks of Hinds-Yazoo handed him the petition in his office.

"I told them I'd study it," Barnett told The Associated Press. "I'll study anything."

The presentation came after Davis and Marks waited 90 minutes in the reception room and after administrative assistant John Aldridge screened the document and questioned the lawmakers.

Rep. Jim Neal of Hinds County appeared with his colleagues, but was irritated by the long wait and the screening and stalked off.

The petition reminded Barnett that he had promised in his inaugural address that he would support reapportionment.

The two lawmakers said Barnett gave them the impression he would give the petition mature consideration, and that they would wait and see.

Two Children Burn To Death

Eugene Edney and his wife were unable to save Elizabeth, 11, and Joseph, 6, from the flames.

The family occupied half of a small building and the blaze began on the other side, reports said. Corrie Long and her two children escaped the other side without injury.

Man Admits Theft Series In Louisiana

GRENADA, Miss. (AP)—Grenada police Friday held a 23-year-old man they said admitted a series of thefts from his home town of Marshall, Mo., to Louisiana.

William Bishop was arrested first trying to enter a shoe shop here. He broke away but was taken into custody again at the same shop a short time later.

When caught the second time, officers said, Bishop had about $6 worth of clothing taken from the shop.

They said he admitted stealing two wheels and tires and surveying instruments from government owned trucks here. All items were recovered.

Investigating officers said Bishop admitted stealing a car in Marshall and making his way to the Shreveport, La., area where he stole two shotguns, a .22 caliber rifle, binoculars and a camera.

He was arrested in New Orleans and the camera recovered. He said he stole a car in Shreveport and made his way to Poplarville where he took another car and drove to Grenada.

Officers said Bishop told police he was wanted in New Orleans for armed robbery and stealing an automobile, but that he was innocent of the charges. He escaped from New Orleans First District police station and fled in a sheriff's car, officers said.

He said he also was wanted by the FBI for transporting a stolen car across state lines.

Man Kills Self After Shooting Two-Week Bride

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Charles Edward Dickson, 33, seriously wounded his wife and then committed suicide after she told him to "pack up and get out," police reported today.

Mrs. Hazel Morris Dickson, 37, was reported in critical condition from a chest wound and an abdomen wound.

Police said they had been married less than two weeks.

Detectives Homer Day and Bill Ruby said the shootings last night resulted from an argument over Jerry Jeffries, Mrs. Dickson's son by a previous marriage. The woman said that after she ordered her husband to pack up and leave, he started to load clothes in a car parked outside.

Dickson then returned to the front door, she said, and shot her twice and then turned the gun on himself. Dr. E. Preston Ferguson, deputy coroner, said the man died en route to a hospital.

Strike Called By Baton Rouge Painters Union

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Union officials Friday called a strike of about 300 local union painters after negotiations broke down between painting contractors and the union.

J. Adam Lanehart, president of the Baton Rouge chapter of the Master Painters Assn., said local 728 of the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers Union voted to stay off jobs beginning Monday and there seemed little liklihood of any agreement by that time.

Union painters are asking a 25-cent-an-hour pay increase across the board and a contract clause that they would not be required to spray industrial buildings. They demand a right to paint by brush.

The contractors offered a 10-cent-an-hour boost over two years. This has been rejected by the unions. Negotiations began some five months ago, with little progress since.

Program Change Sought In Bill By Rep. Sanders

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rep. A. T. Sanders said Friday he will offer several bills seeking legislative reapportionment, already approved by incoming Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

The East Baton Rouge Parish lawmaker said he will file seven or eight measures in the legislative session opening Monday.

Some, he said, are designed especially to give East Baton Rouge as many as five house members and others for general reapportionment of the Legislature as provided in the constitution.

Sanders said in November Gov. elect Davis said in answering a query of the Baton Rouge Junior Chamber of Commerce:

"In all fairness to everyone in Louisiana I would be in favor of reapportionment of the state."

Drunken Brawl Injures Man; Three In Jail

MATHISTON, Miss. (AP) — Sheriff S. R. Washam reported Friday one man was in serious condition and three others were jailed in a shooting following a "drunken brawl."

Washam said the victim was Charles C. Reed, shot in the stomach with a .22 caliber bullet. He said arrested for questioning were Mack Hester of Webster County, and Clint Boswell and W. G. Goden of El Paso, Tex., who were visiting on the farm where the shooting occurred.

Officers said Hester apparently was trying to get some sleep and Reed disturbed him.

Plant Planned

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Nopco Chemical Co. announced plans for a 7 - million - dollar isocyanates plant in New Jersey. The plant would open early in 1962 with a capacity of 10 million pounds a year. Isocyanate is a raw material used in urethane plastic foam and other chemical products.

Verdict Of Innocent Returned Here

Marshall Rose, 27, of Monett, Mo., was indicted by the Ouachita Parish grand jury on a charge of theft of parts valued at $101.53 from Brown's Esso Service.

The trial consumed most of the day in Fourth District Court. Judge David I. Garrett presided.

ARRAIGNED

In other action, Robert Aulds, 17, Route 1, West Monroe, George F. Crain, 18, Route 2, Box 78, Oak Grove and Willie McDaniel, 20, 400 West Madison St., Bastrop were arraigned on two charges of simple burglary.

Aulds and Crain also were charged with theft of $52 from David Martin Shepheard.

All three pled innocent. The burglary charges stem from entries of Sterlington Oil Co. and the Triangle Service Station on U. S. 165 on April 27.

A charge of issuing a worthless $27.50 check against Tommie Ervin, Bon Aire Drive, was dismissed. Officials said he had made the check good, and that the complaint had been dropped.

Three men were fined $300 and court costs or 60 days each in the Ouachita Parish jail on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating alcoholic beverages:

Levon Robinson, 50, 1001 Huey St., Bastrop; Homer Charles McRaney, 51, Odessa, Tex., and Eldon H. Rogers, 29, Route 2, Box 271, Farmerville.

Henry L. Birdsong, 40, General Delivery, Porter, Tex., was fined $25 and costs or 10 days on a charge of driving with switched license plates.

Trial for Ellis McDaniels, West Monroe man charged with contributing to the deliquency of juveniles, was set for June 10.

Brief Rites For Firestone Are Conducted

HAVANA (UPI) — A brief service was held in a funeral home Friday for Harvey S. Firestone III, heir to a rubber fortune, prior to removal of the body to St. Petersburg, Fla.

Police listed the death of Firestone, 32, as apparent suicide. He plunged to his death from the 20th floor of the Havana Hilton Hotel Thursday night. Medical examiners waived an autopsy and authorized return of the body to the Firestone home.

U. S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal attended the funeral service.

Two men were with Firestone, a cripple since birth due to cerebral palsy, at the time of his death. They were David M. Firestone, a cousin, and William J. Didas, a male nurse.

According to police, Firestone apparently pitched from his wheelchair over the balcony of his hotel room and fell 17 floors to the roof of a third-story wing jutting over the street.

Medical examiners decided to forego a formal autopsy after making a visual examination of the body and examining the site from which Firestone fell to his death.

The dead man's parents, Harvey S. Firestone Jr. and his wife, were in Europe on a business trip. They left London for the United States. With them was their daughter, Elizabeth, and her husband, Charles Willis.

Young Firestone's own wife, the former Beverly Lou McFarlan, of Brecksville, Ohio, was believed to be visiting her parents. They were married in 1956 and have a daughter, Diane.

Pedestrian Hit By Car Sustains Minor Injuries

A Monroe man received minor injuries yesterday afternoon when he was hit by a truck at the intersection of Louisville and North 4th Streets.

William Lipton, 59, 406 Bres Street, was taken to St. Francis hospital after the mishap. His doctor said that Lipton apparently suffered only "minor bruises and abrasions."

According to police, Lipton was walking across Louisville when the truck, driven by James H. Bullock, 51, of Delhi struck him. Bullock said that he could not stop in time to avoid the accident.

No charges were filed.

Mississippi's Business Drop Small In March

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) —Mississippi's business activity dropped slightly in March after a record February, the Mississippi Business Review said Friday, but will remain high.

The monthly publication of the Mississippi State University business research station said bank debits and ordinary life insurance sales were at an all-time high for March.

False Address Told In Story

The Mrs. O. S. Hill who was involved in an accident Wednesday afternoon involving Christine Deegan, was not the same Mrs. Hill who lives at 1400 Fairview Ave.

Due to a reporting error, the wrong Mrs. Hill became involved in the circumstances following the mishap on Auburn Street.

The correct address of the Mrs. Hill who was actually driver of the vehicle which hit the Deegan girl has not been ascertained.

Tribe Trackmen Heavy Favorites

By BOB ANDERSON
World Sports Editor

Going by last year's meet, Northeast's unblemished track record appears in little danger today in the 67th annual Southern AAU Track and Field Meet in Baton Rouge.

Running before Monroe fans at Brown Stadium last May, Northeast made a shambles of the AAU affair, scoring 22 points to 68 for runnerup Louisiana Tech. The Tribe trackmen, running last year as they will today as the Northeast Louisiana Track Club, also won the junior division easily, racking up 59 points to 14 for second - place McNeese.

Another reason for the expected Northeast victory is the 11 straight triumphs the Indians have rolled up this season. Lew Hartzog's powerful team has beaten most of today's entries several times already this year and LSU, considered the second strongest team in the meet, five times.

Also, the Tribe, except for the Styrons who ran in the Drake Relays, enjoyed a weekend off last week, their first open date of the season.

Today's competition begins at 1:00 with prelims, if necessary, to start at 12:30.

A stronger field is expected for this year's meet, to be held on the LSU track. LSU did not send a team to last year's affair but the Southeastern Conference champions will be represented today along with Tech, Tulane, Mississippi State, Ole Miss, McNeese, SLI, Southeastern, Northwestern and some outstanding unattached entries headed by former North Texas State flash Jimmy Weaver and defending mile and two - mile champ Warren Burns.

Weaver, who beat Bobby Morrow in the 200 - meter dash of the Texas Relays pril 2, is expected to duel with Northeast's Dave Styron in the sprints today along with Tech's Pat Garrett, LSU's Ralph Fabian and Northeast's Roger Beumer.

Weaver finished behind Morrow and Styron in the 100 - meter dash in the Southwestern Relays this spring. Garrett scored one of his rare victories over Styron in the SAAU meet in Monroe last year, easily besting the Indian speedster in the 220 and tying him in the century.

Track events today will be over metric distances as in the Olympics.

Burns, a former Mississippi State star and now an army officer at Fort Sill, Okla., and Northeast's crack distance ace, Buddy Eiland, head the list of entries in the 1500 and 5000 meters.

The other half of the Styron twins combination, Don, will be at the scene of his greatest performance. The hurdler bettered the world's 220 - yard low hurdles record with a 21.9 clocking in a dual meet with LSU April 2 and rules a heavy favorite in today's 110 and 400 - meter hurdles. LSU's Dickie Durham is expected to offer Don his stiffest competition.

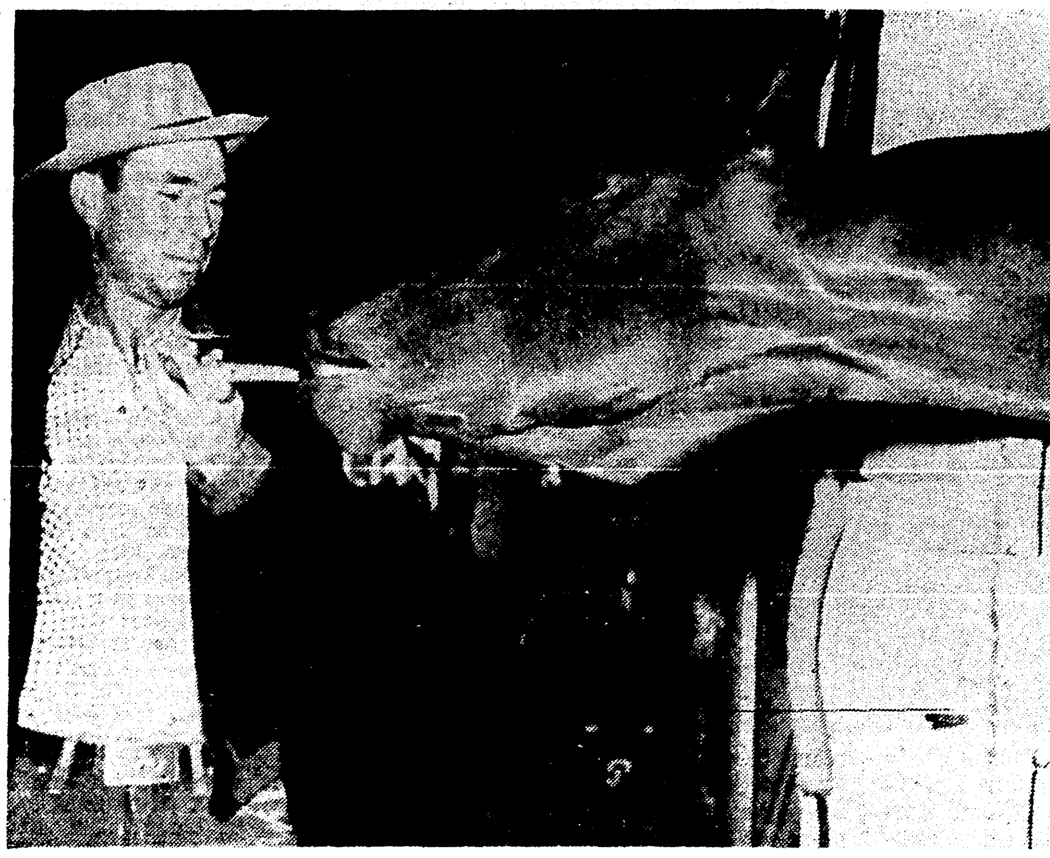
Dave Styron will also possibly run the 400 meters, an event he and Don ran last week in the Drake Relays. Don finished third behind Glenn Davis and Eddie Southern with Dave fourth. Dick Hays and Jim Mouser are definite Indian entries in the 400.

The Styrons, Mouser and Hays will be prohibitive favorites in the mile relay.

The field events should offer some of the best duels of the day. LSU's big Lad Bandaries and Northeast's Hoy Rogers are expected to dominate the weight events. Bandaries usually wins the shot and Rogers the discus.

Northeast's John Pennel, who cleared 15-1/4 early this season indoors, and Joe Harris of LSU, who set a Southern AAU record as a freshman last year with a 14-7 vault, are the class of the pole vault entries.

Star Northeast freshman Jerry Dyes is scheduled to compete in the junior division, where he's slated for eight events, the shot, discus, javelin, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, hop - step - and - jump and the mile relay.



A STRETCH like this might come in handy today for Bally Ache, one of the favorites in the Kentucky Derby. A carrot offered by groom Bud Biggerstaff prompted the long reach. (AP Wirephoto)

86TH RUNNING

Tompion, Bally Ache Solid Choices In Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tompion, a Kentucky horse who earned a racing reputation in California, and Bally Ache, the star of the Florida 3-year-olds stood out like the twin steeples of Churchill Downs Friday in last-day prospecting for Saturday's 86th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Tompion was the 7-5 favorite, with Bally Ache rated at 2-1 despite some uncertainties in the size of the field they must face in the fabled Run for the Roses.

This first of the 1960 Triple Crown events will be televised and radio 4:30-4:45 p.m.

Bally Ache, owned by Leonard Fruchtman, would get a lot more betting support on a wet track. On that score the weather will have much to do with the figures on the mutuel boards at post time.

Originally these two were to have opposed a dozen horses, but the total field might just be that big when the bugle blows.

Late afternoon switching as the result of doubtful starters prompted the Churchill Downs management to revise the parimutuel field to include Spring Broker, Henrijan and Fighting Hodge, leaving Yomolka as a solo contender in the wagering — but still 30-1 or upwards.

Trainer Farrell Jones listed Henrijan as a "doubtful starter." However he said that no firm decision has been made, and the horse has not been withdrawn. He indicated the final choice might not be made much before the deadline, which is 45 minutes before post time.

Place—Churchill Downs.
Post time—4:30 p.m., EST
Starters—14 three-year-olds entered.

Favorite—Tompion, 7-5.
Last year's winner—Tomy Lee, 2:02 1-5.
Distance—1¼ miles.
Record—2:01 2-5 by Whirlaway in 1941.
Crowd—100,000 expected.
Television and radio — 4:15-4:45 p.m. EST (CBS).
Weather—Partly cloudy and cool forecast.

NEVILLE RUNNERUP

Ruston Captures 2-AA Track Title

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Ruston, Mansfield and Waterproof high schools captured district track championships in competition held at Louisiana Tech Friday.

District track action will continue at Louisiana Tech Saturday when competition for districts 1-B, 2-B and 3-B will begin at 1:30 at the Bulldog stadium.

In winning its fourth straight district track title Ruston rolled up a total of 108½ points to take the 2-AA championship. Other scoring in this division included Neville of Monroe 72, Haynesville 67 and Jonesboro - Hodge 34½.

Mansfield scored 80 points to take the district 1-A crown. Following Mansfield were Coushatta 63, Winnfield 60, Farmerville 53, LaSalle of Olla 31 and Many 7.

The Class C championship went to Waterproof which racked up 70½ points. Davidson of St. Joseph was runnerup with 48¼. Other Class C scores were Summerfield 32¼, Atlanta 27, Bienville 24½, Start 22, Stonewall 22, Central of Delhi 22, Dodson 10½, Weston 8, Calvin 7½, Ogden 5½.

Five new districts were set in 2-AA action and five new marks were established and one was tied in Class C. Existing records in 1-A were not available since the meet was not held here last year.

Joe Cage of Neville tossed the javelin 200 feet 3½ inches for a new district standard. In the pole vault Gary Johnson of Haynesville cleared 12 feet 4 inches to set a record. Ruston's mile relay team composed of Woodrow Chew, Johnny Porter, Jim Frazier and Edwin Davis set a new mark of 3:30.5.

Davis of Ruston also ran the 440-yard dash in a record time of 50.1 seconds. Ruston's Allen Carpenter topped the 120 - yard high hurdles with a new mark of 15.5 seconds.

In Class C new records were chalked up by Bobby Wallace of Waterproof with 10.4 seconds in the 100 - yard dash. Tom Daughdrill of Central with 51.9 in the 440 - yard dash and Arlan Evans of Davidson with a 2:13.3 clocking in the 880 - yard run.

Bennie Gasper of Stonewall tossed the discus 120 feet 6¾ inches for a new record while Larry Mosley of Bienville pole vaulted 11 feet even for a new mark. Larry Mixon of Atlanta tied the 180 - yard low hurdle record of 22.5 seconds.

Repulski Traded

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles outfielder Rip Repulski is being traded to the Boston Red Sox for pitcher Nelson Chittum and cash, the Dodgers announced Friday night.

The amount of cash involved was not disclosed.

First report of the trade came on Dodger outfielder Duke Snider's local radio show. General Manager Buzzie Bavasi later confirmed the deal.

He said Chittum would be assigned to the Dodgers' Montreal farm club.

Northeast Routs Spring Hill, 9-4

MOBILE, Ala. (Special) — Catcher John O'Connor blasted his fifth home run of the season with a mate aboard in the sixth inning here Friday as Northeast's Indians routed Spring Hill College, 9-4.

Veteran righthander Jerry Rouse relieved Tribe starter Bobby Lockwood in the second stanza after Spring Hill had pushed across three runs and shackled the hosts on five hits the rest of the way to pick up his second victory against four setbacks.

George Luffey's Indians, who padded their record to 9-11 for the season, travel to Hattiesburg, Miss., today to encounter Mississippi Southern in a single game. Luffey has named freshman lefthander Jerry Godwin to open on the mound.

O'Connor's sixth - inning homer, a 350-foot shot over the left field wall, helped pull the invaders from a four - run deficit and with Rouse hurling brilliantly, the Indians were never headed.

Spring Hill hopped on Lockwood, a freshman righthander, for three runs in their first time at bat. A double by lead off batter Gallina, a fielder's choice and a single by Nolfe set the stage for Cochrane's ground rule double which cleared the bags.

Northeast muffed a good scoring opportunity in the second frame when Mickey Yerger, pinch hitting for Lockwood, flied out with the bases loaded to end the inning.

Spring Hill tagged Rouse for a single run in the third to make it 4-0 before Northeast broke the scoring ice in the fifth.

Eddie McGowen beat out a drag bunt to start the one-run inning. Louis Kincaid followed with a single and consecutive walks to O'Connor and George Bryan forced in a run.

The Indians wrapped it up in the sixth, pushing over four tallies to go ahead 5-4. Singles by Ronnie Sims, McGowen and Petras drove in one run and McGowen scored when Kincaid forced Petras at second. Then O'Connor unloaded his towering home run with Kincaid aboard.

Northeast finished up with four runs in a wild ninth. With O'Connor and Kincaid on base, Spring Hill pitcher Toppey attempted to pick Kincaid off second and both runners scored when he threw wild.

Tigers, Flyers Vie For Title Here Today

If there's anything to the business of the third time being a charm, Neville and St. John's of Shreveport will square off here this afternoon to determine the North Louisiana bi-district champion.

Wet grounds forced a postponement of yesterday's scheduled windup after heavy rains had washed out Thursday's originally scheduled contest.

Game time is 1:30 on the Neville diamond.

Neville took the opening game in the best-of-three series at Shreveport Monday. Should St. John's capture the opening game today, a second and contest will follow immediately.

A single victory today will send the Tigers, unopposed district 2-AA champions, into the state quarterfinals against Menard of Alexandria next week. Menard, district 3-AA winner, bested Opelousas in the Southwest bi-district playoff.

Either righthander Neal Gunn, who scored the victory last Monday, or portsider L. M. Welch is slated to get the starting call for Neville today.

Bulletin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies survived a 15-strikeout performance by Sanday Koufax, broke through for five unearned runs in the 10th inning and defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1 Friday night before 20,165.

IN SOUTHERN AAU

Tribe Trackmen Heavy Favorites

By BOB ANDERSON
World Sports Editor

Going by last year's meet, Northeast's unblemished track record appears in little danger today in the 67th annual Southern AAU Track and Field Meet in Baton Rouge.

Running before Monroe fans at Brown Stadium last May, Northeast made a shambles of the AAU affair, scoring 22 points to 68 for runnerup Louisiana Tech. The Tribe trackmen, running last year as they will today as the Northeast Louisiana Track Club, also won the junior division easily, racking up 59 points to 14 for second - place McNeese.

Another reason for the expected Northeast victory is the 11 straight triumphs the Indians have rolled up this season. Lew Hartzog's powerful team has beaten most of today's entries several times already this year and LSU, considered the second strongest team in the meet, five times.

Also, the Tribe, except for the Styrons who ran in the Drake Relays, enjoyed a weekend off last week, their first open date of the season.

Today's competition begins at 1:00 with prelims, if necessary, to start at 12:30.

A stronger field is expected for this year's meet, to be held on the LSU track. LSU did not send a team to last year's affair but the Southeastern Conference champions will be represented today along with Tech, Tulane, Mississippi State, Ole Miss, McNeese, SLI, Southeastern, Northwestern and some outstanding unattached entries headed by former North Texas State flash Jimmy Weaver and defending mile and two - mile champ Warren Burns.

Weaver, who beat Bobby Morrow in the 200 - meter dash of the Texas Relays pril 2, is expected to duel with Northeast's Dave Styron in the sprints today along with Tech's Pat Garrett, LSU's Ralph Fabian and Northeast's Roger Beumer.

Weaver finished behind Morrow and Styron in the 100 - meter dash in the Southwestern Relays this spring. Garrett scored one of his rare victories over Styron in the SAAU meet in Monroe last year, easily besting the Indian speedster in the 220 and tying him in the century.

Track events today will be over metric distances as in the Olympics.

Burns, a former Mississippi State star and now an army officer at Fort Sill, Okla., and Northeast's crack distance ace, Buddy Eiland, head the list of entries in the 1500 and 5000 meters.

The other half of the Styron twins combination, Don, will be at the scene of his greatest performance. The hurdler bettered the world's 220 - yard low hurdles record with a 21.9 clocking in a dual meet with LSU April 2 and rules a heavy favorite in today's 110 and 400 - meter hurdles. LSU's Dickie Durham is expected to offer Don his stiffest competition.

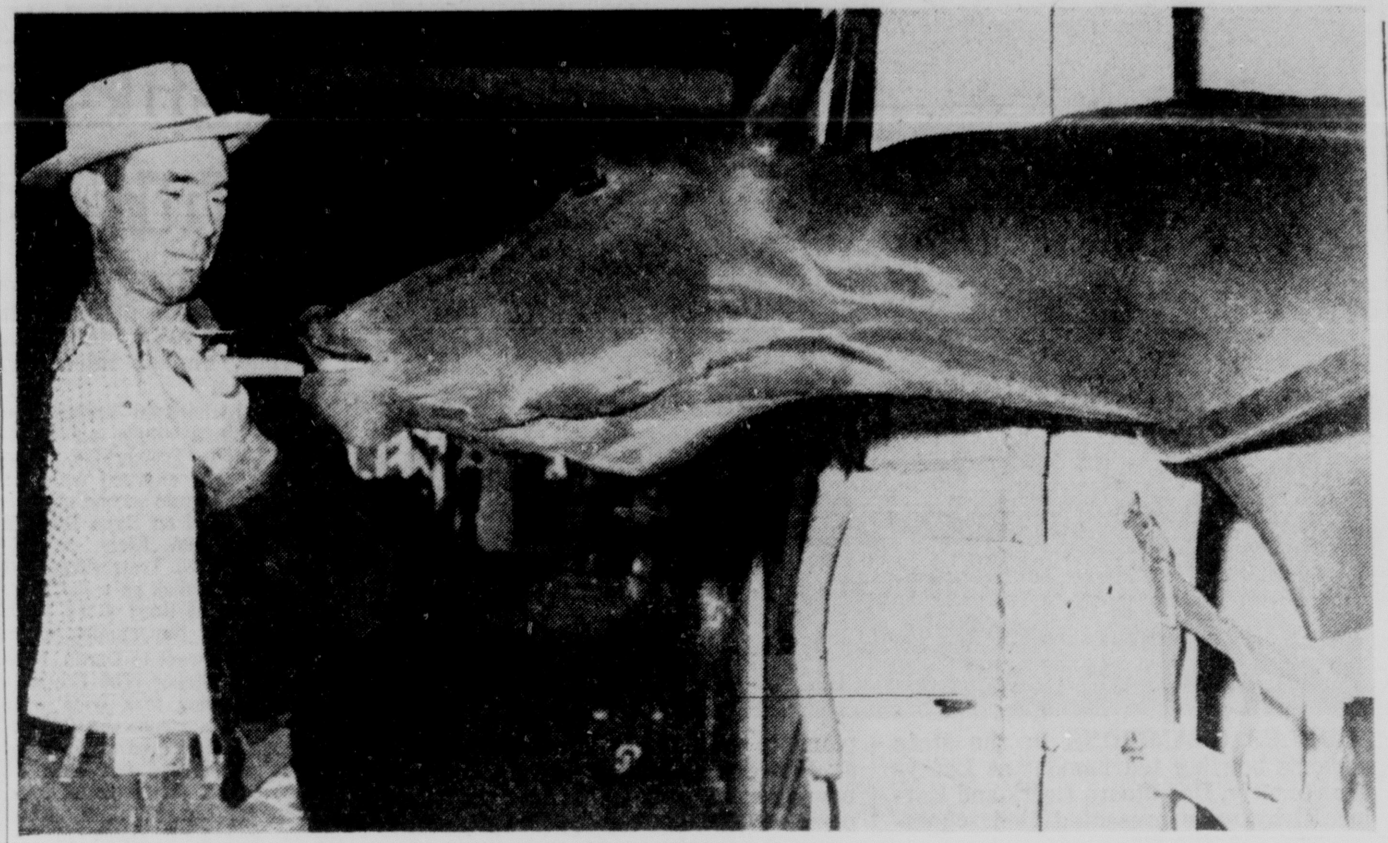
Dave Styron will also possibly run the 400 meters, an event he and Don ran last week in the Drake Relays. Don finished third behind Glenn Davis and Eddie Southern with Dave fourth. Dick Hays and Jim Mouser are definite Indian entries in the 400.

The Styrons, Mouser and Hays will be prohibitive favorites in the mile relay.

The field events should offer some of the best duels of the day. LSU's big Lud Bandaries and Northeast's Hoy Rogers are expected to dominate the weight events. Bandaries usually wins the shot and Rogers the discus.

Northeast's John Pennel, who cleared 15-1/4 early this season indoors, and Joe Harris of LSU, who set a Southern AAU record as a freshman last year with a 14-7 vault, are the class of the pole vault entries.

Star Northeast freshman Jerry Dyes is scheduled to compete in the junior division, where he's slated for eight events, the shot, discus, javelin, broad jump, high jump, pole vault, hop - step - and - jump and the mile relay.



A STRETCH like this might come in handy today for Bally Ache, one of the favorites in the Kentucky Derby. A carrot offered by groom Bud Biggerstaff prompted the long reach. (AP Wirephoto)

Tompion, Bally Ache Solid Choices In Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tompion, a Kentucky horse who earned a racing reputation in California, and Bally Ache, the star of the Florida 3-year-olds stood out like the twin steeples of Churchill Downs Friday in last-day prospecting for Saturday's 86th running of the Kentucky Derby.

Tompion was the 7-5 favorite, with Bally Ache rated at 2-1 despite some uncertainties in the size of the field they must face in the fabled Run for the Roses.

This first of the 1960 Triple Crown events will be televised and radio 4:30-45 p.m.

Bally Ache, owned by Leonard Fruchtman, would get a lot more betting support on a wet track. On that score the weather will have much to do with the figures on the mutuel boards at post time.

Originally these two were to have opposed a dozen horses, but the total field might just be that big when the bugle blows.

Late afternoon switching as the result of doubtful starters prompted the Churchill Downs management to revise the parimutuel field to include Spring Broker, Henrijan and Fighting Hodge, leaving Yomolka as a solo contender in the wagering — but still 30-1 or upwards.

Trainer Farrell Jones listed Henrijan as a "doubtful starter." However he said that no firm decision has been made, and the horse has not been withdrawn. He indicated the final choice might not be made much before the deadline, which is 45 minutes before post time.

Place—Churchill Downs.

Starters—14 three-year-olds entered.
Purse—$125,000 added to nominating and starting fees making gross of $160,100 on basis 14 starters.
Purse distribution—Net to winner $116,100 if 14 go, second $25,000; third, $12,500; fourth $5,000.
Favorite—Tompion, 7-5.
Last year's winner—Tomy Lee, 2:02 1-5.
Distance—1¼ miles.
Record—2:01 2-5 by Whirlaway in 1941.
Crowd—100,000 expected.
Television and radio — 4:15-4:45 p.m. EST (CBS).
Weather—Partly cloudy and cool forecast.

NEVILLE RUNNERUP

Ruston Captures 2-AA Track Title

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Ruston, Mansfield and Waterproof high schools captured district track championships in competition held at Louisiana Tech Friday.

District track action will continue at Louisiana Tech Saturday when competition for districts 1-B, 2-B and 3-B will begin at 1:30 at the Bulldog stadium.

In winning its fourth straight district track title Ruston rolled up a total of 108½ points to take the 2-AA championship. Other scoring in this division included Neville of Monroe 72, Haynesville 67 and Jonesboro - Hodge 34½.

Mansfield scored 80 points to take the district 1-A crown. Following Mansfield were Coushatta 63, Winnfield 60, Farmerville 53, LaSalle of Olla 31 and Many 7.

The Class C championship went to Waterproof which racked up 70½ points. Davidson of St. Joseph was runnerup with 48¼. Other Class C scores were Summerfield 32¼, Atlanta 27, Bienville 24½, Start 22, Stonewall 22, Central of Delhi 22, Dodson 10½, Weston 8, Calvin 7½, Ogden 5½.

Five new districts were set in 2-AA action and five new marks were established and one was tied in Class C. Existing records in 1-A were not available since the meet was not held here last year.

Joe Cage of Neville tossed the javelin 200 feet 3½ inches for a new district standard. In the pole vault Gary Johnson of Haynesville cleared 12 feet 4 inches to set a record. Ruston's mile relay team composed of Woodrow Chew, Johnny Porter, Jim Frazier and Edwin Davis set a new mark of 3:30.5.

Davis of Ruston also ran the 440-yard dash in a record time of 50.1 seconds. Ruston's Allen Carpenter topped the 120 - yard high hurdles with a new mark of 15.5 seconds.

In Class C new records were chalked up by Bobby Wallace of Waterproof with 10.4 seconds in the 100 - yard dash, Tom Daughdrill of Central with 51.9 in the 440 - yard dash and Arlan Evans of Davidson with a 2:13.3 clocking in the 880 - yard run.

Bennie Gasper of Stonewall tossed the discus 120 feet 6¾ inches for a new record while Larry Mosley of Bienville pole vaulted 11 feet even for a new mark. Larry Mixon of Atlanta tied the 180 - yard low hurdle record of 22.5 seconds.

Repulski Traded

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Los Angeles outfielder Rip Repulski is being traded to the Boston Red Sox for pitcher Nelson Chittum and cash, the Dodgers announced Friday night.

The amount of cash involved was not disclosed.

First report of the trade came on Dodger outfielder Duke Snider's local radio show. General Manager Buzzie Bavasi later confirmed the deal.

He said Chittum would be assigned to the Dodgers' Montreal farm club.

Northeast Routs Spring Hill, 9-4

MOBILE, Ala. (Special) — Catcher John O'Connor blasted his fifth home run of the season with a mate aboard in the sixth inning here Friday as Northeast's Indians routed Spring Hill College, 9-4.

Veteran righthander Jerry Rouse relieved Tribe starter Bobby Lockwood in the second stanza after Spring Hill had pushed across three runs and shackled the hosts on five hits the rest of the way to pick up his second victory against four setbacks.

George Luffey's Indians, who padded their record to 9-11 for the season, travel to Hattiesburg, Miss., today to encounter Mississippi Southern in a single game. Luffey has named freshman lefthander Jerry Godwin to open on the mound.

O'Connor's sixth - inning homer, a 350-foot shot over the left field wall, helped pull the invaders from a four - run deficit and with Rouse hurling brilliantly, the Indians were never headed.

Spring Hill hopped on Lockwood, a freshman righthander, for three runs in their first time at bat. A double by lead off batter Gallina, a fielder's choice and a single by Nolfe set the stage for Cochrane's ground rule double which cleared the bags.

Northeast muffed a good scoring opportunity in the second frame when Mickey Yerger, pinch hitting for Lockwood, flied out with the bases loaded to end the inning.

Spring Hill tagged Rouse for a single run in the third to make it 4-0 before Northeast broke the scoring ice in the fifth.

Eddie McGowen beat out a drag bunt to start the one-run inning. Louis Kincaid followed with a single and consecutive walks to O'Connor and George Bryan forced in a run.

The Indians wrapped it up in the sixth, pushing over four tallies to go ahead 5-4. Singles by Ronnie Sims, McGowen and Petras drove in one run and McGowen scored when Kincaid forced Petras at second. Then O'Connor unloaded his towering home run with Kincaid aboard.

Northeast finished up with four runs in a wild ninth. With O'Connor and Kincaid on base, Spring Hill pitcher Toppey attempted to pick Kincaid off second and both runners scored when he threw wild.

Tigers, Flyers Vie For Title Here Today

If there's anything to the business of the third time being a charm, Neville and St. John's of Shreveport will square off here this afternoon to determine the North Louisiana bi-district champion.

Wet grounds forced a postponement of yesterday's scheduled windup after heavy rains had washed out Thursday's originally scheduled contest.

Game time is 1:30 on the Neville diamond.

Neville took the opening game in the best-of-three series at Shreveport Monday. Should St. John's capture the opening game today, a second contest will follow immediately.

A single victory today will send the Tigers, unopposed district 2-AA champions, into the state quarterfinals against Menard of Alexandria next week. Menard, district 3-AA winner, bested Opelousas in the Southwest bi-district playoff.

Either righthander Neal Gunn, who scored the victory last Monday, or portsider L. M. Welch is slated to get the starting call for Neville today.

Bulletin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies survived a 15-strikeout performance by Sanday Koufax, broke through for five unearned runs in the 10th inning and defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1 Friday night before 20,165.

A SATURDAY OF LITERATURE

There's an article in the current issue of Sport Magazine entitled "Billy Cannon and the Pro Football War." There was also an article in last week's Saturday Evening Post entitled "I Serve on the 'Sin Committee'" by George H. Young, chairman of the NCAA Committee on Infractions.

The Sport story concerns, naturally enough, the battle between the National Football League and the new American circuit for Billy' services, a battle that young Cannon set off himself by signing with clubs in both leagues.

Two different stories, one about professional athletics and the other about college or amateur athletics. But change a name here an there and you couldn't tell the difference.

Cannon has been a target of talent hunters ever since he was a high school undergrad. He was heavily courted when he graduated from high school. Four years later, he was even more ardently pursued by the professionals.

Billy must shoulder most of the blame for his current troubles himself. He made an agreement and then broke it.

But although Cannon is 22-years-old—no longer a boy—it is not too surprising that he is in trouble. He has been subjected to a "hardsell," two of them in fact, and it would take a man of more than ordinary maturity and judgement to avoid being confused by it all. And he is not the first to find himself in a situation of this sort.

Mr. Young's article also concerns confused young men. But the young men Mr. Young deals with are not men at all but boys. They too are subjected to fast-talking salesmen and are much less prepared to handle them than was Cannon. They are high school boys of exceptional talent who are targets of college recruiters.

Athletic recruiting may be a dirty word to some people but it shouldn't be. It is an established part, a necessary part, of present-day college athletics.

There are many abuses in recruiting, more than in any other phase of college athletics. That's natural. As any coach will tell you, recruiting is the most important factor in winning teams. You don't win without the horses and to get the horses something more than hay is often used as bait.

The pressure to win in college athletics is often every bit as strong as it is in professional sports. That pressure is felt throughout the whole structure of college sports, at the administrative, coaching and recruiting levels and too often it hits hardest on those least able to cope with it, the high school boys still wet behind the ears who must decide which school they're going to endow with their talents.

In his article Young mentions several recruiting cases those involving Jack Moreland, Kent Bryan, Sonny Holmes and others. These boys were subjected to a lot of pressure and some of them had to grow up fast to handle it. Some of the boys, like Moreland, have managed to develop into mature young men and fine athletes despite the mental and emotional strain and notoriety of recruiting scandals. Some haven't.

The worst thing about recruiting abuses is that the most of them could be prevented. They could be prevented by a national letter of intent, binding the signee to one school and preventing any change of heart.

Recruiting begins in December and does not end when a boy is signed. With the exceptional athletes, the battle really begins with the signing. All that is accomplished when, for example, LSU signs a boy, is that 11 rivals, the other Southeastern Conference schools, are elminated. There are plenty of others left, the Southwest Conference teams, the GSC members, etc. In other words, every college in the country except the ones in the SEC.

So the fight goes on all winter, all summer and into the fall. There are plenty of cases of schools "rescuing" prospects off the campus of a rival college just as school opens.

A boy here in Monroe, Neville's Mickey Cox, is currently involved in a tug-of-war between LSU and Arkansas. He signed contracts with both and at last report was undecided where he'll go to school.

Mickey, besides being an excellent tackle, seems to be a pretty level-headed young man and we think he'll make the right decision sooner or later. But no matter what he decides he's going to be fair game until he is safely enrolled and settled down in some college next fall.

Under the nationwide letter of intent plan, the recruiting battle is over, as far as NCAA teams are concerned, when a boy signs, not when he enters school in the fall.

The NCAA has come up with another angle on the nationwide letter of intent, one that would give the recruit the option of signing the regular contract presently in effect or a voluntary agreement which binds him to one NCAA member and puts him off limits to the rest.

Voluntary or not, the nationwide letter of intent could do a lot for college athletics. Sounds like the pros could use one too.

PATRICK'S PERFECT GAME

Andy Patrick's perfect game in a Little Boys Baseball game at Oak Grove Tuesday night is, as far as national Little Boys Commissioner Daniel Jones knows, the first ever pitched in the organization.

Jones says the league keeps records only of national playoff games and has no statistics on regular season play. But he says he has never heard of anyone hurling a perfect game in the league.

Patrick, a 12-year-old, struck out all 18 batters and rapped out a triple and double as his Braves beat the Dodgers, 3-0, in a West Carroll League game.

Frick Vows All-Out Fight Against Kefauver's Bill

NEW YORK (AP) — Organized baseball vowed Friday an all-out fight against the legislation proposed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) that would put the sport under the antitrust laws.

Ford Frick, baseball commissioner, termed the Kefauver bill "vicious, discriminatory and disastrous" at a press conference.

"This bill is absolutely unacceptable because it goes beyond antitrust exemptions and attempts to spell out the operating rules for baseball. It is the most harmful bill for baseball ever proposed," he said.

Paul Rand Dixon, counsel for the Senate antimonopoly subcommittee, said in Washington that Kefauver's proposal is anything but discriminatory.

"It breaks up monopoly," Dixon said. "That's what it does."

Kefauver heads the subcommittee, which intends to open hearings on the measure later this month. Frick will be invited to testify, as will Branch Rickey, president of the formative Continental League, and George Trautman, head of the minor leagues.

Dixon said Kefauver's bill would not require any major league team to abandon its farm franchises and would give the majors two years to reduce the number of players it controls to 100.

He contended it would strengthen the minors by increasing the number of players they control—and could sell to the majors.

The minors also would be fortified by protection from major league telecasts, Dixon said.

And, he added, equalization of player controls would aid major league teams that now wind up consistently in the second division.

Frick did make one concession. He said it would be perfectly acceptable to baseball if it were placed in the same category as football, basketball and hockey, with the same restrictions.

"I think the bill embracing football, basketball and hockey is a good one," he said. "If they treat baseball the same way, they'd have a more acceptable bill. It okays their draft, exempts them from specified television restrictions and makes no limitation of player control."

"Remember, this would be a federal law," said Frick, referring to Kefauver's bill. "Once it passes, it's for perpetuity. It passed, it would change the whole structure of baseball. It would result in the elimination of the minor leagues and a financial loss to the men who through the years have supported minor league operations through money, time, effort and ingenuity."

Frick said such a bill give federal legislators the power to operate baseball's business.

"I don't think baseball is a business for federal regulation," he said. "If we're running our business illegally, then they should send us to jail."

The Kefauver bill would limit a club to control of 100 players, give drafted players a team choice, and stipulate new rules for future major league status conflicting greately with the present code.

The 65-year-old baseball leader, making no attempt to conceal his anger, took apart the bill, proposal by proposal.

"The bill stipulates that all but 40 players from each team must be put up for unrestricted draft," he pointed out, "and no club may control more than 100 players. What happens to those who are not drafted? Do we cast them adrift?

"It decrees that a new major league of eight cities may be organized provided it has a combined population of 12 million people. Under this rule you can take New York and seven communities with populations of 50,000 or less and form a big league. It makes no provision that any new league shall offer any financial security. (The present rule stipulates that the population of a city in a proposed new league shall not be less than the smallest population in the present majors).

"The bill also ignores the minor leagues, making no provisions for indemnity to minor league cities for the taking of their territories."

Riley Ousted By Higgins In Southern Am

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Mrs. A. T. Higgins Jr. of New Orleans dropped a 12-foot putt in a sudden death playoff Friday to oust favored Polly Riley in the women's Southern Amateur Golf Tournament's semifinals.

Mrs. Higgins' upset victory moved her into Saturday's 36-hole final round against defending champion Judy Eller of Old Hickory, Tenn.

Miss Eller trimmed long-hitting Mary Mills of Gulfport, Miss., 3 and 2 in Friday's other semifinal match over the soggy, 5,986-yard Metairie County Club course.

The end of the trial for Miss Riley, five-time Southern champion from Fort Worth, Tex., came on the first hole of the playoff in a light rain.

Both Polly and Mrs. Higgins dropped their third shot 12 feet from the pin on the 386-yard hole. But Mrs. Higgins—"Jackie" to the gallery—curled her putt into the cup while Miss Riley's attempt to tie missed by 3 inches.

The upset was of gigantic proportions since the 32-year-old Mrs. Higgins is playing in only her second Southern tournament while such competition is old hat to Miss Riley, a former member of the U. S. Curtis Cup team.

Mrs. Higgins missed a chance to end the hole on the 18th when her 3-foot putt slipped just past the cup. Miss Riley dropped a 2-footer to send the match into an extra session. Both were 8-over at 82 for the 18 holes.

The 19-year-old Miss Eller has a date on the Curtis Cup team against British women golfers in two weeks.

One of the deciding factors in her victory came on the eighth hole when Miss Mills hooked her drive out of bounds. She took a bogey 5 while Miss Eller matched par and went 1-up. Miss Eller never trailed after that and ended the match with a birdie 4 on the 413-yard 16th hole. Miss Eller was even with par when she closed the match.

Elgin Baylor of Minneapolis averaged 33.4 points in nine National Basketball Assn. playoff games last season.

Harris, Amoros Switch Uniforms

BOSTON (AP)—The Detroit Tigers traded first baseman Gail Harris to the Los Angeles Dodgers for outfielder Sandy Amoros Friday in a straight player swap.

Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Tigers made the announcement but had no comment concerning the deal.

Both players have been used primarily as pinch hitters this season.

Harris hit 20 home runs while playing 134 games for the Tigers in 1958 just after being traded along with Ossie Virgil by the San Francisco Giants for Jim Finigan. However, he tailed off last season.

Amoros, left-handed hitting Cuban, spent most of last year on the farm club in Montreal. He was batting .143 on two hits in 14 trips for the Dodgers.

Harris, who will report to St. Paul in the American Assn., had no hits in five trips.

3RD STRAIGHT WIN

Yanks Retain Grip On First With 8-7 Victory Over A's

NEW YORK (AP) — Gil McDougald's two-out, tie-breaking single in the eight inning gave the New York Yankees an 8-7 triumph over Kansas City Friday.

The Yanks' third straight victory kept them in first place.

Bobby Richardson opened the eighth with a single off right-hander Bob Trowbridge, who eventually was charged with the defeat. Bobby stole second and advanced to third on Ryne Duren's infield out. Leo Kiely, a left-hander, replaced Trowbridge and retired Tony Kubek on a short fly, but McDougald lined a 3-2 pitch over short for the winning hit.

The victory went to Duren, New York's fifth pitcher. The fire-balling right-hander took over with one out and a runner on first in the eighth. He walked two batters to load the bases but escaped without a run. Ryne closed fast, striking out Harry Chiti, Russ Snyder and Pete Daley in the ninth.

It was the first victory for Duren who now has not given up a hit in his last nine innings.

Elston Howard and Roger Maris paced the Yankees' 12-hit attack. Howard drove in three runs with a pair of singles, Maris rapped a double and two singles in three official times at bat to raise his league leading batting average to .476. He scored three runs and drove in two.

Norm Siebern and Hank Bauer, two of the players who figured in the trade for Maris last winter, were the A's stickouts. Siebern cracked a home run and double, driving in two. Bauer, in a pinch hit role, drove in the tying run with a sixth inning single and scored a minute later to give the A's a temporary 7-5 lead.

The Yankees, who had dissipated an early 5-1 lead, tied 7-7 in the seventh. McDougald walked and scored on Maris' double and Roger came home on a single by Howard.

Jim Coates started for the Yankees but failed to survive the fourth inning when the A's pushed over three runs on three hits to narrow New York's lead to 5-4. Duke Maas, Bobby Shantz and John Gabler pitched ineffectively before Duren.

The A's used four pitchers. Bud Daley started and was tagged for eight hits before giving way to Ken Johnson in the third.

Siebern's homer, his fifth, came in the second inning with none on. All 14 Kansas City homers this season have come with the bases empty.

O'Brien Declines To Meet Nieder

LOGAN, Utah (AP)— Olympic shot put champion Parry O'Brien has declined to compete against Army Lt. Bill Nieder in the Agathon Olympiad next Friday at Utah State University.

Nieder topped O'Brien by 10 inches in the recent Drake Relays. He also tossed the shot 65 feet 7 inches in the Texas Relays this spring, a mark pending official world recognition.

A SATURDAY OF LITERATURE

There's an article in the current issue of Sport Magazine entitled "Billy Cannon and the Pro Football War." There was also an article in last week's Saturday Evening Post entitled "I Serve on the 'Sin Committee'" by George H. Young, chairman of the NCAA Committee on Infractions.

The Sport story concerns, naturally enough, the battle between the National Football League and the new American circuit for Billy' services, a battle that young Cannon set off himself by signing with clubs in both leagues.

Two different stories, one about professional athletics and the other about college or amateur athletics. But change a name here an there and you couldn't tell the difference.

Cannon has been a target of talent hunters ever since he was a high school undergrad. He was heavily courted when he graduated from high school. Four years later, he was even more ardently pursued by the professionals.

Billy must shoulder most of the blame for his current troubles himself. He made an agreement and then broke it.

But although Cannon is 22-years-old—no longer a boy—it is not too surprising that he is in trouble. He has been subjected to a "hardsell," two of them in fact, and it would take a man of more than ordinary maturity and judgement to avoid being confused by it all. And he is not the first to find himself in a situation of this sort.

Mr. Young's article also concerns confused young men. But the young men Mr. Young deals with are not men at all but boys. They too are subjected to fast-talking salesmen and are much less prepared to handle them than was Cannon. They are high school boys of exceptional talent who are targets of college recruiters.

Athletic recruiting may be a dirty word to some people but it shouldn't be. It is an established part, a necessary part, of present-day college athletics.

There are many abuses in recruiting, more than in any other phase of college athletics. That's natural. As any coach will tell you, recruiting is the most important factor in winning teams. You don't win without the horses and to get the horses something more than hay is often used as bait.

The pressure to win in college athletics is often every bit as strong as it is in professional sports. That pressure is felt throughout the whole structure of college sports, at the administrative, coaching and recruiting levels and too often it hits hardest on those least able to cope with it, the high school boys still wet behind the ears who must decide which school they're going to endow with their talents.

In his article Young mentions several recruiting cases those involving Jack Moreland, Kent Bryan, Sonny Holmes and others. These boys were subjected to a lot of pressure and some of them had to grow up fast to handle it. Some of the boys, like Moreland, have managed to develop into mature young men and fine athletes despite the mental and emotional strain and notoriety of recruiting scandals. Some haven't.

The worst thing about recruiting abuses is that the most of them could be prevented. They could be prevented by a national letter of intent, binding the signee to one school and preventing any change of heart.

Recruiting begins in December and does not end when a boy is signed. With the exceptional athletes, the battle really begins with the signing. All that is accomplished when, for example, LSU signs a boy, is that 11 rivals, the other Southeastern Conference schools, are elminated. There are plenty of others left, the Southwest Conference teams, the GSC members, etc. In other words, every college in the country except the ones in the SEC.

So the fight goes on all winter, all summer and into the fall. There are plenty of cases of schools "rescuing" prospects off the campus of a rival college just as school opens.

A boy here in Monroe, Neville's Mickey Cox, is currently involved in a tug-of-war between LSU and Arkansas. He signed contracts with both and at last report was undecided where he'll go to school.

Mickey, besides being an excellent tackle, seems to be a pretty level-headed young man and we think he'll make the right decision sooner or later. But no matter what he decides he's going to be fair game until he is safely enrolled and settled down in some college next fall.

Under the nationwide letter of intent plan, the recruiting battle is over, as far as NCAA teams are concerned, when a boy signs, not when he enters school in the fall.

The NCAA has come up with another angle on the nationwide letter of intent, one that would give the recruit the option of signing the regular contract presently in effect or a voluntary agreement which binds him to one NCAA member and puts him off limits to the rest.

Voluntary or not, the nationwide letter of intent could do a lot for college athletics. Sounds like the pros could use one too.

PATRICK'S PERFECT GAME

Andy Patrick's perfect game in a Little Boys Baseball game at Oak Grove Tuesday night is, as far as national Little Boys Commissioner Daniel Jones knows, the first ever pitched in the organization.

Jones says the league keeps records only of national playoff games and has no statistics on regular season play. But he says he has never heard of anyone hurling a perfect game in the league.

Patrick, a 12-year-old, struck out all 18 batters and rapped out a triple and double as his Braves beat the Dodgers, 3-0, in a West Carroll League game.

Yanks Retain Grip On First With 8-7 Victory Over A's

Jim Coates started for the Yankees but failed to survive the fourth inning when the A's pushed over three runs on three hits to narrow New York's lead to 5-4. Duke Maas, Bobby Shantz and John Gabler pitched ineffectively before Duren.

The A's used four pitchers. Bud Daley started and was tagged for eight hits before giving way to Ken Johnson in the third.

Siebern's homer, his fifth, came in the second inning with none on. All 14 Kansas City homers this season have come with the bases empty.

O'Brien Declines To Meet Nieder

LOGAN, Utah (AP)— Olympic shot put champion Parry O'Brien has declined to compete against Army Lt. Bill Nieder in the Agathon Olympiad next Friday at Utah State University.

Nieder topped O'Brien by 10 inches in the recent Drake Relays. He also tossed the shot 65 feet 7 inches in the Texas Relays this spring, a mark pending official world recognition.

STALEY STARS IN RELIEF

Score Picks Up First Win As Chicago Clips Nats, 3-0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herb Score and Gerry Staley combined for a three-hit shutout of Washington Friday night as pinch hitter Ted Kluszewski and Earl Torgeson drove in all the runs in the 3-0 Chicago victory before 13,238.

The victory kept the White Sox in a virtual tie with New York for the American League lead. The Yankees edged Kansas City 8-7.

Score pitched three-hit ball for six innings, leaving for a pinch hitter in the top of the seventh when Chicago scored all its runs. It was Score's first victory since last July 3 after losing seven in a row.

Staley held the Senators hitless in the last three innings, walking two men. The White Sox relief specialist is unscored on in seven appearances this year, covering 15 2-3 innings.

Chicago's runs came after two were out. Al Smith hit a pop fly double to center. Jim Landis walked and then pinch hitters Kluszewski and Torgeson singled to clinch the victory for Chicago.

Until the White Sox staged their winning rally, Pedro Ramos, Washington starter, had limited them to one hit.

Ramos, losing his third game without a victory, had a streak of five straight strikeouts. In the fourth, he fanned Brown and Score, and in the fifth, he mowed down Luis Aparicio, Nellie Fox and Minnie Minoso.

Ramos fell one short of the American League record, held by eight pitchers when Roy Sievers grounded out to open the seventh.

NFL Clears One Hurdle In Cannon Case

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League won a legal skirmish Friday with the fledgling American Football League in U.S. District Court.

The case involved a suit brought by the NFL's Los Angeles Rams against halfback Billy Cannon, former Louisiana State star who signed a contract with Houston of the AFL.

Attorneys for the NFL filed a motion before Judge Thomas C. Egan asking that depositions to be taken Saturday from three NFL officials by counsel for Cannon be limited in nature.

Attorney Thomas Hart of Philadelphia said the subpoenas in connection with the depositions would have forced the NFL to produce all of its records in the past six years for perusal by its competitor, the AFL.

McKenzie To Manage Vols

Dave McKenzie has agreed to manage the West Monroe Vols of the La-Ark League again, club president L. E. Fritch said Friday.

Orioles Score 7 In 4th To Top Indians

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning Friday night to ease the way for Hal Brown's 9-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Brown, who notched his second straight complete game victory without a loss, had his shutout ruined with two out in the ninth when Woody Held hit his sixth homer of the year with one runner aboard.

The 35-year-old Brown allowed eight hits, only three after the third inning. He retired the side in order four times and set down 10 men in a row during one stretch.

ESSIG, BEARD TIED

LSU Grabs Lead In Southern Golf

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Louisiana State raced off with the team title and Tiger Capt. Don Essig tied Frank Beard of Florida for the individual lead in the second round of the Southern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament Friday.

Paced by Essig's 69-72—141, the powerful LSU Tigers posted a 573 aggregate score, 3-under-par, and captured both the SIC and Southeastern Conference team championships. The SEC crowns are determined in the SIC event each year.

LSU's team set a conference record, beating by two shots the mark Florida posted five years ago. The Southern Intercollegiate record is 570.

Officials toughened up the hilly, 6,745-yard Athens Country Club course for the second round. The scores showed it. Only six players bettered the layout's par 36-36—72, compared with 14 Thursday.

Beard, lanky bespectacled Gator ace, appeared headed for sole possession of first place coming in to the 18th. But the tough, dogleg par 4 hole cost him a stroke just as it did several other challengers. Beard three-putted for a bogey and finished with a 73 and a tie with Essig.

Four others were one stroke behind the co-leaders. They are first round leader Paul Erhardt of North Carolina, 67-75; his teammate, Peter Green 70-72; Jack Kendzior of North Texas State 68-74; and Howell Fraser of LSU, 71-71.

Erhardt and Green took 5s on the 18th and Kendzior, who had a 32 on the front and a 42 on the back, took a double bogey 6.

In the team competition LSU won by 10 strokes over runner-up North Carolina. North Texas State finished third at 587. Georgia, the defending SEC champion, and Florida tied for fourth at 588. Houston, the defending SIC and NCAA champion, took sixth at 590.

The original field of 154 was cut to the 44 low scorers for Saturday's 36-hole finale. A score of 150 or under qualified for the last round.

Among those failing to make the cut was pre-tournament favorate Dick Crawford of Houston, last year's NCAA individual titlist. Crawford took a 76-76—152.

Sam Snead won his 104th major golf victory when he won the DeSota Lakes Open at Sarasota, Fla., in March.

MEET OF CHAMPIONS

Barber Fashions One-Stroke Lead

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) —Little Jerry Barber, pitching and putting with phenomenal accuracy, rolled into the leadership at the halfway mark in the Tournament of Champions Friday with a 36-hole score of 135.

While Masters champion Arnold Palmer and young Tom Nieporte cracked the Desert Inn Country Club course record with seven-under-par 65s, the veteran Barber sneaked into the lead with rounds of 69-66.

Meanwhile, the first day leaders, Don Whitt and Dave Eagan, fell back in the hard-fought battle for the $10,000 first place jack pot.

The most perfect golfing weather possible, with the temperature around 90 and the air dead still, sent the 21 champion golfers on a birdie binge on what generally is a tough course with a measurement of 7073 yards.

But as good as the rest were, over the two-day period the 130 pound Barber was better. He went out in 34 Friday, returning in 32. He rolled in putts from 40, 20, 16 and 10 feet for birdies and got others from closer. He had seven birds, a single bogey.

"These greens are wonderful," said Jerry. "They are easy to use — despite the fact that I did three-putt one. And I like the turf."

Palmer, who had a par-72 Thursday, came flying home on the back nine with 31 Friday—the same as Nieporte. And Palmer agreed about the greens.

"They are among the best I've ever played on," Palmer said.

Palmer had eight birds and a single bogey. He had two 20-foot birdies that helped the cause—but he was belting the ball off the tee longer than any of his foes. And he wasn't straying from the narrow fairways.

Ragan and Whitt each came in with even-par 72s Friday and that tied them with three others for 8th place. Others in that bracket included defending champion Mike Souchak, Art Wall, and Jack Fleck.

Behind the leaders came Palmer with his 137, to tie with Julius Boros, who had a 67. Dow Finsterwald was deadlocked with Nieporte at 138.

The leaders:

Jerry Barber	69-66—135
Ken Venturi	69-67—136

Willies Pace Giants Past Pirates, 5-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The three Willies—Mays, McCovey and Kirkland—hit home runs and Sam Jones pitched a three hitter Friday night, giving San Francisco a 5-1 victory over Pittsburgh which shaved the Pirates' National League lead to one game over the Giants.

The Giants handed right-hander Vern Law his first defeat in five starts. Law gave up only six hits in the seven innings he worked. It was the first time this season he failed to finish.

Racing Slated Again Sunday At Speedway

Racing cars from Monroe, Jackson, Mississippi and Memphis, Tennessee, will be on hand Sunday at the Twin City Speedway in West Monroe to take a shot at the half-mile track record.

The races, to start at 2:30 with trial runs at 1:30 p.m., will draw some of the fastest cars in the South. The track is expected to be in good shape, and the track record of 25 seconds flat could fall to any of the three favorites.

Shooting for the record will be Ival Cooper, Jackson, Miss., who has timed 25.2 seconds; Ellis Palisini, Leland, Miss., 25 seconds flat; and Hooker Hood, Memphis, Tenn., who also has clocked around 25 seconds for the half mile track.

Tribe Linksmen Defeat Demons

Northeast's surprising golf team completed a sweep of dual meetings with Gulf States Conference foes by polishing off Northwestern, 13-5, at Bayou DeSiard Country Club here yesterday.

Freshman Jim Harper shot a two - over - par 72 to pace the Indian victory, sixth of the season against one loss. Bill King, playing in his first match for Bob DeMoss' team, had a 73 and Clayton Cole and Larry Tilley 74 each.

Russell Ogilvie led the Demons with a 75, defeating Cole in the No. 1 match. The matches were scored by the Nassau system.

Northeast has two more regular season matches remaining before the GSC tournament. The Tribe plays Centenary at Shreveport Tuesday in a match rained out earlier this season. The Indians take on Ouachita College here May 13 before entering the conference meet May 19-20 at Lake Charles.

The summary:

No. 1—Russell Ogilvie, Northwestern, shot 38-37—75 to beat Northeast's Clayton Cole, 36-38—74, 2½-½.

No. 2 — Northeast's Jim Harper shot 34-38—72 to beat Northwestern's Frank Fletcher, 38-39—77, 3-0.

No. 3 — Northeast's Bill King shot 39-35—73 to beat Northwestern's Benny Morgan, 37-39—76, 2-1.

No. 4 — Northeast's Larry Tilley shot 37-37—74 to beat Northwestern's Pat Williams, 41-41—82, 3-0.

Little Boys Baseball

T. Danna pitched a no - hitter as Colbert's Hardware beat First National Bank, 10-4, in last night's Southside League game. Danna's pitching rival, Griggs, hurled a two - hitter himself. The catchers were Rushing and Taylor and Duncan got 1-2 for the winners.

Larry Pankey got 2-3 including a home run as Pulp and Papermakers downed Firestone, 8-2, in the Northside League game. Cox and Pankey was the winning battery over Caulfield and Wiggins. F. Reeves led the hitting for the losers with 2-3.

STALEY STARS IN RELIEF

Score Picks Up First Win As Chicago Clips Nats, 3-0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herb Score and Gerry Staley combined for a three-hit shutout of Washington Friday night as pinch hitter Ted Kluszewski and Earl Torgeson drove in all the runs in the 3-0 Chicago victory before 13,238.

The victory kept the White Sox in a virtual tie with New York for the American League lead. The Yankees edged Kansas City 8-7.

Score pitched three-hit ball for six innings, leaving for a pinch hitter in the top of the seventh when Chicago scored all its runs. It was Score's first victory since last July 3 after losing seven in a row.

Staley held the Senators hitless in the last three innings, walking two men. The White Sox relief specialist is unscored on in seven appearances this year, covering 15 2-3 innings.

Chicago's runs came after two were out. Al Smith hit a pop fly double to center. Jim Landis walked and then pinch hitters Kluszewski and Torgeson singled to clinch the victory for Chicago.

Until the White Sox staged their winning rally, Pedro Ramos, Washington starter, had limited them to one hit.

Ramos, losing his third game without a victory, had a streak of five straight strikeouts. In the fourth, he fanned Brown and Score, and in the fifth, he mowed down Luis Aparicio, Nellie Fox and Minnie Minoso.

Ramos fell one short of the American League record, held by eight pitchers when Roy Sievers grounded out to open the seventh.

MEET OF CHAMPIONS

Barber Fashions One-Stroke Lead

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) —Little Jerry Barber, pitching and putting with phenomenal accuracy, rolled into the leadership at the halfway mark in the Tournament of Champions Friday with a 36-hole score of 135.

While Masters champion Arnold Palmer and young Tom Nieporte cracked the Desert Inn Country Club course record with seven-under-par 65s, the veteran Barber sneaked into the lead with rounds of 69-66.

Meanwhile, the first day leaders, Don Whitt and Dave Eagan, fell back in the hard-fought battle for the $10,000 first place jack pot.

The most perfect golfing weather possible, with the temperature around 90 and the air dead still, sent the 21 champion golfers on a birdie binge on what generally is a tough course with a measurement of 7073 yards.

But as good as the rest were, over the two-day period the 130 pound Barber was better. He went out in 34 Friday, returning in 32. He rolled in putts from 40, 20, 16 and 10 feet for birdies and got others from closer. He had seven birds, a single bogey.

"These greens are wonderful," said Jerry. "They are easy to use — despite the fact that I did three-putt one. And I like the turf."

Palmer, who had a par-72 Thursday, came flying home on the back nine with 31 Friday—the same as Nieporte. And Palmer agreed about the greens.

"They are among the best I've ever played on," Palmer said.

Palmer had eight birds and a single bogey. He had two 20-foot birdies that helped the cause—but he was belting the ball off the tee longer than any of his foes. And he wasn't straying from the narrow fairways.

Ragan and Whitt each came in with even-par 72s Friday and that tied them with three others for 8th place. Others in that bracket included defending champion Mike Souchak, Art Wall, and Jack Fleck.

Behind the leaders came Palmer with his 137, to tie with Julius Boros, who had a 67. Dow Finsterwald was deadlocked with Nieporte at 138.

The leaders:

Jerry Barber	69-66—135
Ken Venturi	69-67—136
Jay Hebert	68-68—136
Arnold Palmer	72-65—137
Julius Boros	70-67—137

Willies Pace Giants Past Pirates, 5-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The three Willies—Mays, McCovey and Kirkland—hit home runs and Sam Jones pitched a three hitter Friday night, giving San Francisco a 5-1 victory over Pittsburgh which shaved the Pirates' National League lead to one game over the Giants.

The Giants handed right-hander Vern Law his first defeat in five starts. Law gave up only six hits in the seven innings he worked. It was the first time this season he failed to finish.

T. Danna pitched a no - hitter as Colbert's Hardware beat First National Bank, 10-4, in last night's Southside League game. Danna's pitching rival, Griggs, hurled a two - hitter himself. The catchers were Rushing and Taylor and Duncan got 1-2 for the winners.

Larry Pankey got 2-3 including a home run as Pulp and Papermakers downed Firestone, 8-2, in the Northside League game. Cox and Pankey was the winning battery over Caulfield and Wiggins. F. Reeves led the hitting for the losers with 2-3.

Racing Slated Again Sunday At Speedway

The races, to start at 2:30 with trial runs at 1:30 p.m., will draw some of the fastest cars in the South. The track is expected to be in good shape, and the track record of 25 seconds flat could fall to any of the three favorites.

Shooting for the record will be Ival Cooper, Jackson, Miss., who has timed 25.2 seconds; Ellis Palisini, Leland, Miss., 25 seconds flat; and Hooker Hood, Memphis, Tenn., who also has clocked around 25 seconds for the half mile track.

NFL Clears One Hurdle In Cannon Case

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League won a legal skirmish Friday with the fledgling American Football League in U.S. District Court.

The case involved a suit brought by the NFL's Los Angeles Rams against halfback Billy Cannon, former Louisiana State star who signed a contract with Houston of the AFL.

Attorneys for the NFL filed a motion before Judge Thomas C. Egan asking that depositions to be taken Saturday from three NFL officials by counsel for Cannon be limited in nature.

Attorney Thomas Hart of Philadelphia said the subpoenas in connection with the depositions would have forced the NFL to produce all of its records in the past six years for perusal by its competitor, the AFL.

Tribe Linksmen Defeat Demons

Northeast's surprising golf team completed a sweep of dual meetings with Gulf States Conference foes by polishing off Northwestern, 13-5, at Bayou DeSiard Country Club here yesterday.

Freshman Jim Harper shot a two - over - par 72 to pace the Indian victory, sixth of the season against one loss. Bill King, playing in his first match for Bob DeMoss' team, had a 73 and Clayton Cole and Larry Tilley 74 each.

Russell Ogilvie led the Demons with a 75, defeating Cole in the No. 1 match. The matches were scored by the Nassau system.

Northeast has two more regular season matches remaining before the GSC tournament. The Tribe plays Centenary at Shreveport Tuesday in a match rained out earlier this season. The Indians take on Ouachita College here May 13 before entering the conference meet May 19-20 at Lake Charles.

The summary:

No. 1—Russell Ogilvie, Northwestern, shot 38-37—75 to beat Northeast's Clayton Cole, 36-38—74, 2½-½.

No. 2 — Northeast's Jim Harper shot 34-38—72 to beat Northwestern's Frank Fletcher, 38-39—77, 3-0.

No. 3 — Northeast's Bill King shot 39-35—73 to beat Northwestern's Benny Morgan, 37-39—76, 2-1.

No. 4 — Northeast's Larry Tilley shot 37-37—74 to beat Northwestern's Pat Williams, 41-41—82, 3-0.

McKenzie To Manage Vols

Dave McKenzie has agreed to manage the West Monroe Vols of the La-Ark League again, club president L. E. Fritch said Friday.

Orioles Score 7 In 4th To Top Indians

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning Friday night to ease the way for Hal Brown's 9-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Brown, who notched his second straight complete game victory without a loss, had his shutout ruined with two out in the ninth when Woody Held hit his sixth homer of the year with one runner aboard.

The 35-year-old Brown allowed eight hits, only three after the third inning. He retired the side in order four times and set down 10 men in a row during one stretch.

ESSIG, BEARD TIED

LSU Grabs Lead In Southern Golf

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Louisiana State raced off with the team title and Tiger Capt. Don Essig tied Frank Beard of Florida for the individual lead in the second round of the Southern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament Friday.

Paced by Essig's 69-72—141, the powerful LSU Tigers posted a 573 aggregate score, 3-under-par, and captured both the SIC and Southeastern Conference team championships. The SEC crowns are determined in the SIC event each year.

LSU's team set a conference record, beating by two shots the mark Florida posted five years ago. The Southern Intercollegiate record is 570.

Officials toughened up the hilly, 6,745-yard Athens Country Club course for the second round. The scores showed it. Only six players bettered the layout's par 36-36—72, compared with 14 Thursday.

Beard, lanky bespectacled Gator ace, appeared headed for sole possession of first place coming in to the 18th. But the tough, dogleg par 4 hole cost him a stroke just as it did several other challengers. Beard three-putted for a bogey and finished with a 73 and a tie with Essig.

Four others were one stroke behind the co-leaders. They are first round leader Paul Erhardt of North Carolina, 67-75; his teammate, Peter Green 70-72; Jack Kendzior of North Texas State 68-74; and Howell Fraser of LSU, 71-71.

Erhardt and Green took 5s on the 18th and Kendzior, who had a 32 on the front and a 42 on the back, took a double bogey 6.

In the team competition LSU won by 10 strokes over runner-up North Carolina. North Texas State finished third at 587. Georgia, the defending SEC champion, and Florida tied for fourth at 588. Houston, the defending SIC and NCAA champion, took sixth at 590.

The original field of 154 was cut to the 44 low scorers for Saturday's 36-hole finale. A score of 150 or under qualified for the last round.

Among those failing to make the cut was pre-tournament favorate Dick Crawford of Houston, last year's NCAA individual titlist. Crawford took a 76-76—152.

Sam Snead won his 104th major golf victory when he won the DeSota Lakes Open at Sarasota, Fla., in March.

Mrs. Smith Hostess At PEO Meet

Chapter V, P. E. O. held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. F. L. Smith, Jr., on Monday, April 25. The brief business meeting was conducted by Mrs. B. F. Pate, president. Discussed at this time was the annual May party which will be held on Monday, May 16 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Crump.

Mrs. Pate and Mrs. W. A. Cotton then gave a report of the State P. E. O. Convention which was held at the Monteleone Hotel, New Orleans on April 21-23. Mrs. Milton Adams, a member of Chapter V, was honored by being elected First Vice - President of the State Chapter. She presided over the Hour of Remembrance.

A dessert course was served by the hostess to: Mrs. Pate, Mrs. Cotton, Mrs. Crump, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Ouida McGee, Mrs. C. B. Ackel, Mrs. A. R. Kilpatrick, Mrs. R. L. Kiper, Mrs. R. T. Farr, Mrs. Evelyn Curry, Mrs. E. H. Lyons Sr., Mrs. D. G. Kiper and Mrs. J. W. Folk.

Patio Garden Club Hears Mr. Harker

Acting as hostesses for the Patio Garden Club were Mrs. Hilary Sanders, Mrs. Robert Carter and Mrs. Brooks Dawkins.

The April meeting was held in the newly decorated home of Mrs. Sanders' mother, Mrs. J. S. Harbuck, in her den ove looking the swimming pool. Mrs. William Brown and Miss Norma Marie Inabnet were welcomed by the group as new members. Refreshments were served, and a short business meeting was held. Mrs. Charles Amman, president, announced the nominating committee for the year. This includes Mrs. Theo Terzia, chairman, Mrs. Jack Fluck, and Mrs. Jim Williams.

The club then heard a talk on church arrangements by Warren Harker. He showed samples of formal and informal arrangements, taking into consideration the different seasons of the year, as well as the various types of churches represented.

Those present were Mrs. Charles Amman, Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. Edmund Brown, Mrs. Robert Carter, Mrs. Brooks Dawkins, Mrs. Joe Dixon, Mrs. Jack Fluck, Mrs. Harry Frazier, Mrs. Fred Haenefeld, Miss Norma Marie Inabnet, Mrs. William Inabnet, Mrs. J. Bolling Jones, Mrs. Paal Ransom, Mrs. Phillip Rosamond, Mrs. Hilary Sanders, Mrs. Theo Terzia and Mrs. Jim Williams.

Bridal Party Honors Couple In Oak Ridge

The home of Mrs. Joe Mott Sr. in Oak Ridge was the scene on Thursday evening of last week when Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mott Jr. entertained complimentary to Mrs. Madra Williamson and Paul Pomeroy of Bastrop, prior to their wedding Sunday.

The spacious entrance hall was decorated with colorful arrangements of tulips and azaleas, as was the family room, where hors d'ouvres were served, when the guests arrived. Mrs. Williamson was attired in a lemon yellow sheath worn with white accessories.

In the dining room the table was covered with a white damask cloth and the centerpiece was white clappers overflowing with beribboned white gladiolas and satin streamers. Another table, overlaid with a white cloth, was centered with a wedding bouquet, and on the side board were white gladioli and dogwood.

Enjoying the dinner and evening together with the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Pipes Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Abner Wimberly, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards Barham, the Reverend and Mrs. W. L. Baker, Mr. Pomeroy's sister, Mrs. Bill Hodges and Mr. Hodges of Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Futch Feted At Tea In Farmerville

A tea was given to honor Mrs. Math Futch, who retires this year from the Farmerville School faculty. Hosting the event were her co-workers, who entertained in the Home Economics Cottage Thursday afternoon, April 28, at 3:30 p.m.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. Paris Rogers and Mrs. Erna Wilson, who invited them into the dining room where Mrs. Ralph Harper presided at the tea table. The table, covered with a soft pink damask cloth, was centered by a tall silver and crystal bowl, which held a handsome pyramid arrangement of pink carnations. On the mantel was a typical southern arrangement of pink roses, wagelia, and daisies.

Mrs. Rogers presented the honoree with a George Washington bedspread, a gift from the school faculty, in appreciation of her many years of dedicated work in the teaching field.

NEW YORK (AP) — The director of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, Leonard Bernstein, has also composed popular tunes for Broadway musical comedy hits such as "On the Town" and "West Side Story."

For "West Side Story" he composed the romantic songs "Maria" and "Somewhere," and the comic song, "Gee, Officer Krupke."

Bernstein was born in Lawrence, Mass.

Ellenburg-Bennett Vows Said In Kenner Ceremony

Williams Boulevard Baptist Church in Kenner was the setting for the wedding of Miss Sue Bennett and Louie Ellenburg on Sunday, April 24. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Finis Welch of Kenner and the late Belvin Bennett, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ellenburg of Bassfield, Mississippi. The Reverend Robert Eubanks officiated at the ceremony, in a church decorated with palms and baskets of white gladioli and iris.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of white cotton organza and carried a white Bible covered with carnations and lilies of the valley.

Serving as matron of honor and the bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Joseph Poche of Ruston, who wore a beige linen dress and black accessories.

Make Fashion Splash In Bikini Or One-Piece

Swimdom 1960 brings new excitement to the beach. Isn't it miraculous that a completely new look, a marvelous new trend, a new concept in inner construction can be given to the relatively few inches of fashion apparel called a swimsuit?

Silhouettes this year include the "dare back sheath," a backless swimsuit which makes this season's big splash. They dip down, down, down in a daring back dive. The much talked - about bikini acquires a conscience; can be converted at a moment's notice to a conservative two - piece, or stop somewhere inbetween, according to the whim and locale. The blouson short silhouette is lightly bloused above a belted waistline; fitted trimly in a hip-tapering treatment. It vies for honors with classic swimshorts, favored by those whose figures or tastes indicate a preference for a more covered leg line. The "draped sheath" works its proportionalizing magic; whittles waists with long line feather boning at the side of the suit. The "hourglass" inimitable silhouette is constructed in the manner of a long-line bra and combined with the softly shirred draped panty for hipline camouflage. The maillot is newly important this season, and is seen in both "dare back" and semi-low back versions. Sleek sheaths are given a variety of treatments from stark simple glamourously elegant styles. The dressmaker, often ending in a flutter of pretty pleats, is one of the most feminine shapes offered.

Fabrics are more varied than ever. There is a decided trend toward feather - weight fabrics that mean mere ounces of swimsuits. So light are these fabrics that they offer a completely unknown freedom to the wearer, and are ideal for travelers whose concern is not only for weight but also for quick - drying properties. Other fabrics creating excitement by the sea are elasticized bengalines handscreened with unusual prints; elasticized knits in woven or printed patterns; elasticized sharkskin, unexcelled for its fresh crisp look; woven elasticized patterns . . . madras stripes, boucles, ribbed piques, and woven ribbons; and a wide selection of cottons, including embroidered birdseye pique, polished prints in unusual abstract patterns; woven plaids; and cotton satins in striking monotones. Color stories are myriad with something for everyone's taste and individuality. Fawn, olive, and fern subdued newcomers to the beach scene; black and white, ever important, ever fresh; purple, rouge, tangerine, Bahama blue, desert, plum; combinations of two and three colors for extra excitement; pastels . . . pink, yellow, ice blue to set off suntans.

And the inside story is the creation of special bras for special reasons. Youthful but full-busted figures, as well as mature figures, require special bra design. This special swim-bra designed on the principle of suspension, is used in swimsuits which need its unique bra enhancement because of their low low backs or lightweight fabrics, and often the two are found simultaneously. Flexible stainless steel stays which are removable if desired will adjust to accommodate individual cup not only holds its shape, but the wearer's, too. This foundation bra is found in the majority of the swimsuits.

These are only a few highlights and, of course, fashion needs to be seen to be fully appreciated. But one word of advice before you dive into the swimsuit department: Try before you buy. Find the swimsuit designed for your figure type, your complexion, your way of life. Then get set to make a fashion splash.

Best-Hatted Women Picked By Experts

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Mrs. William Paley, named by Hats Magazine.

Columbia Party Given To Honor Mrs. Kenney

Mrs. Billy Kenney was honored in Columbia at a miscellaneous shower given Monday afternoon. Hostesses on the occasion were Miss Bert Hearn, Mrs. H. E. Cooper, Mrs. Bert Bradford, Mrs. E. L. Carroll, Mrs. Jimmie Rowland, Mrs. E. L. Richards, Mrs. Donald McGough, Mrs. Robert Meredith, Mrs. J. J. McKeithen Jr., Mrs. J. M. Lafferty, Mrs. G. E. Erskine, and Mrs. Odis Darden.

Floral arrangements emphasized a green and white color scheme. Colorful spring flowers brightened the reception rooms where Mrs. Kenney, wearing a white dress with her corsage of white feathered carnations, received her friends.

Mrs. Bert Bradford registered the 150 guests who called between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock.

Milstead Home Setting For Bridal Party

Prior to her marriage on April 29 to J. L. Mize, Miss Linda LaGrone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. LaGrone of this city, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Merlin Milstead. Co-hostess was Mrs. Ludvic Herlevic.

Parents Worried About Her Sudden Popularity

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: Our daughter Brenda is 16. She's a good-looking girl but short on personality. She couldn't get a boy interested in her until recently. Now she's so popular we are deeply concerned.

It all started about three months ago when Brenda became friendly with a girl I never cared for. The two of them started to attend night hockey games. Although they went stag they always found someone to bring them home. They call it "meeting new friends." In our day we called it "getting picked up."

The phone has been ringing steadily with calls from boys we've never met and know nothing about. Brenda has had as many as three different dates on a Saturday night.

She says we should leave her alone because she's popular now and happier than she's ever been in her life. Her schoolwork is going to the dogs. What shall we do?—AFRAID

Dear Afraid: If you continue to let this girl run wild ("happy" my eye!) you're abdicating your responsibility as parents.

She can call it "meeting new friends" if she likes, but she's getting picked up. The game is the same—and so is the name.

Lay down the law and set some limits. Tell Brenda she can't go out with anyone who has not first been introduced at home. Limit her dating to weekends, only. And ONE date an evening is enough. Establish a curfew and see that she sticks to it.

Dear Ann Landers: I have an acquaintance (I refuse to call her a friend) who always manages to ask questions about things which are none of her business. For example, she'll come into my home and ask "Is your carpeting wool or cotton?" Or, "Did you have a wholesale connection for the dinette set or did you buy it retail?"

When she asked me if I had a partial plate, I thought this was the limit and told her it was really no business of hers. She replied she was only interested because she considered herself a very close friend.

How, in your opinion, should such a person be handled?—BLAZING

Dear Blazing: Just the way you handled it—bluntly and to the point. Insensitive clods who think nothing of asking intimate questions should be sawed off at the knees.

Dear Ann Landers: A group of us gals were discussing broken engagements during coffee break. There were a variety of opinions as to what happens to the ring. It seems to me I recall that a girl is entitled to keep the ring under all conditions as sort of a "payment" of the time spent on the fellow.

Will you please spell out the rules? Thanks a lot. — THE GROUP

Dear Group: When the gal breaks the engagement, she has no right to continue to cuddle the hunk of ice. The ring should be returned. If the girl gets stubborn about it the fellow can resort to legal action.

It is an unwritten law that when the fellow cracks the engagement, the girl keeps the ring. It never made sense to me that a girl would want the ring of a fellow who didn't want HER but many girls feel perfectly comfortable about it.

Make Fashion Splash In Bikini Or One-Piece

Swimdom 1960 brings new excitement to the beach. Isn't it miraculous that a completely new look, a marvelous new trend, a new concept in inner construction can be given to the relatively few inches of fashion apparel called a swimsuit?

Silhouettes this year include the "dare back sheath," a backless swimsuit which makes this season's big splash. They dip down, down, down in a daring back dive. The much talked - about bikini acquires a conscience; can be converted at a moment's notice to a conservative two - piece, or stop somewhere inbetween, according to the whim and locale. The blouson short silhouette is lightly bloused above a belted waistline; fitted trimly in a hip-tapering treatment. It vies for honors with classic swimshorts, favored by those whose figures or tastes indicate a preference for a more covered leg line. The "draped sheath" works its proportionalizing magic; whittles waists with long line feather boning at the side of the suit. The "hourglass" inimitable silhouette is constructed in the manner of a long-line bra and combined with the softly shirred draped panty for hipline camouflage. The maillot is newly important this season, and is seen in both "dare back" and semi-low back versions. Sleek sheaths are given a variety of treatments from stark simple glamourously elegant styles. The dressmaker, often ending in a flutter of pretty pleats, is one of the most feminine shapes offered.

Fabrics are more varied than ever. There is a decided trend toward feather - weight fabrics that mean mere ounces of swimsuits. So light are these fabrics that they offer a completely unknown freedom to the wearer, and are ideal for travelers whose concern is not only for weight but also for quick - drying properties. Other fabrics creating excitement by the sea are elasticized bengalines handscreened with unusual prints; elasticized knits in woven or printed patterns; elasticized sharkskin, unexcelled for its fresh crisp look; woven elasticized patterns . . . madras stripes, boucles, ribbed piques, and woven ribbons; and a wide selection of cottons, including embroidered birdseye pique, polished prints in unusual abstract patterns; woven plaids; and cotton satins in striking monotones. Color stories are myriad with something for everyone's taste and individuality. Fawn, olive, and fern subdued newcomers to the beach scene; black and white, ever important, ever fresh; purple, rouge, tangerine, Bahama blue, desert, plum; combinations of two and three colors for extra excitement; pastels . . . pink, yellow, ice blue to set off suntans.

And the inside story is the creation of special bras for special reasons. Youthful but full-busted figures, as well as mature figures, require special bra design. This special swim-bra designed on the principle of suspension, is used in swimsuits which need its unique bra enhancement because of their low low backs or light-weight fabrics, and often the two are found simultaneously. Flexible stainless steel stays which are removable if desired will adjust to accommodate individual cup not only holds its shape, but the wearer's, too. This foundation bra is found in the majority of the swimsuits.

These are only a few highlights and, of course, fashion needs to be seen to be fully appreciated. But one word of advice before you dive into the swimsuit department: Try before you buy. Find the swimsuit designed for your figure type, your complexion, your way of life. Then get set to make a fashion splash.

Best-Hatted Women Picked By Experts

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

It happens every spring.

Women blossom out in gay new hats, and milliners and fashion editors pick the 10 best-hatted.

Mrs. Stephen Sanford, former stage and screen star Mary Duncan, named by Mr. John.

Mrs. William Paley, named by Hats Magazine.

Most expressive comment among the winners was that of Loretta Young, who said:

Columbia Party Given To Honor Mrs. Kenney

Mrs. Billy Kenney was honored in Columbia at a miscellaneous shower given Monday afternoon. Hostesses on the occasion were Miss Bert Hearn, Mrs. H. E. Cooper, Mrs. Bert Bradford, Mrs. E. L. Carroll, Mrs. Jimmie Rowland, Mrs. E. L. Richards, Mrs. Donald McGough, Mrs. Robert Meredith, Mrs. J. J. McKeithen Jr., Mrs. J. M. Lafferty, Mrs. G. E. Erskine, and Mrs. Odis Darden.

Floral arrangements emphasized a green and white color scheme. Colorful spring flowers brightened the reception rooms where Mrs. Kenney, wearing a white dress with her corsage of white feathered carnations, received her friends.

Mrs. Bert Bradford registered the 150 guests who called between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock.

Milstead Home Setting For Bridal Party

Prior to her marriage on April 29 to J. L. Mize, Miss Linda LaGrone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. LaGrone of this city, was complimented with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Merlin Milstead. Co-hostess was Mrs. Ludvic Herelevic.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

When Sitting, Mother Looks Strange To Baby

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

We have to recognize that a baby sees his environment in the form of pictures. He sees his mother standing while she washes dishes, cooks food, lifts him to bathe him, make beds, works outdoors, etc., and eventually he feels that this picture of his mother standing up is the real mother. When she sits down he creates another picture which is displeasing to him. She doesn't look natural.

A father writes wanting to know why it is their year-old baby always cries when the mother sits down to relax? For the above reason and also because the baby may have discovered that it is when the mother sits down that she has time to let the baby sit on her lap or talk to him and notice him. The baby may be used to going unnoticed when the mother is busy and then when she sits he demands his rights.

TIE WITH TEA TOWEL

This father also asks how to keep the baby sitting down in his high chair. Tie a tea towel around his waist and fasten it behind the highchair back. Not tightly, but enough to prevent him from standing up. Also, cut the chair legs down so the chair is on a level with the others at the table.

This is a safety measure. When the baby becomes restless and is obviously through don't keep him in the chair just because you have found a way to manage this.

Recently, there was a discussion of a child's allergy to food and its unhappy results on the child's disposition. One of my readers said that no one, not even the doctor, would believe her when she said the baby cried all night and slept only when in her bed or slept only a few minutes each day. They told her the baby was spoiled, and suggested teeth; the formula was changed, the baby put on soybean formula and not one thing helped.

ALLERGY

Then another doctor suggested goat's milk and after one bottle of this the baby got his first night's sleep. The father of this baby has asthma, the mother has had eczema—so it is incredible that the baby's persistent colic did not suggest to someone that this might be an allergy.

Because the trouble began when the baby was born the logical food to suspect would be milk, since that is all the baby had at that time.

Not all cases of allergy clear up so miraculously, sometimes goat's milk doesn't work and soybean formulas do. At any rate when there is persistent gas and cramps after eating — and sleeplessness — it's pretty smart to decide that food must be at fault and make changes which seem indicated until the right change is made.

Raids Detain 18,000 Negroes

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—More than 18,000 Negroes have been detained in raids in South Africa since the beginning of the state of emergency in March, Minister of Justice Francois Erasmus told Parliament Friday.

In addition some 1,700 people of all races have been seized in political arrests as suspected subversives. The arrests of both suspected subversives and Negroes held as troublemakers are continuing.

PAR Releases Citizens Guide To Legislature

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Release of its "Citizen's Guide to the 1960 Legislature" was announced yesterday by the Public Affairs Research Council (PAR).

Every four years PAR publishes its "guide" and offers it to the public.

A summary of data shown in the biographical sketches reveals that a majority of legislators are under age 50 with the biggest group in the 40-49 age bracket. The average age of house members is 46 and that of the senate members is 45.

According to PAR, "the educational background of the 1960 legislature is quite impressive." Thirty-one of the 39 senators surveyed attended college and 21 of them received degrees. Seventeen remaind for graduate work and 15 hold a graduate degree.

"Seventy-eight of the 101 representatives attended a college, and degrees were received by 44. Graduate work is reported by 33 of these, and 27 hold a graduate degree."

When grouped by business or profession, the largest group are lawyers with 10 in the senate and 25 in the house. Farming and cattle raising are the chief occupations of 9 senators and 11 representatives. Three senators and 9 representatives are in the insurance business. Three of the senators and 9 of the representatives are in the field of education. Other occupations include auto dealers, service station operators, radio station announcers, pipefitters, chiropractors, newspaper publishing, banking, contracting, trucking, meat dealer, pharmacists and parish prison warden.

PAR, a non - profit, privately-financed governmental research organization, offers the "guide" to the public at 25 cents per copy with bulk prices available on request. Inquiries may be directed to PAR, Box 2748, Baton Rouge.

Q. — I cannot seem to find a translucent window curtain in light aqua. I can get a very deep blue which is too dark and doesn't let in enough light. I have looked at shower curtains (thinking I could cut them to size) but they are too heavy. Plastic bags from the cleaner's are the perfect shade of blue but are so thin and filmy they cling to the window pane. Can you tell me where to find the right material?

A. — I can only advise you to stop looking. Plastic is a bad choice for curtains. If the curtain is drawn, light but no air comes through (and light passing through any blue material will make your face look a sick green) A plastic will go limp in summer and stiff in the winter. Granted, it is translucent and washable, but so are fiberglas, dacron, and nylon. Why not buy a fiberglas sheer curtain in white or a blue and white print? It will let in as much light, cost no more and look much richer.

Q. —I have an Early American high - back chair in white with black and brown print. Two chairs are coral. What color rug, walls, and woodwork should I have with this?

A. —You can create a sophisticated and exciting scheme using browns and coral with black and white accents. Paint walls a light tobacco brown. Woodwork and ceiling white. For your rug choose a rich spice brown or deep coral. Accessories such as ash trays, black wrought iron in eighteenth-century designs. Pillows on your sofa should be black and shades of coral.

Q.— I plan to have my furniture reupholstered and would like your advice for two small sofas, club chair and wing chair. The walls are papered in a flowered design in chartreuse, salmon and gold on dark green. I cannot replace the paper yet but would like to lighten the heavy look it gives to the room. Furniture is mahogany and rug is pearl grey. Lamps are crystal with white shades and accessories are brass.

A. — Protective chemical finishes on fabrics make light colors eminently practical today, and of course you should use light color here. Even when you replace the paper, the light furniture will be good as it tends to make any room seem more spacious. Have sofas covered in a light yellow and white tweed, the club chair in a smooth finish yellow fabric and wing chair might be a brilliant golden yellow. Keep your accessories and consider adding more white in the form of milk-glass, bisque or ironstone.

Q. — My living room has just been papered in dark grey green with all over print in white. I have a nutria rug, wheat beige sofa, one chair in sandalwood and one of two chairs which need slip covers. I have fruitwood tables. What would you suggest for lamps, curtains, and throw pillows?

A. — The dark browns and greens could give a dark, somber look to your room. To prevent this I would suggest you use white curtains, and white lamps with white shades. White has a fresh crisp quality which will make the dark colors look deeper and richer. The chairs might be covered in light aqua, pink or yellow. Shades of the chair's color might be used for sofa throw pillows. Accessories in white and brass.

Link Laughs, Upset Child To Chaplain

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Charlie Chaplin, comic tramp of the movies, found the secret to laughter in his own upset childhood, a psychoanalyst said Friday.

Chaplin was only 3 years old when his father died, leaving the family in poverty, Dr. Ernest A. Rappaport of Chicago Medical School told a meeting of the American Psychoanalytic Assn.

Chaplin's mother was ill and her sons had to spend the next two years in an orphanage until she recovered and was able to support them again.

How did Chaplin's past affect the movie roles he created of a clumsy tramp in baggy pants, oversize shoes, derby and cane?

"Taking another look at Charlie's costume, we see a child playing a grownup, a child in his father's shoes, and it surely becomes grim humor, if we know that Charlie was earning a living for his mother and himself by the time he was 7," Dr. Rappaport said.

"Being in his father's shoes he did not only identify himself with his father's superiority, but also with his failure and his drinking which was associated with death."

Dr. Rappaport said Chaplan himself had interpreted his film character with these words: "He is forever seeking romance, but his feet won't let him."

"The core of the grotesque comic lies in Charlie's capacity by seemingly assuming the identity of the depreciated father to ridicule, without punishment, the mother too." Dr. Rappaport said.

"At the same time, by also representing an infant, he seduces the audience to laugh at the infant's lack of body control.

"Further, by emphasizing the naivete of the child who imitates the elders without understanding their world or their experiences, he is not only forgiven for his aggression, but becomes even lovable and a star."

Chaplin's twist on the boy meets girl theme—in which girl gets boy, and girl jilts boy—is described by Dr. Rappaport as Chaplin's own escape from the mother image.

"All of Chaplin's films are more or less biographical, thus, he is actually not creating, but recreating his past, and creating might not even be the work of the artist, but of the inventor," Dr. Rappaport explained.

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP)—Harrison County Sheriff Curtis Dedeaux said Friday more than 4,000 privately owned firearms have been resgistered with his office since he ordered it April 25.

Dedeaux called for guns to be registered under penalty of fine and imprisonment in the wake of a race riot that erupted when a group of Negroes sought to desegregate a Harrison County beach.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

When Sitting, Mother Looks Strange To Baby

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

We have to recognize that a baby sees his environment in the form of pictures. He sees his mother standing while she washes dishes, cooks food, lifts him to bathe him, make beds, works outdoors, etc., and eventually he feels that this picture of his mother standing up is the real mother. When she sits down he creates another picture which is displeasing to him. She doesn't look natural.

A father writes wanting to know why it is their year-old baby always cries when the mother sits down to relax? For the above reason and also because the baby may have discovered that it is when the mother sits down that she has time to let the baby sit on her lap or talk to him and notice him. The baby may be used to going unnoticed when the mother is busy and then when she sits he demands his rights.

TIE WITH TEA TOWEL

This father also asks how to keep the baby sitting down in his high chair. Tie a tea towel around his waist and fasten it behind the highchair back. Not tightly, but enough to prevent him from standing up. Also, cut the chair legs down so the chair is on a level with the others at the table.

This is a safety measure. When the baby becomes restless and is obviously through don't keep him in the chair just because you have found a way to manage this.

Recently, there was a discussion of a child's allergy to food and its unhappy results on the child's disposition. One of my readers said that no one, not even the doctor, would believe her when she said the baby cried all night and slept only when in her bed or slept only a few minutes each day. They told her the baby was spoiled, and suggested teeth; the formula was changed, the baby put on soybean formula and not one thing helped.

ALLERGY

Then another doctor suggested goat's milk and after one bottle of this the baby got his first night's sleep. The father of this baby has asthma, the mother has had eczema—so it is incredible that the baby's persistent colic did not suggest to someone that this might be an allergy.

Because the trouble began when the baby was born the logical food to suspect would be milk, since that is all the baby had at that time.

Not all cases of allergy clear up so miraculously, sometimes goat's milk doesn't work and soybean formulas do. At any rate when there is persistent gas and cramps after eating — and sleeplessness — it's pretty smart to decide that food must be at fault and make changes which seem indicated until the right change is made.

Raids Detain 18,000 Negroes

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) —More than 18,000 Negroes have been detained in raids in South Africa since the beginning of the state of emergency in March, Minister of Justice Francois Erasmus told Parliament Friday.

In addition some 1,700 people of all races have been seized in political arrests as suspected subversives. The arrests of both suspected subversives and Negroes held as troublemakers are continuing.

PAR Releases Citizens Guide To Legislature

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Release of its "Citizen's Guide to the 1960 Legislature" was announced yesterday by the Public Affairs Research Council (PAR).

Every four years PAR publishes its "guide" and offers it to the public.

A summary of data shown in the biographical sketches reveals that a majority of legislators are under age 50 with the biggest group in the 40-49 age bracket. The average age of house members is 46 and that of the senate members is 45.

According to PAR, "the educational background of the 1960 legislature is quite impressive." Thirty-one of the 39 senators surveyed attended college and 21 of them received degrees. Seventeen remaind for graduate work and 15 hold a graduate degree.

"Seventy-eight of the 101 representatives attended a college, and degrees were received by 44. Graduate work is reported by 33 of these, and 27 hold a graduate degree."

When grouped by business or profession, the largest group are lawyers with 10 in the senate and 25 in the house. Farming and cattle raising are the chief occupations of 9 senators and 11 representatives. Three senators and 9 representatives are in the insurance business. Three of the senators and 9 of the representatives are in the field of education. Other occupations include auto dealers, service station operators, radio station announcers, pipefitters, chiropractors, newspaper publishing, banking, contracting, trucking, meat dealer, pharmacists and parish prison warden.

PAR, a non - profit, privately-financed governmental research organization, offers the "guide" to the public at 25 cents per copy with bulk prices available on request. Inquiries may be directed to PAR, Box 2748, Baton Rouge.

Questions And Answers Guide For Homemakers

Q. — I cannot seem to find a translucent window curtain in light aqua. I can get a very deep blue which is too dark and doesn't let in enough light. I have looked at shower curtains (thinking I could cut them to size) but they are too heavy. Plastic bags from the cleaner's are the perfect shade of blue but are so thin and filmy they cling to the window pane. Can you tell me where to find the right material?

A. — I can only advise you to stop looking. Plastic is a bad choice for curtains. If the curtain is drawn, light but no air comes through (and light passing through any blue material will make your face look a sick green) A plastic will go limp in summer and stiff in the winter. Granted, it is translucent and washable, but so are fiberglas, dacron, and nylon. Why not buy a fiberglas sheer curtain in white or a blue and white print? It will let in as much light, cost no more and look much richer.

Q. —I have an Early American high - back chair in white with black and brown print. Two chairs are coral. What color rug, walls, and woodwork should I have with this?

A. —You can create a sophisticated and exciting scheme using browns and coral with black and white accents. Paint walls a light tobacco brown. Woodwork and ceiling white. For your rug choose a rich spice brown or deep coral. Accessories such as ash trays, black wrought iron in eighteenth-century designs. Pillows on your sofa should be black and shades of coral.

Q.— I plan to have my furniture reupholstered and would like your advice for two small sofas, club chair and wing chair. The walls are papered in a flowered design in chartreuse, salmon and gold on dark green. I cannot replace the paper yet but would like to lighten the heavy look it gives to the room. Furniture is mahogany and rug is pearl grey. Lamps are crystal with white shades and accessories are brass.

A. — Protective chemical finishes on fabrics make light colors eminently practical today, and of course you should use light color here. Even when you replace the paper, the light furniture will be good as it tends to make any room seem more spacious. Have sofas covered in a light yellow and white tweed, the club chair in a smooth finish yellow fabric and wing chair might be a brilliant golden yellow. Keep your accessories and consider adding more white in the form of milk-glass, bisque or ironstone.

Q. — My living room has just been papered in dark grey green with all over print in white. I have a nutria rug, wheat beige sofa, one chair in sandalwood and one of two chairs which need slip covers. I have fruitwood tables. What would you suggest for lamps, curtains, and throw pillows?

A. — The dark browns and greens could give a dark, somber look to your room. To prevent this I would suggest you use white curtains, and white lamps with white shades. White has a fresh crisp quality which will make the dark colors look deeper and richer. The chairs might be covered in light aqua, pink or yellow. Shades of the chair's color might be used for sofa throw pillows. Accessories in white and brass.

COTTON

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures closed 25 cents a bale higher to 25 cents lower Friday.

Trading was slow but all active months were higher for the day, supported by trade and local buying. Hedge selling was light.

Distant 1961 crop trading months, which were inactive, closed irregular on bid prices.

There was one May delivery notice issued.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Cotton futures were inactive here again Friday. It was the second consecutive day without a single trade and the ninth time in the history of the Cotton Exchange that the market was tradeless. Closing prices were steady, 20 cents a bale higher to five cents lower.

TAX RECIPTS

Treasury tax receipts which had been running below the level of last year, took a sharp turn for the better in the last two weeks, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported. As a result the Treasury increased its deposits in major commercial banks around the country to give an unlooked for assist in improving these banks reserve positions.

BUYING SLACKENS

The pace of retail buying in the nation this week slackened from the previous week but was 4 to 8 per cent higher than a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported. Meanwhile the Commerce Department reported March retail sales climbed by 1 per cent over the previous month to $17,463,000,000 and were up 2 per cent compared with the 1959 month.

ECONOMY SPURTS

The nation's economy appears to be pulling out of its late-winter doldrums, although the evidence continues mixed, according to the New York Federal Reserve Bank. Auto sales increased "smartly" in April and department store sales were at a record, in addition industrial production "may have steadied in April."

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK (AP)—

Stocks—Mixed; airlines and aircrafts advance.

Bonds — Higher; governments advance.

Cotton—Higher; mill buying.

CHICAGO:

Wheat—Mostly easy; old crop weak.

Corn — Slightly higher; short covering.

Oats—Higher with corn.

Hogs—Steady to 50 cents lower; top $17.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP) — The butcher hog market softened Friday with prices as much as 50 cents lower with most of the setback on weights over 230 lbs.

Buyers paid a $17 top for a few 200-215 lb weights including mixed No. 1 and 2 grades. It was equal to Thursday's peak and only 10 cents under the high for the week.

Offerings weighing up to 235 lbs, mostly mixed grades, brought $16.25-16.75 and heavier weights $15-16.25. Sows were $14.25 and down.

Offerings of slaughter steers and heifers were too meager to test prices. Some good and choice steers cleared at $23.50-27.50 and a few good and low choice heifers at $25.50.

Vealers sold up to $32 for choice and bulls up to $21 for commercial grade.

Only 100 sheep and lambs were offered and no sales were reported.

New Approach To Farm Issue Asked In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee proposed Friday a new approach to the farm problem which it said the Eisenhower administration has failed to solve during the past seven years.

In a bill setting aside $3,964,781,500 to finance the Agriculture Department for a year starting July 1, the committee urged use of huge government stocks of surplus foods as an inductment to farmers to cut production.

The committee called overproduction the most serious problem facing farmers, noting that the government now owns $9,200,000,000 worth of surplus commodities acquired through various farm programs.

It suggested that the department be given authority to encourage growers of wheat, corn and feed grains to cut production up to 25 per cent in exchange for an equal quantity of government surpluses.

Such an interim program, the committee said, would cut down on huge storage costs, reduce price support payments, and hold down farmers' production costs.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Rye and the feed grain futures worked out of early weakness Friday on the Board of Trade but wheat and soybeans finished in a steady to weak range.

Trade was unusually dull and limited mainly to evening up commitments for the weekend as dealers looked forward to the government's May crop report to be released next Tuesday.

Wheat closed 1/8-1 1/8 cents a bushel lower, May $2.07 1/4-1/2; corn 1/8-3/8 higher, May $1.17 1/8-3/4; oats 1/2-3/4 higher, May 76 1/4; rye 1/2-3/4 higher, May $1.23 5/8; soybeans unchanged to 1/4 lower, May $2.13 5/8-3/4.

POULTRY

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Live poultry: no prices reported due to insufficient receipts.

DURING WEEK

Stock Market Full Of Drama

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street analysts found this week's stock market full of drama and surprises. And they were in considerable disagreement about what lies ahead.

"Wall Street saw a bit of dramatic action," said Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co., recalling the market's successful stand just above the 1960 lows Monday and the big rally Tuesday.

"It was almost like playing football," he said. "The enemy team had the ball and the 'bull' team backed up to its one-yard line. The 'bulls' were desperate.

"But just when the situation looked black as the ace of spades, the market held its ground. So, early Wednesday, when prices refused to give another inch, a rally set in. Some of the 'shorts' ran to cover and traders began to buy here and there."

B. K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu & Stetson said the rally further confused sentiment and extended the record of surprises which have been a consistent feature of this year's market.

If the rally fails to resume, said Thurlow, "breaking of the lows could bring heavy general selling as nervous optimisim turns into outright fear."

In that event, the decline could be quite severe, he said.

"Such action," according to the analyst, "would be highly disturbing but it also could bring back to reality some of the confused notions of value and the wild-eyed earnings forecasts that have been current lately, and at the same time bring a worthwhile selling climax from which a sustained rise can follow."

He contends that the main trouble with the market is that too many inexperienced speculators are trading in and out without any real notion of what they are doing.

Stop 'Attack' On NATO, Reds Told By Herter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter Friday called on Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to stop his "attack" on some North Atlantic treaty nations and his efforts to sow dissension between them.

Herter's statement, made as returned here from a 10-day trip to Tehran and Istanbul, did not mention Russia's downing of an American plane. But officials said his reference to "attack" was keyed partly to this episode.

The secretary attended a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization in Tehran and a NATO council session in Istanbul.

He said "the significant outcome of the discussions" was a unanimous agreement that tensions with Russia cannot be eased "while the Soviet Union continues its attack on some members of the alliance and seeks to sow dissension between them.".

En route home, Herter stopped off to visit King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece. He said he had "fruitful discussions with Greek officials and a pleasant visit with their gracious majesties."

"Both the NATO and CENTO conferences were eminently successful," he said. "They afforded opportunities for thorough exchanges of views on specific problems and talks relating to the alliances themselves and on the international situation generally, with particular reference to the forthcoming summit meeting in Paris."

Hearst Named Vice President

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — David W. Hearst, 45, son of the late William Randolph Hearst, Friday was named a vice president and director of the Hearst Corp., and the late publisher's eldest grandson, George R. Hearst Jr., took over as publisher of the Los Angeles Evening Herald-Express.

David Hearst, publisher of the Herald-Express for 15 years, will head a West Coast office of the corporation.

"The naming of David W. Hearst as head of the new West Coast office will enable him to devote full time to the further development and diversification of the Hearst Corp. properties," a corporation statement said.

San Francisco Bay, a landlocked harbor, has an area of 459 square miles. It is 48 miles long and four to 13 miles wide. The Golden Gate entrance is 63 fathoms deep.

Stock Market Unsteady, No Change Noted

And the irregularity with which the market closed the week, kept commentators in a predicament. Those who were impressed by the mid-week rally saw the renewed uncertainty a technical reaction to the substantial gains of the Tuesday - Wednesday rise, and thought there might be a further gain shortly, possibly to the April highs. Others said the inability of the rise to generate any real support indicated the likelihood for a further test of the March lows.

Electronics, apparently without reason, piled up gains ranging close to 7 points in Texas Instruments. Clevite and Beckman gained around 3; Transitron and International Business Machines 2 points.

Polaroid shot up another 5 1/2 in the cameras. There were gains of 3 1/8 in Adams-Millis, 4 5/8 in Haveg, 4 General American Transportation, 5 Universal Match.

On the other hand, Crane, Minnesota - Mining, International Paper, Du Pont lost 2 points or more.

American Motors, most active stock in three sessions during the week, continued near the top of the list but dipped a bit in a narrow auto group. Ford managed a gain of close to a point.

International Telephone, up 1 1/2 points, was the active leader, followed by Jersey Standard, off 3/8; Nickel Plate, up 1 3/4; American Motors and General Motors.

Big movers were Fairchild Camera ahead nearly 4, Giannini Controls up 2 3/4, erojet - General up 2. Electronics Corp., American Electronics and Polaroid up more than a point, Cubic up 7/8 and Du Mont Labs down 5/8.

Electronics and Polarad up more than a point, Cubic up 7/8 and Du Mont Labs down 5/8.

COTTON

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures closed 25 cents a bale higher to 25 cents lower Friday.

Trading was slow but all active months were higher for the day, supported by trade and local buying. Hedge selling was light.

Distant 1961 crop trading months, which were inactive, closed irregular on bid prices.

There was one May delivery notice issued.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Cotton futures were inactive here again Friday. It was the second consecutive day without a single trade and the ninth time in the history of the Cotton Exchange that the market was tradeless. Closing prices were steady, 20 cents a bale higher to five cents lower.

TAX RECIPTS

Treasury tax receipts which had been running below the level of last year, took a sharp turn for the better in the last two weeks, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported. As a result the Treasury increased its deposits in major commercial banks around the country to give an unlooked for assist in improving these banks reserve positions.

BUYING SLACKENS

The pace of retail buying in the nation this week slackened from the previous week but was 4 to 8 per cent higher than a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported. Meanwhile the Commerce Department reported March retail sales climbed by 1 per cent over the previous month to $17,463,000,000 and were up 2 per cent compared with the 1959 month.

ECONOMY SPURTS

The nation's economy appears to be pulling out of its late-winter doldrums, although the evidence continues mixed, according to the New York Federal Reserve Bank. Auto sales increased "smartly" in April and department store sales were at a record, in addition industrial production "may have steadied in April."

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK (AP)—

Stocks—Mixed; airlines and aircrafts advance.

Bonds — Higher; governments advance.

Cotton—Higher; mill buying.

CHICAGO:

Wheat—Mostly easy; old crop weak.

Corn — Slightly higher; short covering.

Oats—Higher with corn.

Hogs—Steady to 50 cents lower; top $17.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP) — The butcher hog market softened Friday with prices as much as 50 cents lower with most of the setback on weights over 230 lbs.

Buyers paid a $17 top for a few 200-215 lb weights including mixed No. 1 and 2 grades. It was equal to Thursday's peak and only 10 cents under the high for the week.

Offerings weighing up to 235 lbs, mostly mixed grades, brought $16.25-16.75 and heavier weights $15-16.25. Sows were $14.25 and down.

Offerings of slaughter steers and heifers were too meager to test prices. Some good and choice steers cleared at $23.50-27.50 and a few good and low choice heifers at $25.50.

Vealers sold up to $32 for choice and bulls up to $21 for commercial grade.

Only 100 sheep and lambs were offered and no sales were reported.

BUTTER & EGGS

CHICAGO (AP) — Butter unchanged; 93 score AA 57½; 92 A 57½; 90 B 56½; 89 C 56; cars 90 B 57; 89 C 56½.

Eggs unchanged; 60 per cent or better grade A whites 33½; mixed 33¼; mediums 31; standards 32¾; dirties 31; checks 31.

POTATOES

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)—Potatoes: Idaho russets 7.25; Minnesota North Dakota Red River Valley pontiacs 4.00-4.15; new—California long whites 5.75-6.00; Arizona round reds 5.90-6.35.

New Approach To Farm Issue Asked In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee proposed Friday a new approach to the farm problem which it said the Eisenhower administration has failed to solve during the past seven years.

In a bill setting aside $3,964,781,500 to finance the Agriculture Department for a year starting July 1, the committee urged use of huge government stocks of surplus foods as an inductment to farmers to cut production.

The committee called overproduction the most serious problem facing farmers, noting that the government now owns $9,200,000,000 worth of surplus commodities acquired through various farm programs.

It suggested that the department be given authority to encourage growers of wheat, corn and feed grains to cut production up to 25 per cent in exchange for an equal quantity of government surpluses.

Such an interim program, the committee said, would cut down on huge storage costs, reduce price support payments, and hold down farmers' production costs.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Rye and the feed grain futures worked out of early weakness Friday on the Board of Trade but wheat and soybeans finished in a steady to weak range.

Trade was unusually dull and limited mainly to evening up commitments for the weekend as dealers looked forward to the government's May crop report to be released next Tuesday.

Wheat closed ⅛-1⅛ cents a bushel lower, May $2.07¼-½; corn ⅛-⅜ higher, May $1.17⅞-¾; oats ½-¾ higher, May 76¼; rye ½-¾ higher, May $1.23⅜; soybeans unchanged to ¼ lower, May $2.13⅝-¾.

POULTRY

DURING WEEK

Stock Market Full Of Drama

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street analysts found this week's stock market full of drama and surprises. And they were in considerable disagreement about what lies ahead.

"Wall Street saw a bit of dramatic action," said Eldon A. Grimm of Walston & Co., recalling the market's successful stand just above the 1960 lows Monday and the big rally Tuesday.

"It was almost like playing football," he said. "The enemy team had the ball and the 'bull' team backed up to its one-yard line. The 'bulls' were desperate.

"But just when the situation looked black as the ace of spades, the market held its ground. So, early Wednesday, when prices refused to give another inch, a rally set in. Some of the 'shorts' ran to cover and traders began to buy here and there."

B. K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu & Stetson said the rally further confused sentiment and extended the record of surprises which have been a consistent feature of this year's market.

"And," he added, "our guess is that the surprises are far from over."

If the rally fails to resume, said Thurlow, "breaking of the lows could bring heavy general selling as nervous optimisim turns into outright fear."

In that event, the decline could be quite severe, he said.

"Such action," according to the analyst, "would be highly disturbing but it also could bring back to reality some of the confused notions of value and the wild-eyed earnings forecasts that have been current lately, and at the same time bring a worthwhile selling climax from which a sustained rise can follow."

He contends that the main trouble with the market is that too many inexperienced speculators are trading in and out without any real notion of what they are doing.

Stop 'Attack' On NATO, Reds Told By Herter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter Friday called on Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev to stop his "attack" on some North Atlantic treaty nations and his efforts to sow dissension between them.

Herter's statement, made as returned here from a 10-day trip to Tehran and Istanbul, did not mention Russia's downing of an American plane. But officials said his reference to "attack" was keyed partly to this episode.

The secretary attended a meeting of the Central Treaty Organization in Tehran and a NATO council session in Istanbul.

He said "the significant outcome of the discussions" was a unanimous agreement that tensions with Russia cannot be eased "while the Soviet Union continues its attack on some members of the alliance and seeks to sow dissension between them."

En route home, Herter stopped off to visit King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece. He said he had "fruitful discussions with Greek officials and a pleasant visit with their gracious majesties."

"Both the NATO and CENTO conferences were eminently successful," he said. "They afforded opportunities for thorough exchanges of views on specific problems and talks relating to the alliances themselves and on the international situation generally, with particular reference to the forthcoming summit meeting in Paris."

Hearst Named Vice President

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — David W. Hearst, 45, son of the late William Randolph Hearst, Friday was named a vice president and director of the Hearst Corp., and the late publisher's eldest grandson, George R. Hearst Jr., took over as publisher of the Los Angeles Evening Herald-Express.

David Hearst, publisher of the Herald-Express for 15 years, will head a West Coast office of the corporation.

"The naming of David W. Hearst as head of the new West Coast office will enable him to devote full time to the further development and diversification of the Hearst Corp. properties," a corporation statement said.

He and his twin brother, Randolph, are the youngest of the late publisher's five sons.

San Francisco Bay, a land-locked harbor, has an area of 459 square miles. It is 48 miles long and four to 13 miles wide. The Golden Gate entrance is 63 fathoms deep.

Stock Market Unsteady, No Change Noted

And the irregularity with which the market closed the week, kept commentators in a predicament. Those who were impressed by the mid-week rally saw the renewed uncertainty a technical reaction to the substantial gains of the Tuesday - Wednesday rise, and thought there might be a further gain shortly, possibly to the April highs. Others said the inability of the rise to generate any real support indicated the likelihood for a further test of the March lows.

Electronics, apparently without reason, piled up gains ranging close to 7 points in Texas Instruments. Clevite and Beckman gained around 3; Transitron and International Business Machines 2 points.

Polaroid shot up another 5½ in the cameras. There were gains of 3⅛ in Adams-Millis, 4⅜ in Haveg, 4 General American Transportation, 5 Universal Match.

On the other hand, Crane, Minnesota - Mining, International Paper, Du Pont lost 2 points or more.

American Motors, most active stock in three sessions during the week, continued near the top of the list but dipped a bit in a narrow auto group. Ford managed a gain of close to a point.

International Telephone, up 1½ points, was the active leader, followed by Jersey Standard, off ⅜; Nickel Plate, up 1¾; American Motors and General Motors.

Electronics issues once again featured an irregularly higher and moderate session on the American Stock Exchange.

Big movers were Fairchild Camera ahead nearly 4, Giannini Controls up 2¾, erojet - General up 2, Electronics Corp., American Electronics and Polaroid up more than a point, Cubic up ⅞ and Du Mont Labs down ⅝.

Electronics and Polarad up more than a point, Cubic up ⅞ and Du Mont Labs down ⅝.

'STEP FORWARD,' HE SAYS

Ike Signs Civil Rights Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new 1960 civil rights bill with provisions to protect the voting rights of Negroes and other minorities became law Friday without fanfare.

Congress struggled over the measure for months, and it tied up the Senate for a week of around-the-clock sessions before it went to the White House over two weeks ago.

Signing it, President Eisenhower called the new law "an historic step forward in the field of civil rights."

"With continuing help from all persons, the new law will play an important role in the days ahead in attaining our goal of equality under law in all areas of our country for all Americans," the President said.

He invited Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and Deputy Atty. Gen. Lawrence Walsh to watch the signing. He gave them the two pens he used.

Rogers said he hoped responsible state officials would act voluntarily to eliminate discrimination at the polls but if they don't, he said the Justice Department would investigate complaints promptly and "proceed vigorously."

The law contains provisions against bombings, against interference with federal court orders, and for federally authorized school facilities for children of servicemen if the public schools in their areas are closed to avoid desegregation orders.

It sets up a new procedure under which the attorney general could file suit asking courts to find there is a pattern of discrimination against the exercise of voting rights.

If such a finding is made, court-appointed referees could hear complaints from those discriminated against. If the referee found such persons qualified under state law, he could order that they be permitted to register and vote.

Eisenhower commented that the new law is only the second civil rights measure passed by Congress in 85 years. He said both it and the 1957 law were built on recommendations of the administration.

With Southerners leading the fight against civil rights legislation, Congress discarded several recommendations of the Eisenhower administration or of Northern Democrats. These included broad authority for the attorney general to seek injunctions in civil rights cases, and a permanent commission to fight race discrimination in employment on federal contracts.

Eisenhower said the new provision requiring that election records be kept for 22 months and shown to Justice Department representatives on demand "will be of invaluable aid in the successful enforcement of existing voting rights statutes."

One section makes obstruction of U. S. court orders "by threats or force" a federal crime punishable by up to $1,000 fine and a year in prison.

Another section makes flight to avoid prosecution for bombing a religious or educational structure, home or other building, or the interstate transportation of explosives for such a purpose a federal crime. Penalties range up to a $10,000 fine and 10 years in prison, or death if the explosion causes loss of life.

Tension Relaxing Impossible, Says Christian Herter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Friday a true relaxing of East-West tensions is impossible "while the Soviet Union continues its attacks" on some of the Western nations.

He declared that was the consensus of foreign ministers who attended meetings of the Central Treaty Organization and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization held respectively in Tehran and Istanbul.

The ministers also agreed, Herter said in a statement on his return, that "exaggerated hopes for agreement (at the summit conference) should not be entertained."

'STEP FORWARD,' HE SAYS

Ike Signs Civil Rights Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The new 1960 civil rights bill with provisions to protect the voting rights of Negroes and other minorities became law Friday without fanfare.

Congress struggled over the measure for months, and it tied up the Senate for a week of around-the-clock sessions before it went to the White House over two weeks ago.

Signing it, President Eisenhower called the new law "an historic step forward in the field of civil rights."

"With continuing help from all persons, the new law will play an important role in the days ahead in attaining our goal of equality under law in all areas of our country for all Americans," the President said.

He invited Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and Deputy Atty. Gen. Lawrence Walsh to watch the signing. He gave them the two pens he used.

Rogers said he hoped responsible state officials would act voluntarily to eliminate discrimination at the polls but if they don't, he said the Justice Department would investigate complaints promptly and "proceed vigorously."

The law contains provisions against bombings, against interference with federal court orders, and for federally authorized school facilities for children of servicemen if the public schools in their areas are closed to avoid desegregation orders.

Its heart, however, is aimed at helping Negroes and other minorities overcome discrimination against them at the ballot box.

It sets up a new procedure under which the attorney general could file suit asking courts to find there is a pattern of discrimination against the exercise of voting rights.

If such a finding is made, court-appointed referees could hear complaints from those discriminated against. If the referee found such persons qualified under state law, he could order that they be permitted to register and vote.

Eisenhower said the referee provision "holds great promise of making the 15th Amendment fully meaningful."

Eisenhower commented that the new law is only the second civil rights measure passed by Congress in 85 years. He said both it and the 1957 law were built on recommendations of the administration.

With Southerners leading the fight against civil rights legislation, Congress discarded several recommendations of the Eisenhower administration or of Northern Democrats. These included broad authority for the attorney general to seek injunctions in civil rights cases, and a permanent commission to fight race discrimination in employment on federal contracts.

Eisenhower said the new provision requiring that election records be kept for 22 months and shown to Justice Department representatives on demand "will be of invaluable aid in the successful enforcement of existing voting rights statutes."

One section makes obstruction of U. S. court orders "by threats or force" a federal crime punishable by up to $1,000 fine and a year in prison.

Another section makes flight to avoid prosecution for bombing a religious or educational structure, home or other building, or the interstate transportation of explosives for such a purpose a federal crime. Penalties range up to a $10,000 fine and 10 years in prison, or death if the explosion causes loss of life.

Tension Relaxing Impossible, Says Christian Herter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said Friday a true relaxing of East-West tensions is impossible "while the Soviet Union continues its attacks" on some of the Western nations.

He declared that was the consensus of foreign ministers who attended meetings of the Central Treaty Organization and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization held respectively in Tehran and Istanbul.

The ministers also agreed, Herter said in a statement on his return, that "exaggerated hopes for agreement (at the summit conference) should not be entertained."
